PREVIEW OF A SUPER FLATTOP. This is an artist's conception of the Navy's USS Forrestal, giant supercarrier scheduled for launching in the fall. The model illustrates the fixed island structure and canted flight deck which were decided upon after the keel was laid. Also shown are the four deck elevators, three on the starboard side and one on the port side. One of the elevators is in lowered position. White deck lines mark catapult launching positions. Hinged radio antennae lining flight deck are lowered during plane launching.

Party Leader Hall Critical Of McCarthy

Dispute With Army Has Done More Harm Than Good, He Says

OMAHA (AP)—Chairman Leonard W. Hall of the Republican National Committee says Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) "has done more harm than good" in his trade of verbal blows with top Army officials.

As a result, said Hall, McCarthy's "Senate effectiveness has diminished in the past few weeks."

Strong Criticism

Hall's statement in an interview last night came as one of the strongest criticisms of the Wisconsin senator yet put out by a high GOP official. Several weeks ago Hall described McCarthy as an asset to the party.

McCarthy, chairman of the Senate Investigations subcommittee, could not be reached for immediate comment.

McCarthy and subcommittee Counsel Roy Cohn have tangled with Secretary of the Army Stevens and John G. Adams, assistant Army counsel, with:

1. An Army report alleging McCarthy and Cohn sought special treatment for a former subcommittee aide now in the Army.

2. McCarthy's counter charge that Stevens and Adams used "blackmail" tactics in efforts to block the subcommittee's search for Reds in the Army.

Outside Lawyer Sought

The subcommittee is now looking for an outside lawyer to help investigate the row.

Asked about the McCarthy-Army exchanges, Hall said "the dispute has hurt. Any dispute hurts."

His comment came just before he talked about campaign strategy at a banquet gathering of the Midwest and Rocky Mountain Republican State Chairmen's Assn.

"There is one person who always speaks for our party," Hall said in his dinner speech, "and that is Dwight D. Eisenhower. Don't let anybody tell you that because of quarrels in Washington that there is no unity and no leadership."

The GOP national chairman told an enthusiastic audience that the big campaign issues this year would be the economic health of the nation and the "never ending" battle with communism.

On the first count, Hall declared "the Eisenhower administration

2 More Japanese Fishing Vessels Reveal Effects of Radiation From H-Bomb

DIG INTO HEALTH OF H-BOMB CASUALTIES. Medical experts from the United States and Japan get together behind closed doors in the Tokyo foreign office to investigate the effects of the Bikini H-bomb blast of March 1. The medical conference is looking into the effects of the explosion on human casualties. The United States team is on the right and the Japanese delegation faces them.

Men Aboard Ships Escape Serious Harm

One Was 780 Miles From Blast Area, the Other 200 Miles Away

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese reaction to American hydrogen bomb tests mounted anew today after two more fishing boats returned from the Marshall Island area showing radiation effects.

The Japanese government officially informed the U.S. that the first boat to be effected, the Fukuryu Maru (Lucky Dragon)—was 40 miles outside the prescribed test danger zone when it was showered with atomic ash March 1.

Crews Unharmed

The two latest fishing boats showing radiation were quarantined. However, they apparently escaped serious harm and no fears for the crew have been expressed by Japanese officials.

One had been operating some 780 miles from the Bikini test site and the other was about 200 miles away.

The Japanese government's note handed U.S. Ambassador John M. Allison reached no "conclusions." It outlined a report on a government investigation.

The note said "there is no evidence that the Fukuryu Maru received warnings, by radio message or any other means, while being in the area before the accident occurred."

The new developments came as government officials began to compile the cost of the incident in order to give the U.S. a bill.

Men Flown to Tokyo

The 23 crewmen of the "Lucky Dragon" were reported improving "on the surface." An Air Force plane was sent to Yaizu to bring 21 of the men to Tokyo for further medical care. The two most seriously burned crewmen are already in Tokyo hospitals.

The two latest fishing boats to show signs of radiation are the Myojin (Bright God) Maru, which returned to Shiogama north of Tokyo, and the Koei (Radiant Glory) Maru, which returned to

Pilot 'Lassoes' Derelict With Stream of Air

Novel Plane Maneuver Succeeds in Waving Runaway Out to Sea

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A Navy jet fighter pilot who wing-waved a runaway jet out to sea to avoid possible land disaster said today he could have pushed it with actual contact.

Lt. (J.G.) C. W. Vandenberg, 25, Ripon, Calif., flying at 300 miles an hour in his F9F6 Cougar fighter, turned the other Cougar away from its beeline for the populated coast after its pilot had bailed out over the ocean.

He maneuvered his wing tip under the runaway, which had righted itself out of a spin 80 miles from here, and managed to swing it around 180 degrees. It crashed at sea.

"The air flowing over the wing of my plane," Vandenberg said, "was enough to lift the other plane's wing and tilt it around.

"I didn't touch wings with the other plane, but even if I had, it was flying steadily enough so that there would have been little danger."

Lt. (J.G.) J. R. Maccoun, 23, Dutch Flat, Calif., son of retired U.S. Coast Guard Rear Adm. W. E. Maccoun, bailed out with ejector apparatus after his jet went into the spin from 22,000 feet.

The plane unaccountably righted itself at 4,000 feet, rose to 8,000 feet and headed for San Diego.

Navy aviators said they believed Vandenberg's maneuver was something new in aviation history.

Maccoun was rescued from the sea by a Navy anti-submarine helicopter, which let down a rope after being contacted by a third jet pilot in the practice gunnery flight from San Diego's Miramar Naval Air Station, Ens. B. G. Huntley, 22, La Jolla, Calif. All three pilots are attached to Fighter Squadron 112 at Miramar.

U.S. Resolution Attacking Reds Wins Approval

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—A full-dress session of the 10th Inter-American Conference formally approved last night the U.S. resolution calling for collective action to keep communism out of the Western Hemisphere.

Seventeen republics voted for the measure, with only Guatemala voting against it. Mexico and Argentina abstained.

Passage of the resolution was a major diplomatic victory for U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, who extended his stay in Caracas at the beginning of the conference to fight for his anti-Red doctrine.

The overwhelming vote of approval served notice on Moscow that Red infiltration of the Americas would be considered in the same light as a foreign invasion. The resolution calls on the Western Hemisphere republics to take steps toward collective action in case the sovereignty of any member nation is threatened by international communism.

U.S. Will Stick To Plan To Cut Butter Prices

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has indicated it is sticking to its support lowering plan that is expected to bring down the price of butter April 1.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said last night he heard the Agriculture Department might make a last minute switch away from its announced plan to drop dairy price supports from 90 per cent to 75 per cent of parity April 1.

Parity is a price declared to be fair to farmers in terms of what they must buy.

But Undersecretary of Agriculture True D. Morse, head of the Commodity Credit Corp. which handles price supports, said he knew of no change.

The government apparently is going on, too, with a purchase and resale plan on dairy products which McCarthy criticized. He said he has assigned aides of his Senate investigations subcommittee to look into some financial aspects of the shift to lower supports.

Until April 1, the government is committed to buy all the butter offered it at 65 cents a pound, Chicago basis. It is getting more than three million pounds a day.

Taft-Hartley Revision Seen By Next Week

Senator Reports Last Obstacle Removed for Labor Group's Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) today predicted the Senate Labor Committee will complete its Taft-Hartley revision bill next week.

Smith said in an interview a letter he received from President Eisenhower yesterday, on the controversial question of states' rights in the field of labor relations, had removed the last obstacle to speedy action by his committee on a measure to offer to the Senate.

It was learned that the only major White House recommendation which will not be in the committee bill is the proposal for government-supervised votes to be taken when disputes reach strike stage. All committee Democrats and a couple of Republicans have balked at that whole idea.

The major portion of the President's letter, sent to Smith after his urgent request for White House guidance on the question of federal vs. state jurisdiction, simply restated in somewhat different language what Eisennower already had told Congress in his Taft-Hartley message last January.

The letter also proposed one change in the law not mentioned in the January message. This would give the states freedom to act on a labor dispute involving interstate commerce, and thus within the scope of Taft-Hartley, if the National Labor Relations Board "refused to assert jurisdiction."

Such a provision would wipe out what has become known as a "no-man's land" of labor disputes which the NLRB refused to handle and states could not take over.

Card Game Broken Up

7 Arrested on Gambling Charges in Raid on Hotel

Seven Marion men were arrested and charged with violation of state gambling laws in a raid at the Snyder Hotel on N. State St. early this morning by city police.

Police Captain George Manley led the raid after police received a tip from an unnamed person that the men were gambling in the "Jade Room" at the hotel.

When police walked into the room at 3:07 a.m. today they found the seven men seated around a table with cards and money on the table in front of each man and some $2.50 in the center of the table in "the pot," according to police reports of the raid.

Police Chief Thomas B. Coon said the seven men were charged with violation of state laws, rather than with violation of a new city anti-card playing ordinance, because evidence of gambling was present and the state laws were more appropriate.

Charged with being the keeper of a gambling place was Max C. Diamond, 40, manager of the hotel.

Charged with playing cards for money were William T. McGraw, 26, of 328 Chestnut St.; John H. Patterson, 28, of 416 Summit St.; Carl E. Uline, 24, of 582 E. Mark St.; Frank B. Summerson, 35, of 317 Marion Ave.; Paul R. Lyons, 43, of 161 Garden St.; and Everett M. McCombs, 26, of 484½ Mound St.

In Municipal Court this morning all entered pleas of not guilty and Judge W. Dexter Hazen set a hearing for Tuesday. Diamond was released on a bond of $300 and the six other men on bonds of $50 each.

U.S. Will Consign B26s to Indochina

WASHINGTON (AP) — American crews soon will ferry a new flock of B26 fighter-bombers to Indochina where French fliers will use them in round-the-clock bombardment of Red divisions besieging vital Dien Bien Phu.

The Defense Department announced yesterday that 25 more B26s would be lent to the hard-pressed French, who are trying to repel Vietminh efforts to take the stronghold in time to give Red diplomats a talking point at April Asian peace talks in Geneva, Switzerland.

The U. S. also is sending ammunition and defense supplies. Already in action are 22 B26s and an undisclosed force of transports, some of which are piloted by civilian volunteers from this country.

Senators Say Atomic Attack Costs Withheld

Committee Predicts Plan Means Jump in Defense Expenditure

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators who know some of the top secret plans for defending this country against possible atomic or hydrogen attacks said today they have not been told estimated costs.

But Sen. Byrd (D-Va) and other members of the Senate Armed Services Committee expressed conviction that the measures contemplated would push the multi-billion dollar annual defense costs upward.

Manufacturer Testifies

Robert C. Sprague, electronics engineer and manufacturer, who has been explaining parts of the overall continental defense strategy, answered questions for Senate committeemen nearly three hours yesterday.

The day before he had outlined plans for what was described afterwards as effective but not airtight defense. It was understood that evacuation of cities and use of guided missiles against attacking planes were key factors.

Sprague will carry the proposals to President Eisenhower at the White House Tuesday morning accompanied by Chairman Saltonstall (R-Mass) and other senior members of the Armed Services Committee.

Byrd, after two days of secret testimony and questions, said in an interview he is confident that the Congress never would have whacked off a billion dollars of income by cutting federal excise taxes "if they had listened to Mr. Sprague."

Symington's View

Sen. Symington (D-Mo), former secretary of the Air Force, also made direct reference to the astonishing force of the latest hydrogen blast tests in the Pacific, saying

"We have been getting trickles of information with reference to

Unemployment Decline Noted By U.S. Group

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Bureau of Employment Security reports a number of those newly out of jobs going down in 32 states and the District of Columbia, increasing only in 16 states.

The government report made public yesterday, covering the week ended March 13, said the number of insured unemployed declined for a second straight week to 2,187,100.

At the Feb. 27 peak, the total was 2,213,959.

These figures do not include all the unemployed, since not all workers are covered by federal unemployment insurance.

Question Unanswered

Douglas and Party Near End of Washington Trek

WASHINGTON (AP) — This big question loomed today as Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas and a footsore band of hikers pushed toward Washington on the last leg of an 189-mile trek through roadless Maryland country:

Had Douglas convinced two Washington Post and Times-Herald editorial writers that construction of a motor parkway along the abandoned Chesapeake and Ohio Canal would "utterly destroy" the lovely woodland between the capital and Cumberland, Md.?

There was one sign that Douglas may not have helped his case by challenging writers Robert Estabrook and Merlo Pusey to walk the historic route with him. They had to take to horses at times because their feet gave out. That might be considered by lawyers to go to the merits of the controversy.

As the end of the eight-day grind drew near, Douglas still was setting a brisk three-mile-an-hour pace. But the 55-year-old justice, who climbs mountains for exercise, admitted he was "pretty tired."

The original party of 37 that had trudged out of Cumberland early last Sunday had dwindled to nine bona fide hikers by the time the group creaked into Seneca, Md., last night, about 18 miles from Washington.

Among the dogged survivors was Dr. George Frederick Miller, 73. He was limping.

With the Washington monument just a few miles away, The walk-

Story of Mamie's Life To Begin April 5

What has been the life of the woman at President Dwight D. Eisenhower's side through the 40 years of his ascent from Army lieutenant to President of the United States? This searching question is answered in The Marion Star will be a revealing, full-scale series on Mamie's life with Ike, starting Monday, April 5.

This is a story of the personal struggles and triumphs that led to the more publicized victories in war and politics. It tells how Mamie has managed as hostess to hundreds of celebrities and thousands of admirers who have sought out the general and his wife. It investigates the problems of maintaining a private life while in the public eye.

IT IS A BUBBLING, sometimes tragic portrait of a rewarding marriage. Mamie is a woman of "warmth and clear, full laughter" who has led an eventful frequently decisive life . . . and emerged with humor and compassion, and a smile almost as familiar as that of her famous husband's.

The articles, written by Dorothy Brandon, a New York Herald Tribune Washington correspondent, are crammed with pertinent anecdotes. On the light side, there are: Mamie's discussion of hot-water bottles with Queen Elizabeth; Ike's struggle for acceptance from Mamie's hoydenish younger sister "Mike"; the one war Ike fought that never got headlined (against a brigade of Panamanian bats); and Mamie's first venture at selling her furniture.

MRS. DWIGHT EISENHOWER
A Woman of 'Warmth and Clear, Full Laughter'

—:—

THERE ARE the more serious conflicts of Mamie's life . . . for instance, her wish for a permanent home, and the courage with which she moved from Army camp to Army camp (27 in all).

Whether sick from the heat in Manila, or sleeping beneath mosquito netting in the Canal Zone, Mamie fought her fears and discomforts and searched for friends and a life of congeniality. Prominently featured in these articles are the Eisenhower children . . . the first born "Icky" who died in early childhood; and the younger John, today an Army officer and veteran of the Korean War.

Dorothy Brandon undertook this never-before-published story of Mamie Eisenhower in August, 1952, months before the election, and was the only reporter granted extensive interviews with the First Lady. From this assignment, which led her into the Doud family, has come a revealing portrait of a vivacious person.

MRS. BRANDON has had a distinguished newspaper career. She was a reporter for the Philadelphia Public Ledger, the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette and the San Francisco Chronicle. From Manila in 1927, she corresponded for the United Press. Earlier she had filed stories for the Ledger Syndicate from India. She has worked as news editor on the Bangkok Daily Mail, which was owned by the King of Siam; and, as Mrs. Brandon says, "There were many occasions when I felt my legs would collapse from curtsying.

Her daughter Joan was born in Bangkok.

When she returned to America, Mrs. Brandon again joined the staff of the San Francisco Chronicle as women's editor and was later women's editor of the Se-

Goal Is 300 New Members

Membership Drive for 'Y' Opens at Dinner Meeting

The annual YMCA Enrollment Week opened last night with a banquet for 60 workers in the Church St. building.

Jack Bray, chairman of the enrollment week committee, told the group that the goal for the week from March 28 to April 2 is 300 new "Y" members. Emphasis this year, he said, is on adult members, though additional youth memberships will be welcome.

MEMBERSHIP totals provided by Bray showed nearly 1,500 youths and almost 800 adults joining in "Y" activities. This adult membership figure reflects a growth of 700 since the new building was opened last October.

To obtain the new enrollments this year, Marion has been divided into five districts. The leader and 20 workers in each district have lists of 250 names of people who might be interested in joining the "Y." The workers will contact these people and prizes will be awarded to leading "enrollers" in each district.

MEMBERSHIP FEES in the "Y" are $7.50 for grade school youths, $10 for junior and senior high school youths, $20 for adults; $5 for an adult social membership; $50 for health club memberships and $25 for sustaining memberships. Family rates also exist. Membership automatically entitles a person to full use of the "Y" facilities — swimming pool,

April 26

By George Sokolsky

Events move in their course toward fixed goals despite senatorial wranglings or political by-plays for personal power. Thus we approach the day, April 26, when the representatives of numerous nations will meet at Geneva to reconsider the problems raised by the Korean War, the principal one being whether one state, Red China, may set the precedent that a country can effectively shoot its way into the United Nations.

SOKOLSKY

For the United States, April 26 is a climactic day. When this conference at Geneva shall have met and resolved its affairs, this country will either have compromised its moral position by accepting an undesirable solution in order to appease and satisfy its allies and associates, thus losing moral stature; or it will have isolated itself diplomatically from its North Atlantic compatriots.

-:-

THE GRANTING of a seat in the United Nations is that important because it has been elevated into a major world issue upon Russian and British insistence. The Canadian overtone that Red China may be seated only after it has purged itself of bad habits, such as invading neighbors as in Korea or supporting a war as in Indochina, would seem to be a counsel of perfection if not a device of confusion.

Perhaps by April 26, the situation in Indochina will have sufficiently degenerated so that Red China will be able to say that there will be no further invasions either because they will have been made unnecessary for the moment or because there never has been any such invasion, since the well - armed, effectively led and equipped Chinese troops are volunteers anyhow.

The United States did not invade Spain during the Spanish Civil War, but the Abraham Lincoln Brigade did, and if that is a precedent for anything, it will surely be used.

In a word, we move again out of reality into dialectics and anyone can reach any conclusion he chooses in the hope that a wicked historic event can be made palatable.

SINCE 1945, the United States has pursued a policy which might be referred to as "North Atlantic Isolationism" for want of a better descriptive term. The concept has often been referred to as "Europe First." Its strongest manifestation was in NATO; its implementation was to have been the European Defense Community.

This is no haphazard improvisation. It is based on the assumption that if the North Atlantic countries can resolve their differences and join in a common political and economic formula, the rest of the world will fall into place as when one strikes the right key on an IBM machine.

The keystone of this international system is the Anglo-Saxon world under the united leadership of the United States and Great Britain.

Unfortunately, the Soviet Universal State denies the validity of such a system. It needs to be recalled that the diversionary Berlin Airlift was used as a cover for the final coup in China by which that country was placed irrevocably in the Soviet Universal State, thus altering the balance of power to the American disadvantage.

Gen. George C. Marshall only too late recognized the error of the North Atlantic Isolationism and lent his name to the Petition of the Committee For One Million Against the Admission of Communist China to the United Nations.

ONCE CHINA became part of the Soviet Universal State, Tibet was taken and the conquest of Korea and Japan was planned. Southward moved the Chinese Empire into the areas of Asia from which the Emperor Chienlung (1736-1795) had exacted tribute.

In effect, this meant that Indochina, Burma and such borderlands as Nepal, Bhutan and Assam were targets of conquest and that ultimately Thailand would be absorbed to give China a rounded economy by assuring an adequate supply of the food staple, rice.

It has been the concentration on Asia which the Kremlin forced upon the world that diverted nations from the North Atlantic to the South Pacific.

France, for instance, can make no final decisions as long as the Indochina War is in being; Great Britain is not free to make a final decision as long as India regards herself menaced by both great powers, the United States and Soviet Russia, and has chosen neutralism as a weapon, with a leaning toward Red China.

It is this neutralism that is forcing the United States into an alliance with Moslem countries, including Pakistan.

Up You Go!

My waggish readers, who brood over the plethora of panel sitows, have been writing in suggestions, again. In case you think there aren't enough panel gimmicks on the air, here are some ideas that haven't quite got on yet.

J. CROSBY

A man named Aaron Ruben, who has a strong streak of Charles Addams in him, has suggested a fine ghoulish game called "Up You Go." "This is a program in which you have a permanent panel of dynamitologists and bomb experts. A contestant is chosen from the audience and asked to disassemble a bomb. As the contestant goes about his task the members of the panel observe carefully and call out instructions. If the contestant ignores the instructions—"Up You Go!"

IN CASE THAT GAME isn't exciting enough, Mr. Ruben has another one called "Out You Go" played in a studio at least 20 stories high. The contestant is shown a series of windows—one of them, the real thing, the others papier mache. If he is unfortunate enough to dive through the real one, the next of kin pay for the broken window. If he doesn't, he gets many handsome prizes.

Mr. Ruben, for the more intellectual crowd, has another one called "In You Go," a thoughtful game in which lawyers and income tax experts closely question the contestant about his personal life. If the experts are any good at all, they should be able to pin a criminal rap on him in no time. He gets to choose the federal pen he prefers.

THEN SOMEONE ELSE—I forgot who—suggested "Name Your Mate." This would be a rather highly specialized game in which the contestants would be selected entirely from such folks as Tommy Manville or Barbara Hutton or the other much-married folk. The idea would be to see whether they could identify some of their early mates, three or four marriages back. This one ought to be jolly fun, especially if—as is highly probable—they can't.

If you think these games are a little rough on the contestants, you just don't realize how durable contestants are these days. Not so long ago, for example, on the "People Are Funny" program, they pitched a contestant in a tank of water, threw live crabs in the water and then threw lighted firecrackers at him. Just good clean fun.

And down in Philadelphia, on a program called "Stop Look Listen," Tom Moorehead, the emcee, just as a gag, gave a startled woman contestant a live four-foot alligator.

IT'S AWFULLY HARD to find anything a contestant won't do these days. The surface has barely been scratched in the capabilities of contestants to bare their souls or their bodies to public gaze in order to win the free cruise to Bermuda where presumably the sun will heal any wounds left by the firecrackers.

And, of course, you just never know what a contestant is going to bare when he starts unlimbering his life story. Not long ago, Groucho Marx stumbled on 97-year-old Ed Ryan, a contestant on "You Bet Your Life," who confessed that he was a technical survivor of Custer's last stand. He had, he said, been left behind on that historic occasion to care for a sick buddy. Disgusted at being left behind and therefore having avoided massacre, he deserted the Army and never went back.

Mr Ryan allowed that this was true.

"If I were you," Groucho told the white-bearded ancient, "I'd sneak back into that camp and keep my mouth shut. Of course, right at this minute 200 colonels in the Pentagon are getting dizzy thinking of your back pay."

Army Sergeant Faces Death in Murder of Girl

Convicted by Army Court of Strangling Daughter of Colonel

TOKYO (AP)—A Pennsylvania sergeant who confessed he got "complete sexual satisfaction" out of strangling to death a pretty little American girl was convicted today of premeditated murder and sentenced to die.

M. Sgt. Maurice L. Schick, 29 World War II Purple Heart veteran from Cannonsburg, Pa., stood stiff and erect, his face impassive, as he heard the verdict and sentence of a court-martial panel of three generals and four colonels.

He saluted the court, made a snappy military about-face, and marched back to his seat in the small, bare, whitewashed courtroom.

His jaw muscles contorted his face into a grimace for a moment. Then he set his face into a fixed half-smile which he held as he was led out in handcuffs.

His Army-appointed defense attorneys based their entire case on the contention Schick was insane when he strangled chubby, auburn haired Susan Rothschild 9-year-old daughter of an American Army colonel, at the huge Army housing area south of here last Nov. 21.

Supporting their contention that Schick was insane, the defense put two Japanese civilian psychiatrists on the stand. Both diagnosed Schick as schizophrenic.

One, Dr. Takeo Doi, said that Schick, while under influence of a so-called "truth serum," told psychiatrists that he killed two small French girls during World War II when they offered to trade sex for food.

Dr. Doi added, however, that Schick professed not to remember the two French killings when he came out from under the drug. Dr. Doi also told the court that the drug did not guarantee truthful accounts.

Pilots Aid Defense

By Victor Riesel

The air line pilots will not only now get you there safely, but their AFL union is weaving them into a special network of aerial observers to make certain there isn't a 25-mile wide radioactive hole where the airport and the destination city are supposed to be.

RIESEL

The little-known AFL Air Line Pilots Association has 116 councils across the U.S., its territories and the rest of the world. Special instructions have gone out to these civilian flier union councils to set up an intelligence system whereby the pilots, through their union headquarters, can swiftly report all sightings of strange ships, submarines and aircraft. Such craft could be carrying a "deliverable" H-Bomb, such as the one we're told could wipe out Washington and its environs in a single blast. So please don't disturb the pilot, he's got more than a dazzling, complex instrument board on his mind. . . .

SEVERAL OTHER unions have been fascinated by the many aspects of our atomic energy program and what wonderful things it could do in peacetime.

First of all, these big supermodern power plants are providing terrific employment as they go up. The Atomic Energy Commission is not only the nation's biggest single user of coal but is also the biggest single employer of AFL construction workers. The Commission is spending about $115,000,000 a month on new plants and equipment—fully one-twentieth of all buildings in the U.S. Most fascinating of these plants are the labs which are about to produce atomic motors for aircraft, which could, in a decade, make peaceful air travel as inexpensive as commuter runs now. . . .

The ladies will be happy to know that my friends in the Butchers Union tell me they've heard of atomic experimentation which has successfully kept meat fresh for 15 days instead of 76 hours—simply by irradiating the meat with tiny doses of gamma radiation from a "500 curie cobalt source." Now that the meat can be kept fresh, the American Meat Institute's Chicago Lab, with the help of the AEC, is testing whether the irradiation will harm human consumers. . . .

THIS IS A WARNING to women to make certain their hat bodies are not imported from Czechoslovakia.

Hat union chief Alex Rose tells me that "poison hats" are coming into the U.S. from behind the Iron Curtain. These imported chapeau chassis, once outlawed from our country, contain mercury which has given the hat blockers, as well as purchasers, a disease known in the trade as "hatters shakes." The Soviet hat trust uses the mercury to treat the felts—and then sells them cheaply on the world market. In the past year they've poured more than 200,000 such headcoverings into the states. . . .

There appears to be no way to stop the Russians from getting our valuable machinery. Under new Commerce Dept. regulations, U.S. exporters can now sell, without any government permission, 75 types of vital machines to anybody in the Western Hemisphere. Result is that the Soviet base in Guatemala and the Soviets' friend, Dictator Juan Peron, can purchase such items as steam turbines, generators, kerosene tractor engines, power excavators, dredging machines, trucks, tractor parts and refrigerating equipment badly needed in China. They can be and are being, transshipped behind the Iron Curtain.

WHILE THE Republican high command is absorbed with its heavily publicized troubles, labor leaders are whipping their political machines into shape to beat the GOP this fall. They've had a series of political workshop rallies in cities stretching from coast-to-coast.

The AFL, for example, has had its dynamic national political director, Jim McDevitt on the road for weeks now. In addition to outlining public relations techniques, he is pushing the strategy of assigning one AFL activitist to 15 or 20 families in each few streets of an industrial area. This would give Labor's League For Political Education the greatest political campaign coverage ever devised. And the AFL has the manpower to effect this, what with some 10,000,000 members on its lists. . . .

There is sentiment inside CIO for an all-out war on Teamsters Union chief Dave Beck. CIO, in some parts of the nation, has put out literature calling Beck names no one else would dare put into print. The Pennsylvania CIO has just charged the Teamsters with using "gangster tactics" in raiding other unions.

Meanwhile, Beck's union, with some 1,600,000 members, has not only invested $250,000 in a West Coast newspaper but is looking into similar opportunities in television and radio outlets.

Just watch the states' rights-over-labor battle develop. There are now 15 states which ban the union shop as well as the closed shop. Mississippi was the latest to take such action. The unions are bitter over the increasing restrictions on this and the dues check-off.

Honor Society Induction Set At High School

Forty-four Harding High School seniors will be inducted into the National Honor Society Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the school lunchroom. The meeting, scheduled for last Thursday, was postponed due to the storm warnings that day.

Faculty members, parents and board of education members will attend the ceremony. A reception following the program has been planned for the homemaking room. Girls of Miss Marcella Masters' class will be in charge.

Miss Isabel Freer, Harding dean of girls, will direct the induction ceremony. Helping her will be: Mrs. Everett Grigsby, Miss Mary Jo Stafford, Miss Ruth Turner, Miss Pansy Rauhauser and Miss Lucille Foreman.

Political Label Avoided by Sen. Burke

WASHINGTON (AP) — What handy political label can be attached to Sen. Burke (D-Ohio)—liberal or conservative?

The successor to the late Sen. Taft rejects both designations, saying: "I don't know just where I fit in down here yet."

But he does think that in his three months in the Senate he has fulfilled his pledge to support President Eisenhower wherever possible.

"That doesn't mean I will follow him blindly," Burke told an interviewer. "I also think I have a good Democratic record so far."

On at least two occasions Burke feels he supported Eisenhower even though — paradoxically—he seemed to be opposing the administration.

Votes for Both

One was to vote to tie the Hawaii and Alaska statehood bills together.

"I want both of them admitted," said Burke. "So did the President, during his campaign. Now he wants only Hawaii."

The other was his sponsorship, with Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) and others, of an amendment cutting excise taxes from 10 to 5 per cent on household appliances. The administration originally opposed reducing excise taxes generally, but later dropped the fight.

Burke said in view of this development he does not feel the administration objected to the Senate move.

On the other hand, Burke voted against the administration in supporting the substitute for the Bricker amendment on treaty powers proposed by Sen. George (D-Ga.).

"But I notice I voted against the Bricker amendment itself," he says.

Back George Proposal

Burke also has supported the George proposal to increase income tax exemptions from $600 to $800.

"I may want a second look at that one, though," he says, "if it appears that all these excise tax reductions will go through. I wouldn't want revenues to be cut too much."

Engaged in a floor fight with his colleague, Sen. Bricker, over a bill to remove federal authority over companies like East Ohio Gas Burke insisted the measure would hurt gas customers a lot. But he lost.

Was that a vote against the administration? "I hope not," he said.

Burke voted for an appropriation for the investigating committee of Sen. McCarthy (R - Wis). This wasn't through any admiration for McCarthy, he says, but because he felt, as did most senators, the investigative powers of the Senate must be upheld.

Finally, he not only supported, but led the vote to name a sanitary engineering project in Cincinnati after Taft.

"I was acting minority leader on that one," he said. "Sen. Johnson (D-Tex) (minority leader) had cautioned me to suggest a quorum was not present if any unanimous consent vote came up.

"But when I saw what the vote was, I had to disobey orders."

JENKINS ON RADIO

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Jenkins (R-Ohio) will be guest on a news program, World Front Panel, on Cincinnati radio station WLW at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow.

Sycamore Woman Receives Letter From Eisenhowers

SYCAMORE — A letter of congratulations from Mrs. Mamie D. Eisenhower was among the many cards received by Mrs. Louisa Lundy recently when she celebrated her 93rd birthday.

A relative had written to the Eisenhowers, notifying them of Mrs. Lundy's birthday anniversary.

She also received gifts from relatives. Dinner guests at her home included Mr. and Mrs. George Fadley, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Ruhlen and Harry Van Gundy, all of Sycamore; and Mrs. Adiar Wilbur Sr., Mrs. Adair Wilbur Jr. and son George, all of Port Clinton.

Mrs. Lundy, whose husband died many years ago, is in fair health and keeps house for herself and a brother at her home. Her maiden name was Van Gundy, a pioneer family in Sycamore.

It takes four tons of coal to make one ton of acetylene.

Three Wyandot Youths To Be Drafted Monday

UPPER SANDUSKY — Three Selective Service registrants from Wyandot County will be inducted into the armed forces at the Cleveland center, Monday. Registrants from the local board given preinduction physical examinations at Cleveland Wednesday were: Glen Smith, Harpster; Melvin Ross, Upper Sandusky; David Haferd, Carey; Norman Truman Ward, Wharton and Glen Howard Scheff, of near Bucyrus.

Robert Nachbar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Nachbar of Upper Sandusky, has reported for duty at Blanchard Valley Hospital, Findlay. His work there "will contribute to the maintenance of the national health, safety and interest," as provided by regulations on the registration of conscientious objectors.

SOPRANO, BASS TO SING

DeJon Morral Hassel, soprano, and Paul Fricke of Cardington, bass, will be heard on the Marion Entertains program at 1 p.m. Sunday over Station WMRN. The program is produced and directed by Griselda Davis Dombaugh.

Ohio Engineer Group To Hear Seaway Speech

General May Discuss Canal Link Between Erie and Ohio River

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — An address here tonight by Maj. Gen. Samuel D. Sturgis, chief of the Corps of Engineers, U.S. Army, will give the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers the official U.S. viewpoint on the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Delegates to the society's 76th annual convention were speculating today that Gen. Sturgis might have something to say on such related subjects as the Grand River flood control proposal and possibly a Lake Erie-Ohio River canal link.

Proposal Restudied

The Grand River proposal now is being restudied by the engineers' district office in Cincinnati. County commissioners in Mahoning and Trumbull counties recently adopted resolutions favoring the idea. Still to be heard from is the other county concerned, Ashtabula.

This proposal was the subject of hearings at the close of the Second World War, and would create a large reservoir above Youngstown.

Talk of a canal linking Lake Erie and the Ohio River has been heard since the late 1890's, and arose again when hearings were conducted on the Grand River proposal.

Yesterday in Columbus mayors of a number of cities on or near Lake Erie conferred with Gov. Frank J. Lausche about legislation needed to prepare their cities for the possible advent of world shipping when the St. Lawrence Seaway is completed.

In the course of their discussion Gov. Lausche mentioned "It is not beyond the realm of probability that Cincinnati and Ohio River towns may be connected to the ocean with a connection up the Ohio River to Lake Erie.

At convention sessions yesterday State Highway Director Samuel O. Linzell and T. J. Kauer, chief engineer of the Ohio Turnpike Commission, discussed the principal features of Ohio's highway construction program and the turnpike.

"This year, road construction contracts will be let for about 118 million dollars worth of work, said Linzell. This means plans will have to be approved for about $400,000 worth each working day, he declared.

Boys in Chamber Gilt Project Hear Swine Expert

Herbert Barnes Outlines Management Methods At Yearly Luncheon

Herbert M. Barnes, Ohio State University swine specialist, discussed management, feeding and nursing of sows and gilts at the 10th annual pure bred gilt luncheon yesterday at Hotel Harding.

Sponsored by the agriculture committee of the Chamber of Commerce, the luncheon was attended by 29 chamber members and guests. Five Marion area boys who received gilts from the Chamber of Commerce last year were guests.

BARNES, speaking primarily to the boys, said swine raising was a learning process as well as a business. Mistakes will be made but from them one can learn to be a better farmer, he said.

He gave the boys tips for having good-looking junior yearlings at the county fair this year. By fair time, the boy should have fat sows ready for a September litter, he said.

The Ohio State specialist gave the boys an OSU extension bulletin on growing and fattening swine. The boys included: Harold Lowery, Ronnie Gist, Richard Craycraft, Ralph Russell and Mannas Boger. Roy Klingel, who also received a gilt, was unable to attend the luncheon.

EACH BOY briefly discussed his gilt and its progress. Tqo former participants in the program, Don Loudenslager and Duane Green, told about hog-raising. They urged Chamber advisors to work closely with the boys and their gilts.

Advisors in the 1953-54 program are: Harley Mayers, Roy Holdridge, Ellwood Parrott, Fred Hoch and Joe Davis. Hodridge presided at the luncheon Art Smith, county agricultural extension agent, introduced Barnes.

Bureaucrats, Red Tape Hit in Russian Decree

Officials To Be Sent Out in Sticks To Work, Interpreters Believe

NEW YORK (AP)—A new and still unpublished Kremlin decree proposed to unravel the Soviet Union's vast entanglement of red tape and send tens of thousands of bureaucrats out to work for a living.

The existence of the decree was disclosed quite casually by Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev in a report he made last month to the Central Committee. The text of that report was published a month later in Soviet newspapers which have just reached here.

Bureaucrats Attacked

Speaking of what apparently will be sweeping measures against armchair experts and the quagmire of Soviet bureaucracy, Khrushchev said:

"We have to keep in mind that here we will meet stubborn resistance from bureaucrats who are used to doing business only with papers and cannot live without them. Bureaucrats and red-tape artists will not disappear from the earth simply because we have adopted a decree."

And that is how the public knows the Central Committee has adopted an anti-red-tape decree. But, as in the case of many important Soviet policy documents, it appears the full contents may never be revealed.

Its effects, however, already are being felt in Moscow and have been reported in the Soviet press.

Officials Put To Work

Tens of thousands of protesting Moscow officials, it would appear, are being shipped away from the bourgeois comforts of the capital.

Some of them are being put directly on "productive" work on farms, in machinery and tractor stations, and in factories.

The luckier among them will keep their office jobs but their offices will be in such relatively primitive cities of the Soviet Union as Novosibirsk and Irkutsk in Siberia, Dnepropetrovsk in the Ukraine and Archangel or Murmansk in the frozen north.

And some of the provisions of the decree become apparent from Khrushchev's report.

Staffs Cut

Here are a few of the things which are being done.

The staffs of central government offices in Moscow and elsewhere are being cut. The officials released from their jobs are in part being sent to "useful work."

Measures are being taken to improve the efficiency of all government and party offices—to reduce paper work, to reduce delays caused by bureaucratic procedures, to reduce the amount of direct supervision from officials in Moscow over enterprises in distant parts of the land.

Entire sections of some ministries are being uprooted from Moscow and established elsewhere—nearer to the branches of the economy they deal with.

Asked To Take Loss

Townfolk Beset by Bank Problems Face Decision

CLIO, Ala. (AP)—A creditors' committee sought unanimous agreement from depositors today to take a 10 to 15 per cent loss so a $75,000 deficit in the Clio Merchants Exchange can be liquidated without a court fight.

Eighty-six of an estimated 200 customers of the unchartered, uninsured money exchange agreed on the settlement at a mass meeting last night, but another 40 or so took the prepared agreement contracts home.

All Must Agree

The creditors' committee, headed by 29-year-old Mayor Dan Easterling, was empowered to act on behalf of the townspeople and the defunct Exchange provided all depositors are willing.

One dissenting vote, however would automatically void the proposed settlement because any disgruntled depositor could force the troubled affairs of the privately operated check-cashing agency into bankruptcy.

Absent from the meeting in the high school auditorium was Royal Reynolds, 40-year-old president of the Exchange whose 12-day disappearance earlier this month brought on an investigation which showed the $75,000 shortage in his accounts.

He was in jail in Clayton, Ala., the county seat, on embezzlement charges.

Mayor Easterling explained to the approximately 125 depositors who showed up last night that a court fight over the money would cause long delay in getting the money back to depositors and probably will result in a much smaller rebate.

He outlined it this way:

Enough money is on hand or in prospect from Reynolds himself to pay back 67 cents on the dollar. That includes $81,000 in exchange funds in an Atlanta bank, $13,500 in cash and converted assets such as government bonds and life insurance, plus an estimated $15,000 from the sale of Reynolds' house, furniture and all other personal property.

The mayor said the Exchange president and his wife have already deeded their fashionable brick home over to the depositors and cashed in $5,000 in bonds yesterday.

He asked only to be allowed to keep two or three pieces of furniture that belonged to his mother, who is dead.

The ultimate repayment of 85 or 90 cents on the dollar is based on the agreement of other members of the Reynolds family to give up some $33,000 in claims to their share of Exchange deposits, plus the 72-year-old nearly blind father's promise to put up $14,000 out of his pocket.

General Phone Owners Elect New Director

Officers Re-Elected At Annual Meeting Held in Marion Office

The annual shareholders meeting of General Telephone Co. of Ohio was held at the company's general offices in Marion Friday. One new member, Raymond H. Adkins of New Philadelphia-Dover, was elected to the board of directors. Other members are: Herbert K. Ames, Bryan; Frederick E. Jones, Columbus, Donald C. Power, New York, N.Y.; Harry B. Reese, Wellston; Robert E. White, Marion, and Clare E. Williams, Marion.

Atkins is president of the National Bank of Dover, a member of the Tuscarawas County and Ohio Bar Associations and a director of the Dover Chamber of Commerce.

The organizations meeting of the board of directors followed the meeting of shareholders. At the board meeting the former officers of the company were re-elected. Clare E. Williams is president; Robert M. Wopat, vice president; Herbert J. Vrooman, secretary-treasurer; Robert H. Henderson, controller; and Thorval L. Berg, assistant secretary and assistant treasurer. At the conclusion of the meeting, Vrooman was presented a 25-year service pin by Williams. Vrooman started with an affiliated company on March 25, 1929. He came to Marion in 1951 from a similar position with a General Telphone System company in Spokane, Wash.

Marion Engineer Elected by Group

Stephen W. Kuhner of Marion was elected secretary of the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers at the convention in Akron yesterday.

He is employed with Floyd G. Browne and Associates here.

Installed as president was Paul A. Harlamert of Cleveland, appointed in December by the trustees. Three vice presidents elected by the delegates included C. Raymond Hanes of Lima, Wallace T. Adams of Middletown and Lawrence H. Archer of Ada. Alfred H. Samborn was named treasurer.

"I was sent by the New York Herald Tribune to Denver (in August, 1952) to do a short series of articles on Mrs. Eisenhower. Outside of a few inconclusive magazine articles, little was known about her personality and background. My newspaper felt that its readers should have full details about the wife of the Republican candidate for the nomination . . . my publication naturally wanted as many facts as possible on Mamie Eisenhower. And it was equally natural that Mrs. Eisenhower was glad to give as much time as possible to a Herald Tribune reporter who was also a friend . . .

Help Ike, Senator Says

Ferguson Asks Speedup On Legislative Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) called today for a speedup in action on President Eisenhower's legislative program in what he said will be the make-or-break month of April.

Democrats, meanwhile, gibed at the Republican leadership for what they called failure to push through the President's proposals.

Action by May 1

Ferguson said in an interview he will ask the Senate Republican Policy Committee, which he heads, to consider next Tuesday a schedule aimed at bringing to the Senate calendar in the next five weeks all of the bills covering the President's major recommendations.

"Unless we get these measures out of committee by May 1 and on the calendar where they are ready for Senate action, I am afraid some of them just aren't going to get passed before our scheduled July 3 adjournment," he said.

The Michigan senator said he thinks the present uproar over the controversy between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and Army officials is obscuring the Eisenhower program.

Eisenhower has predicted that what he calls his "dynamic, progressive" program will be the principal issue in the November elections. He said that if Congress doesn't enact most of the program the Republicans won't deserve to retain control of the legislative branch.

Two Bills Passed

Thus far the Senate has passed. Thus far the Senate has passed and an excise tax measure not wholly pleasing to administration leaders, who had to accept more reductions in such levies than they would have liked.

The House has set a much faster pace but has not yet taken up measures involving the reciprocal trade program, social security expansion, farm price supports and revision of the Taft-Hartley act.

Sen. Knowland of California, the GOP floor leader, said he expects the foreign trade program to be discussed at the regular Monday meeting of GOP legislative leaders with the President. Ferguson said he assumed a presidential message on the subject would be forthcoming soon thereafter.

While Ferguson said he remains confident committees will expedite their work so the Senate can get some of the major proposals before it soon, Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) said he can see few signs of progress.

"Out of the 196 or more proposals the President has made in one form or another, the Republicans will be lucky to get a dozen through Congress," he said.

Mitchell Is Critical

Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell said in Gary, Ind., last night that because of the row between McCarthy and Army officials he doubts "if the average citizen even recalls that the President has a program."

"It is now 78 days since that so-called 'dynamic' program was unveiled—and so far we see not a single piece of it enacted," Mitchell said in a speech. "We await action on agriculture, on foreign trade, on the St. Lawrence Seaway, on Taft-Hartley, minimum wages, housing, social security, medical research, hospitals, highways, conservation, and all the rest."

There were unconfirmed reports Eisenhower might make some public move on behalf of his public housing recommendations, which were roughly handled by the House Appropriations Committee. He recommended a four-year construction program of 140,000 units. The House group proposed to end the work after 35,000 units were built. Democrats threatened a floor fight for public housing next week.

Appropriations Committee Chairman Taber (R-NY) said in an interview, "The public housing program is a racket . . . it just hasn't worked out like it was supposed to do."

Other Parts Approved

However, last night the House Banking Committee gave final approval to other parts of the administration's overall housing program. Key provisions aim at a stepped up slum clearance program and at lower down payments and longer repayment periods on government insured loans for new or old houses.

In a speech prepared for a Democratic dinner at Tell City, Ind. Sen. Kilgore (D-W.Va.) blamed Eisenhower for what he said was the failure of Congress to make any material progress on the administration's program.

"President Eisenhower himself has said that if the Republican Congress does not enact a dynamic program it does not deserve the confidence or the votes of the American people in the elections in November," Kilgore said.

Marion Man Uninjured in Car Accident

Police Report Driver Runs Off Road Into Ditch; Auto Wrecked

A young Marion driver narrowly escaped serious injury early this morning in an accident reported by the Marion post of the state highway patrol. City police reported one minor traffic accident.

At 5 a.m. today a car driven by Samuel L. Lessley, 19, of 214 Pennsylvania Ave. was demolished when it ran off a deadend road and into a ditch three miles north of Marion. Patrol officers reported that Lessley, apparently had fallen asleep while driving on Route 195. The car went across Route 4 at the point where Route 195 becomes a deadend, and broke fence posts and three gates owned by T. E. Sonnanstine of near Marion. Lessley walked away from the wreck with a cut on his hand and in a state of shock. He was not treated.

Minor City Accident

One minor, no injury accident was reported on Marion streets Friday by city police. It involved cars driven by L. O. Fulk, 61, of near New Bloomington and James C. Hush Jr., 26, of Savannah, Ga. It occurred at 4:47 p.m. at Silver and Breen Sts.

ers were buoyed by the promise of a truly regal welcome—and a blessed rest. The National Park Service promised to send a mule-drawn sight-seeing barge up the C and O Canal to transport them the last five miles or so.

The hike grew out of a Jan. 3 editorial in which the Post and Times-Herald backed proposals for a scenic parkway along the old C and O Canal.

Douglas entered a vigorous dissenting opinion in a letter to the newspaper. The justice also suggested that perhaps the editorial writers might change their minds about disturbing the country's solitude if they joined him in a footjourney through it.

Estabrook and Pusey picked up Douglas' gauntlet—but not without misgivings, which proved justified.

The hikers made at least 20 miles a day. They've trudged through snowstorms, waded rain-swollen streams, camped in the open in 20-degree weather and yesterday sweated as the temperature rose into the 70's.

But the welcome mat has been unrolled for them at comfortable fishing and gun clubs.

Dodge Resigning Post As Director of Budget

2 Soldiers Killed In Training Attack

SEOUL (AP)—Two soldiers of the U. S. 65th Infantry Regiment were killed yesterday during a live-fire infantry training attack in the 9th Corps area, the Army said today.

A third member of the unit was slightly wounded and two Korean soldiers serving with the unit were also wounded slightly, the Army said.

Names of the victims were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Two Drivers Arrested

Two traffic arrests were reported today by city police. Arrested were Earnest N. Hann, 18, of Merkle Ave., insufficient brakes; and Waldo B. Fast, 38, of near Attica, no safety chains to a trailer. Hann was to appear in Municipal Court today, Fast's hearing is set for March 29.

District Tri-Hi-Y Conference Slated Sunday at YMCA

About 120 young people from six communities will meet in the YMCA for a district Tri-Hi-Y conference Sunday.

Youths from Bucyrus, Upper Sandusky, Crestline, Mount Gilead, Galion and Marion will spend a social and educational day discussing several phases of the subject "Can Youth Accept Responsibility."

They will assemble at 1:30 p.m. for devotions and presentation of "buzz session" leaders, then split up into groups to discuss the following topics: "Are You Killing Others?" "Should 18-year-old Young People Vote?" "Are My Parents Too Strict?" "3-D, TV, and Comic Books?" and "Do I Have Any Responsibility to My Church?" Judge Edward Ruzzo of Juvenile Court will lead the group discussing the driving problem.

Following the "buzz sessions" the youths will use the swimming pool and other recreational facilities of the "Y" before hearing a dinner speech by Dr. Russell Bayliff of Ohio Wesleyan University. He will tie together the whole question of youth and responsibility.

Youths Pay for Prank By Pumping Up Tires

A carload of Marion juveniles who apparently decided to have a bit of Halloween type fun last night "paid" for it a few minutes later.

At 11:58 p.m. city police received a call that the carload of boys had pulled up near a car owned by Robert Hamor of 589 King Ave. and parked in the 500 block on Windsor St., piled out of their car, proceeded to let the air out of the tires of Hamor's car.

At 12:07 a.m., Hamor called police and told them to disregard the first call, that he and a friend had caught the boys and were punishing them.

The punishment — pumping the air back into the tires by use of a hand air pump.

Patrol Stops 13 Drivers in Area Traffic

Eight of 13 persons arrested for traffic violation yesterday by officers of the Marion post of the state highway patrol were slated to appear at a later date in Municipal Court.

Drivers and the charges were Andrew H. Sears, 27, Tiffin, speeding; J. H. Harmon, 24, 682 Bexley Ave., passing on the yellow line; John R. Pridgeon, 23, Pontiac, Mich., yellow line violation; James P. Mummey, 26, Delaware, speeding; Clyde J. Day, 23, Detroit, speeding; Ella Mae Robinson, Green Camp, no operator's license; Orvis Ferguson, 27, Detroit, speeding; and Robert W. Coffman, 20, 462 Thompson St., no operator's license.

Cited for speeding and ordered before Justice of the Peace R. R. Bennington of Mount Gilead Monday was Warren R. Long, 25, of South Solon.

Arrested and fined were Edward Carlin, 19, Warrensville Heights, speeding, fined $15 and costs by Mayor Don Healea of Cardington; Henry H. Schorr, 71, of Cardington, fined $10 and costs by Mayor Healea on a charge of passing on the yellow line; Paul M. Duguanne, 27, Newton Falls, no mud flaps, fined $15 and costs by Bennington; and Glin T. Banks, 25, Bedford, following too closely, fined $10 and costs by Ashley Mayor Ted Anderson.

"We have at long last developed a truly American foreign policy which meets the overseas Communist threat head-on and lays the responsibility where it belongs — in the laps of the Russians. Meanwhile at home we have both the willingness and the know-how for dealing with Communist inspired subversions.

All the Republicans have to do to win in 1954, Hall said, is "do what we did in 1952—get out the vote."

"If we do we will increase our membership in the Senate and House," he added. "We need them. Without stronger forces we can't carry out the President's program."

Marion Resident Named to Office in Lima Area WSCS

A Marion woman was elected to office in the WSCS of the Lima District, Methodist Church, Wednesday at Ada. Mrs. O. W. Cole of Kenton was elected president. More than 500 delegates and guests attended.

Miss Audrey Bolander was named secretary of missionary education and service in recognition of holding that office previously. Mrs. Edith Bush was presented a life membership pin and certificate. Mrs. W. A. Ginder of Marion is secretary of missionary personnel, a hold-over office.

Others elected as officers include Mrs. Harley Shick of Kenton, treasurer. Miss Gayle V. Zimmerman of Ada, secretary of student work. Mrs. Darrel Millsop of Belle Center, secretary of children's work, and Mrs. E. J. Cook of Upper Sandusky, secretary of supply work. Officers from this section of the district carrying over from last year include besides Mrs. Ginder Mrs. Paul Mogann of Kenton, secretary of status of women; Mrs. F. A. Huston of Ada, secretary of literature and publications; and Mrs. P. B. Hart of Mt. Victory, circle advisor. Installation service was conducted by Rev. Harold F. Kellogg, district superintendent.

The special speaker was Miss Theressa Hoover, field worker for the Woman's Division of the denomination whose theme was "Every Member an Evangelist." She told of her observations on recent tour of Methodist mission work in India and Pakistan, stressing need for endeavor on behalf of minority groups.

Hamilton, Columbus South Collide in Class A Final

Performance by Winners Disappoints Both Mentors

By MARTY BERCK

CLEVELAND (AP)—All in all, last night's Class A semifinal state basketball tournament games were far from outstanding—in the opinion of the two winning coaches.

The Hamilton Big Blues' Coach Warren (Porky) Scholler said his boys "were tryint too hard for effective shooting," though they managed to whip Canton McKinley 62-51 and held a slight edge over the Bulldogs almost from the starting buzzer.

George (Pug) Hood, whose Columbus South Bulldogs unhorsed the Kent Roosevelt Rough Riders 50-35, said "We played a terrible ball game and will have to do much better to get anywhere with Hamilton."

Hood, who leads Columbus against Hamilton in today's Class A state championship, was graduated from the Big Blue school in 1934.

Scholler said his Hamilton team didn't take the ball as often as they might, shot too often from the side and way out instead of maneuvering into a better position, and knocked too many down instead of banging on to them.

But his pessimism did not apply to the Big Blues' big gun, 6-5 Alex (Boo) Ellis, whom he said was "as good a player as any I've seen." Ellis connected with 12 field goals and 5 free throws for 29 markers.

Hood said his Columbus team's shooting was way off and "too much of the play was lackadaisical." Only 2 Columbus players hit double figures—Frank Howard, 6-5 center with 16, and Clarence Pointer, 6-2 forward, with 15.

Ellis, fast smart Hamilton shooter, is one player who really snowed he could develop, Coach Scholler says.

Ellis, who came to the tournament with 565 points this season and 1,049 during the past three years, was high man against Canton McKinley with 29 markers.

Scholler disclosed that the graceful, 17-year-old Negro:

Came to Hamilton as a 5-10 grader.
Shot up to 6-2 in his sophomore year.
Spent his junior year looking down from about 6-3½.
Stands now at 6-5.
And is still going up.

Coach Herman (Bup) Rearick came out of retirement this season to pilot the Canton McKinley Bulldogs, but the able football and basketball mentor saw the team eliminated in the state tournament for the sixth time since 1928.

Ellis was just too much for the Bulldogs, said Rearick.

Rearick, who left the Bulldogs 3 years ago after 11 seasons as coach, tutored the team to a 20-3 record going into the tournament Class A contest.

He played with the 1927 Dover team that won the state championship, and was coach of another Dover winning squad six years later.

Nats Pound Sox; Yanks Nip Brooks

By BEN OLAN

It was only a week ago that Manager Bucky Harris of the Washington Senators said, "we won't look good until our pitchers round into form."

That not-too-startling prediction looked mighty good today as the Senators found themselves the proud possessors of a five-game winning streak, due largely to the improved efforts of their mound corps.

The Senators have come a long way since they opened their exhibition schedule with nine straight setbacks. And now that their pitchers are clicking, they look more and more like a club that will give the other American League teams a lot of trouble this season.

Yesterday, righthanders Frank Shea and Sonny Dixon limited the Boston Red Sox to seven hits as Washington pounded out a convincing 10-1 victory.

In the last four games, the Nats' moundsmen have allowed the opposition only six runs. More important, Shea, Bob Porterfield, Connie Marrero and Chuck Stobbs, the pitchers Harris is counting on most, have been effective.

The Bosox, already weakened by the loss of Ted Williams and Jim Piersall, received another real scare when Billy Goodman was hit on the left elbow by one of Shea's offerings. X-rays, however, revealed Billy suffered only a bruise.

The New York Yankees, seemingly getting ready in earnest for coming American League pennant race, defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers, their perennial October victims, 8-4 as they exploded for three homers, two doubles and a pair of triples.

Gil McDougald, Yogi Berra and Gene Woodling hit for the circuit. Joe Collins and Eddie Robinson pounded the triples and Berra and Bob Cerv hit the two-baggers. Don Newcombe and Joe Black were the victims of the Yankee onslaught.

Veteran Jim Konstanty and rookie Paul Penson combined to stop Detroit with five singles and give the Philadelphia Phillies a 6-2 triumph. Konstanty, the National League's most valuable player in 1950, yielded four hits in the six innings he worked. Granny Hamner and Stan Jok hit homers for the Phillies.

Outfielder Gus Bell walloped an eighth inning two-run homer to lead Cincinnati to a 3-2 win over the St. Louis Cardinals. Bell's blow came off Memo Luna, a lefthander the Cards bought from San Diego last winter for $100,000. Rookie Wally Moon drove in both of the Redbirds' runs with a single.

Gene Conley and Ray Crone gave only one hit as the Milwaukee Braves hammered Atlanta 11-0. The lone safety was struck by Nat Peeples, the Southern Association's first Negro player. Ed Mathews homered for the Braves.

The other major league clubs weren't scheduled to play but they had some news. The Chicago cubs assigned pitchers Joe Kuncl and Don Watkins to Beaumont of the Texas League . . . Manager Paul Richards of the Chicago White Sox disclosed he planned to carry a staff of 12 pitchers into the regular season . . . Pittsburgh temporarily assigned 15 players, including pitcher Joe Page, to their Brunswick, Ga., training camp . . . Cleveland dropped utility infielder Owen Friend and four rookies from the roster for assignment to minor league farm clubs.

PAPA DIDN'T LIKE REF'S DECISION. Ref. Theodoro Horn is knocked to the floor by Thomas R. Metzger, Greenville, Mich., who in turn is being pulled away by Ionia druggist Max Koss and Metzger's daughter, Connie, a cheerleader, in an incident during a basketball game between Lowell and Greenville, Michigan high school teams, at Ionia, Mich. Scuffle occurred after Horn called a fifth foul on Metzger's son. Metzger pleaded guilty to assault but appealed a 30-day jail sentence and $50 fine as excessive. Background Lowell's Jim Wood and coach Clark Wurm.

German Whips Al Andrews in First U.S. Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—Gustav (Bubi) Scholz is no Marcel Cerdan but he'll do.

The 23-year-old unbeaten German middleweight, latest of a horde of foreign fighters to invade our shores in the past year, made his American debut last night by winning a unanimous 10-round decision over spunky Al Andrews of Superior, Wis.

A southpaw socker, the former Berlin cook floored the 23-year-old ex-GI in the fifth round with a left to the jaw and rocked Al in the seventh and tenth rounds with a rapid-fire bombardment. Andrews jumped up at one in the fifth but had to take the mandatory eight count. The officials' votes for Scholz were 6-3-1, 6-3-1, and 7-2-1. The AP had it 6-3-1.

Scholz was disappointed over his showing.

"It was one of the worst fights I ever made," he said as well wishers mobbed him in his dressing room in Madison Square Garden. "I was tired and listless because I am not yet acclimated. In Europe it was 5 a.m. (it was 11 p.m., EST here) and I felt like I wanted to sleep. When I am acclimated, I will do much better."

Delphos and New Lexington Seek B Cage Championship

By FRITZ HOWELL

CLEVELAND (AP)—It's Hamilton Public and Columbus South in Class A, and Delphos St. John's and New Lexington St. Aloysius in Class B, in today's finals of Ohio's high school basketball championships.

And if the finish is as flashy as the semifinals, the title tilts could be two of the gaudiest in tourney history.

In yesterday's four games the last of the state's unbeaten teams was ousted, a new scoring record was set, the attendance mark was shattered, and two parochial teams reached the payoff game for the first time.

Here's a quick look at what occurred

Hamilton Public, the 1937 and 1949 champion, defeated Canton McKinley 62-51, for the Big Blue's 24th win in 27 games. Alex (Boo) Ellis, Hamilton's All-Ohio center, scored 29 points, just two shy of the record set by Middletown's Dick Vice in 1952.

Canton McKinley, which has been in the state meet 15 times without taking the title, just could not solve the classy 6-5 center who scored a dozen field goals as he went for quarter totals of 6, 8, 8 and 8.

Columbus South boosted its record to 22-4 with a 50-35 win over Kent Roosevelt, the capital city Bulldogs allowing the Rough Riders only 2 field goals in the entire last half. It was a hot contest with a minute to go in the third period, Columbus leading only 32-30—but then the Bulldogs scored 18 while Kent was getting 2, and it was all over.

A crowd of 14,038 watched the evening's Class A games, erasing the single session record of 12,956 set a year ago at Cincinnati. The afternoon "B" tilts drew 8,238, making a total of 22,276 at the halfway mark. The record of 38,125 set in the 1953 meet seems certain to fall.

New Lexington's Blue Knights offered the outstanding star in Class B in Mike Allen, 6-8 center. The tall lad scored 15 field goals and 13 free throws for a total of 43 and a new Class B scoring record as Westmont was handed its second loss in 28 games by 71-62. Jerry Weber of Mariemont's 1953 champs set the old mark of 36.

Copley, which had a winning streak of 25, saw its hopes wrecked 73-65 by Delphos St. John, the 1949 champion. Copley held a 7-point edge at the half, but it faded as St. John had a 27-10 edge in the third period. Bob Kill, Delphos forward, scored 23 points, while Gil Pohlman of the winners and Ray Pryear of the losers each garnered 20.

New Lexington made 24 of 49 shots from the field for a 48.0 percentage, best of the semifinals, while Kent Roosevelt, with only 11 of 77, had the poorest with 14.2 per cent.

Delphos St. John had 29 of 64 for 45.3, Columbus South 14 of 41 for 34.1, Copley 21 of 64 for 32.8, Canton McKinley 18 of 57 for 31.5, Hamilton 21 of 68 for 30.8, and Westmont 19 of 66 for 28.7.

The New Lexington - Delphos scrap for the Class B crown is slated for 2 p.m. in the Cleveland Arena, with the Hamilton-Columbus South tilt at 8 p.m.

The experts were expecting Hamilton and Delphos St. John to triumph—just as they did in 1949. This marks the 11th straight year the southwestern district has had a representative in the Class A finals—and that area has won 7 of the last 10 titles.

OSU Swimmers Hold Big Lead In NCAA Meet

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Odds-on Ohio State, despite a loss of Ford Konno to Michigan's record-breaking Jack Wardrop, had a cozy lead today in the NCAA swimming championships.

And the Buckeyes were loaded for bear in the closing event in the Syracuse University pool with three record holders and a classy diving team on the roster.

Konno won the 1,500-meter freestyle in the opening competition Thursday, setting a new NCAA mark. But Wardrop edged him out in the 220 freestyle last night with a clocking of 2:05 to Konnos 2:05.3.

Wardrop's time set new intercollegiate and CAA records and bettered the listed world mark of 2:05.2, but Konno cracked that one last month with 2:04.7.

Ohio State collected 13 points last night in low board diving won by its Fletcher Gilders with 441.10 points. His teammates Morely Shapiro and Jerry Harrison came in third and fifth in the eight-man competition. Ohio State has 49 points to Michigan's 36. Defending champion Yale has 19.

GALION PROGRAM SLATED

GALION — A varied program of voice, piano, violin, and clarinet is planned for Sunday afternoon at senior high school auditorium by a group of young musicians of Galion. They are being presented by the Pro Arte Music Society. A free-will offering will be taken at the door, with funds to benefit the music department of the Galion schools.

Bowling

R. Chamberlain's 220 and a 563 by W. Sanders showed the way in the Commercial League at Palace Recreation where 10 games of 200 or better were rolled. Grolls Furniture hit 956-2629 for team honors.

City League keglers were paced by Bill Bennett's 209 and a 553 by Bill McGraw. Team laurels went to Erie No. 1 with 843 and Marion Implement with 2442.

G. Claskey's 201 and a 520 by Fred Lust topped bowlers in the Marion Recreation League where Roscoe Gruber hit triplicate games of 151. Marion Training School fired 827-2407 for high team score.

Ship's Captain Takes Stand in Sinking Probe

CLEVELAND (AP) — Capt. Albert Stiglin has disputed a seaman's testimony that the captain knew a number of hatch fasteners on the ore carrier Henry Steinbrunner were useless because of stripped threads.

Capt. Stiglin took the witness stand at a Coast Guard hearing yesterday in his own defense.

The Steinbrunner went down with a loss of 17 lives in Lake Superior May 11. Her cargo hold filled with water during a gale, after three hatch covers were washed off by heavy waves.

A seaman on the vessel, James Lamboris, had testified the captain knew of the faulty hatch clamps.

Stiglin said "there never was any such conversation regarding stripped threads on the hatch cover bolts."

The defense called the skippers of several vessels which had been in the vicinity of the Steinbrunner during the storm, and presented evidence that it was the duty of a vessel's first mate to report any repairs needed.

Capt. Charles Lindsay of Cleveland, skipper of the freighter Bethlehem, and Capt. Arthur Everett of Toledo, skipper of the D. M. Clemson, testified it was the strongest and most rapidly forming storm they ever had witnessed.

Brecksville Believed Site for New Hospital

CLEVELAND (AP)—A two-million-dollar loan approved yesterday by the House Appropriations Committee indicates nearby Brecksville will be the site of a new Veterans Administration neuropsychiatric hospital.

The loan is for construction of a waterworks system for the proposed 23 million dollar hospital, whose site has never been announced officially. Following the announcement of the loan, City Utilities Director Emil J. Crown said engineers already have been ordered to start making surveys for the water installations.

Carey Building Razed For New Construction

CAREY — The two-story frame structure at the rear of the W. H. Houk and Son Hardward Store on N. Vance St. is being razed preparatory to construction of a modern addition to the store.

Houk and Son propose to erect a three-story brick building, having show windows along the entire length of the Vance St. side. Plans are now in the hands of the architect. John Fredritz and sons are tearing down the old building which the elder Houk says was erected about 72 years ago.

East-West College Stars Clash in Benefit Contest

NEW YORK (AP)—It will be East vs West tonight in the annual all-star basketball game for the benefit of the New York Herald Tribune fresh air fund at Madison Square Garden.

Frank Selvy of Furman, who holds almost every collegiate record in the book, will team with 6-9 Bob Pettit of Louisiana State for the first time. Togo Palazzi of Holy Cross, and Frank Ramsey and Lou Tsioropoulos of Kentucky also will be on the East starting team.

For the West, the starters will be Bobby Mattick, Oklahoma A&M 6-11 ace, Bob Matheny of California, Arnie Short of Oklahoma City and Indiana's Bob Leonard and Dick Farley.

Finals Slated Monday Night In Morral Cage Tournament

Third round play in the Marion Brick Invitational Basketball Tournament was set for Monday night after UAW-CIO, Wyandot Vaults and Arlie Glenn Inn came through with wins last night in the tourney at Morral.

UAW-CIO was a 68-63 winner over Claridon. Wyandot Vaults defeated Marion Brick 77-69 and Arlie Glenn Inn topped Meeker Ex Hi 99-87.

Holmes-Liberty Grange will oppose Wyandot Vaults in a winners' bracket tilt, the opener at 6:30 p.m. A pair of losers bracket contests will pit Wyandot Indians against Marion Brick at 8 p.m. and Claridon against Arlie Glenn Inn at 9 p.m.

The UAW-CIO team played the final three minutes with only four men in downing Claridon. Dick Griffith with 30 points and Bob Davidson with 18 paced the winners. Lon Earl headed the losers' scoring with 16 points while R. Price accounted for 12 and Art Gruber and Bill Wickersham each hit for 11.

Wyandot Vaults pulled into a 32-22 advantage at halftime and from there to its win over Marion Brick. Charlie Schoeppner popped in 25 points for the winners while Bill Weaver collected 22. Eugene Crayecraft was high man for Marion Brick with 19 markers with B. Martin next with 17.

Arlie Glenn Inn encountered little trouble in trouncing Meeker Ex Hi in a losers bracket tilt. Howard Stuckman dropped in 36 points for the winners and Henry Schifer added 29. Gene Uhl with 24 led the Meeker offense with H. Williams netting 21 and B. Vanbuster 18.

Cincy Pitching Better; St. Louis Cardinals Fall

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Cincinnati pitching, which looked good yesterday as the Reds edged the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2, gets a real test today before Brooklyn batters.

The National League champions usually up their averages at the expense of Red hurlers. Manager Birdie Tebbetts selected Saul Rogovin, the Chicago White Sox castoff, and John (Red) Stewart, 23-year-old rookie from Massachusetts, to stop the Dodgers.

Corky Valentine, 200-pound rookie from Troy, Ohio, yesterday limited the Cards to 3 hits in 5 innings. Rudy Minarcin gave up 4 hits and the Cardinal runs in 3 frames, and Moe Savransky, with 1 hit, and Jack Crimian, pitched for the Reds in the ninth.

Good fielding and Gus Bell's two run homer in the eighth—saved the win for Minarcin.

This show will be benched. There will also be obedience trial classes. Pure bred dogs from all parts of United States and Canada will be entered. A number of well-known and competent judges have been selected to pass on the various breeds. Trophies and cash prizes are being offered. The Club each year donates to Charity and is working hard to make the show a success. Entries close April 12.

Information may be obtained from Miss Evelyn Rolf club secretary, at 1808 East Cook Road, Columbus, or R. J. Miller, show chairman, at 2872 Neil Ave., Columbus, Ohio.

Feller To Pitch Series Opener Against Giants

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—The Cleveland Indians and the New York Giants today renew the longest exhibition rivalry in major league baseball, opening their annual spring series here.

The 16-game series will wind up spring training for both clubs and send them into the regular season in their respective leagues.

Veteran Bob Feller is scheduled to open on the mound for the Tribe today against Ruben Gomez. Early Wynn and Dave Hoskins are to hurl for Cleveland tomorrow when the teams conclude their two-day stand here.

Another pitcher, Puerto Rican Jose Santiago, says the Indians had better hang on to him if they want to win the pennant this year.

That, he says, "is because I bring luck." And he points to the record: Dayton in 1949, Wilkes-Barre in 1950 and 51; Dallas in 1952 and 53—each team a pennant winner while he was with them.

Santee Bids Again For 4-Minute Mile

CHICAGO (AP)—A capacity crowd of 17,000 is expected to file into Chicago Stadium tonight to watch miler Wes Santee and other track stars try for new records in the Chicago Daily News Relays.

Santee easily was the main attraction in his announced intent to try again for the four-minute mile, which he feels he can run if he is "just right."

The Kansas University star's opposition tonight in the Bankers' Mile includes defending champion, Len Truex, Warren Druetzler, Lawton Lamb and Lowell Zellers.

Other top entries include Fred Wilt and Horace Ashenfelter, in the two mile, Harrison Dillard, seeking his eighth straight high hurdles title; middle distance ace Mel Whitfield; high jumper Ken Weisner, and pole vaulter Bob Richards.

BEES AT WORK

RICHFORD, Vt. (UP)—The four-foot cross on the roof of All Saints Catholic Church began tilting. Fearful of an accident, pastor Rev. Charles Marcoux sent two steeplejacks up to find the trouble and make repairs. They found heavy trouble—150 pounds of it. Bees had made a home in the hollow base of the cross and had stored 150 pounds of honey.

STEVE CANYON By Milton Caniff

BOB, YOU DON'T EVEN KNOW HOW TO PEDDLE THIS HEROIN... FLY US TO ANY CITY, AND I'LL SELL IT FOR YOU.
BUT I'M GOING TO USE THIS STUFF... ALL FOR MYSELF! I'M GOING TO GET EVEN TALLER AND STAY UP THERE! GREAT FEELING!
IF YOU'LL TAKE ME ALONG, I'LL START USING THE DRUG, TOO.
PEOPLE LIKE YOU DON'T NEED DRUGS! —YOU'D FIND SOME WAY TO TRICK ME! I MUST HAVE THE STIMULATION... I'M A WEAK CHARACTER WHEN I'M CUT OFF!
SO YOU AND CANYON WILL HAVE TO GO OUT THE DOOR! I WOULD SHOOT YOU FIRST, BUT THEN STEVIE WOULD HAVE NO ONE TO TALK WITH ON THE WAY DOWN!
SO I AM GOING TO TIE YOU TOGETHER! —I WAS ALWAYS A THOUGHTFUL HOST THAT WAY! HEEHEE HEE

Tax Drive Falters

The Democratic drive to ease personal income taxes has hit some rough spots.

Sen. Byrd says he would oppose the proposal to increase individual income-tax exemptions. The plan, offered by Sen. George would boost exemptions to $800 this year from the present $600 and to $1,000 next year.

George is the top-ranking Democrat on the Senate Finance Committee. Byrd is second-ranking Democrat on the tax-considering committee. The Viginian also is a personal friend of Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey.

Pressure for a cut in individual income taxes has been building up so rapidly, some administration leaders have called for help from the White House in heading it off.

President Eisenhower, it is understood, is considering taking directly to the people his plea for no general tax reductions this year. The plan calls for a radio-television appeal by the President.

Senate Minority Leader Johnson predicts that Congress would vote an increase in exemptions, and some Republican congressmen have said privately the administration would be politically wise to get into the tax-cutting act in a hurry.

Byrd, a consistent advocate of a balanced budget, said he could not support a tax decrease that would have to be "financed by borrowing money."

His position generally is the same as that of the administration: No general reduction in taxes while the government is operating in the red.

Weather Hazards

DETROIT (UP) — Damp weather can give motorists more trouble than snowdrifts, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

On a recent damp morning, the club received well over 2,000 calls for help from stranded motorists. The club said that is more than it received during any day during two previous winters when the snow drifted along the highways on many occasions.

A club spokesman suggested that motorists try wiping off their ignition wires if cars won't start on damp mornings. If that doesn't work, a shove by another car may help.

News of the Churches

Special Lenten Services Scheduled by Ministers

Following the pattern set for the Lenten season with series of special messages designed for emphasis on renewed awarenes of the spiritual value in life, for week preparation for the climax both individuals and congregations, Marion churches will continue next of the period, Holy Week and Easter.

The special midweek services will center on such themes as the influence of Christ's example and teachings on his followers during the last weeks of his pre-crucifixion ministry, and their significance even for the present day, told by pastors or guest ministers.

St. Mary Catholic Church weeknight services, on Tuesdays and Thursdays, are devoted on the former to sermon and Benediction, and on the latter to Way of the Cross and Benediction. Holy Hour and Benediction on Sundays is at 4 p.m.

Week-day communion services during Lent at St. Paul's Episcopol Church are at 10 a.m. on Tuesdays and 7:15 a.m. Fridays. Wednesday night services are followed by confirmation instruction.

Lenten vesper service theme at Emanuel Lutheran Church Wednesday night one of the series on "Jesus, Keep Me Near the Cross," will be "Lest, Like Pilate, I Give Way to Fear."

Pastor of Christ Methodist Church in Cleveland, Rev. Virgil Jump, will speak at the Lenten service of Epworth Methodist Church here Wednesday night.

In an exchange of pulpits, a Bucyrus pastor will be heard at the midweek Lenten service of First Evangelical and Reformed Church Brice L. Chidester of the Bucyrus St. John's Church will be the guest speaker.

"My Beloved Son," the story of Timothy, will be the theme for midweek Lenten service Wednesday night at Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church. This will be another in the series on "Followers of the Christ."

Lenten midweek service at Prospect Street Methodist Church will be Wednesday night.

Emmanuel Baptist

The morning sermon at Emmanuel Baptist Church tomorrow will be the first in a series of pre-Easter messages based on "scriptural facts concerning the crucifixion and resurrection of the Lord." In this series, "truth will be separated from tradition, and fact from fiction in regards to the Easter story, a study of the facts, as given in the Scriptures."

On Wednesday at 7:30 p.m., a special missionary service will be held, Rev. W. E. Pietsch of Waterloo, Ia., director of the Alaskan Evangelization Society, will be the speaker. He has returned recently from a trip to Alaska which he made to survey the conditions in missionary work there. The public is invited to attend this service.

Emanuel Lutheran

Rev. M. E. Hollensen, pastor of Emanuel Lutheran Church, will conduct services at 8 a.m. Sunday at the Marion Training School. Assisting him will be the members of the intermediate choir of Emanuel Church under the direction of William Dowler. Mrs. Ralph Mills will serve as accompanist.

"Who Is Christ?" will be the subject of the lecture when the class in Christian fundamentals meets in the wing of the educational building at 7:30 p.m. Monday. Lenten vesper service is Wednesday night.

Church of Nazarene

Services at First Church of the Nazarene tomorrow will include special music by serveral groups and individuals. In the morning, singing will be led by Loren Pinyerd. The choir will sing "My Redeemer Lives," and Mrs. Helen Edwards will present a solo. Preliminaries of the evening evangelistic service at 7 will include an instrumental duet by Misses Dixie Fortner and Donna Hord. During the radio broadcast over Station WMRN, the choir will sing, and other numbers will be by the women's trio, Miss Gloria Kehrwecker will play an accordion solo, and Howard Orr will sing "Zion's Hill." Besides midweek prayer meeting Wednesday night at the church, cottage prayer meetings will be held Friday night at the Loren Pinyerd home and at the Alva Baughman home.

Epworth Methodist

Soloists with the choir of Epworth Methodist Church tomorrow morning at the worship service will be Miss Evelyn Price and Robert Miley. The anthem will be "Prayer Is the Soul's Sincere Desire," Darst. Organizations meeting next week include the commission on education Tuesday night, and the Primary Department teachers Wednesday at 6:45 p.m. preceding the midweek Lenten service. The guest preacher at 7:30 will be Rev. Virgil Jump of Cleveland.

Missionary for Holiness Church To Speak Here

Rev. R. G. Flexon, missionary speaker from headquarters of the Pilgrim Holiness Church at Indianapolis, Ind., will be in Marion tonight and Sunday for special public services at Second Pilgrim Holiness Church at Ballentine Ave. and Mark St. There will be three services on Sunday, including a missionary service at 2:30 p.m. Evening services tomorrow and Sunday will be at 7:30, the pastor, Rev. Norval Rickner, announced. Heading the missionary work of the denomination in foreign fields, Rev. Flexon has traveled to a number of the countries abroad and will tell of his experiences there.

TIME WINS AGAIN

HOLDREGE, Neb. (UP) — Gus Hohner found one way to win the constant race against time, but he's not too happy about it. One recent morning he jumped out of bed when the alarm signaled, dressed, and had the coffee on before his wife sleepily reminded him that a power failure the day before had thrown the electric clock off schedule. Hohner had risen four hours too early.

The Lord's Supper

A Sermonette

By REV. C. E. HERSHEY
Pastor of Emmanuel Baptist Church

"And He took bread, and gave thanks, and brake it, and gave unto them, saying, this is my body which is given for you: this do in remembrance of me. Likewise also the cup after supper, saying, "This cup is the new testament in my blood, which is shed for you." (Luke 22:19-20).

Our loving Lord had met with His disciples in the upper room to keep the Feast of the Passover with them. It was the eve before His crucifixion. He, being God, knew exactly what was before Him. He knew that on the morrow He would be led to Mt. Calvary and there the weight of the sin of the world would be placed upon Him. He knew the suffering and agony that would be His in becoming our sacrifice for sin. But He knew also that to become our Redeemer, He must bear our sin. Therefore He was willing to suffer and to endure the cross that the way of salvation might be opened to all who would willingly receive Him as their atonement. Thus, He partook of the supper with His beloved disciples.

AFTER THE celebration of the Feast of the Passover, Jesus instituted the ordinance commonly known as "The Lord's Supper." When they had partaken of the bread and the fruit of the vine, He said, "This do in remembrance of me." Partaking of the Lord's Supper is therefore a divine command and a solemn obligation upon every child of God. However, it is of spiritual significance only to God's children and should therefore not be taken by unbelievers. Unless the meaning of this ordinance is understood, it is of little value.

It is not the bread and the wine, but the truth which these elements teach which make them of spiritual value. The Lord's Supper proclaims the gospel in all its fullness—how that Christ died for the ungodly, paid the great price for our redemption thus making possible the gift of eternal life. It exhorts us to carry out His command until He comes. Because of this fact, the observance of the Lord's Supper is not optional with the believer, but is binding upon him. Every born again member of the body of Christ is commanded to do this, "in remembrance" of Him.

The observance of the Lord's Supper is not a thing to be trifled with, but is a solemn obligation. The abuse of this privilege will lead to the chastening of the Lord and the neglect of this privilege will impoverish the believer's spiritual life. Because of ignorance concerning the importance of this ordinance, many believers are both spiritually and physically sick and will lose their reward at the judgment seat of Christ. (1 Corinthians 11:29-32). Some even die, because of abuse of this privilege.

"BUT LET A MAN examine himself, and so let him eat of that bread, and drink of that cup" (1 Cor. 11:28). We are admonished here to examine ourselves—not the other fellow. If there is anything that needs to be judged or confessed in our lives, we are to make the wrong right before we partake of the Lord's table. Otherwise the consequences may be that judgment is brought upon us. If we judge the sin in our lives we shall escape the judgment of God, but if we fail to judge ourselves, He will judge that sin and chasten us as His children. Therefore, when we obey His command, "This do in remembrance of me," let our hearts be occupied with judging ourselves. Confess each sin unto Him—hatred, lust, pride, dishonesty, anger, malice, unforgiveness, jealousy, tale-bearing, lying, lack of love for the brethren, sins of omission and sins of commission—whatever the sin be, confess and forsake before partaking of the Lord's table.

There are those who, because after self examination, realize that they are unfit to partake of the Lord's table, and therefore do not avail themselves of this privilege. They fear to lay themselves open to the chastisement of God. But God cannot be foiled. If you do not come because of sin in your life, you are disobedient and your disobedience will be punished. If you come without confessing your sin, you will be punished. The Christian with sin in his life is in a bad way. There is no way out but through Christ and that is why He instituted this supper. For those who know that they have come short of His righteousness and have failed, this table tells them there is cleansing and forgiveness.

Pastors To Have Questionnaires on Program for Fall

Looking toward a community Institute for Christian Living to be sponsored by the Marion County Council of Churches in the fall, pastors of Marion and the county will have on Sunday copies of a questionnaire concerning the institute for distribution to members.

This is designed as an interest finder to determine the preferences of those planning to attend as to discussion and study subjects.

The institute is set for Monday nights, Oct. 4 through Nov. 1. The filled in questionnaires are to be returned to the pastors by April 1.

A list from which choices may be made includes "Personal Christian Living," "A Brief Survey of the Old Testament," "A Brief Survey of the New Testament," "The Life of Jesus," "The Life and Work of Paul," "Revised Standard version of the Bible," "Christian Family Life," "Winning Others for Christ," "The Superintendent and His Task," "Teaching Nursery Children," "Teaching Primary Children," "Teaching Kindergarten Children," "Teaching Juniors," "Teaching Youth" and "Catching Up with Yesterday (Time, Influence and You)."

A space is provided also for other suggested courses, and a place for recording interest in the institute generally. Local church leaders specializing in a particular field will be in charge of the various subjects. In addition, there will be a guest forum speaker heard each Monday night to open the institute sessions.

North Carolina estimates its farmers lost 25 million dollars to the boll weevil in 1953, one of the worst years for cotton in the history of the state.

Fite Church Fund Report Scheduled

Leaders and workers in the Fite Memorial Baptist Church Stewardship Advance program will have a potluck "Victory Dinner" Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. at the parsonage. Reports will be given on calls made on the members of the church in the interest of funds for building plans. The goal of $18,000 to be reached by March 30 includes $6,000 for a new educational unit. Work will be started on the $50,000 structure as soon as $25,000 has been received.

Topic for Youth Fellowship meeting Sunday night will be "What To Choose." The Wednesday night Bible study theme will be "The Foundation of Righteousness." Members will attend the quarterly meeting of the Marion Baptist Association's Women's Missionary Society in Prospect Thursday. A play, "We Call It Freedom," will be given by women from Akron.

Church Choir To Sing

Marion's Central Christian Church Choir will go to Bucyrus Sunday night to present a cantata at the Bucyrus Church of Christ. The music of "Redemption's Song" by Fred B. Holton will be sung under direction of William Cowles, accompanied by Mrs. Virgil Curl. A soprano obligato will be by Mrs. Bert Swope and Mr. Cowles will sing a baritone solo.

Annual Drama Festival

Church Groups To Give Three Plays Tomorrow

Casts including more than 20 actors from the three Marion churches presenting plays at the annual religious drama festival sponsored by the Marion Christian Youth Movement Sunday night, have chosen to portray two stories in keeping with the Easter season and one with a stewardship theme.

Place of the event will be the Epworth Methodist Fellowship Hall, downstairs auditorium of the church, and curtain time will be 7:30. Supervision is by student directors and adult advisors, and assisting with settings and lighting will be stage committees. Taking part besides the players from the host church are groups from Trinity Baptist and Wesley Methodist Youth Fellowships. Special music will be featured between plays. The Harding High School Octet will sing, and a soloist will be heard.

EVALUATION OF the dramatic material and the work of those in the various roles will be made by speech at Harding High School. Mrs. Lester Hines is general chairman of the festival and Miss Margaret Huffman is counselor. Participating also will be the host pastor, Rev. Walter C. Eyster.

Young people taking part in the opening portion of the program will be Mary Margaret Williams for prelude, Robert Knachel, Scripture, and Paul Foster, prayer. The Harding High School musicians, Jean Bibbee, Sally Barton, Delores Cosey, Sally Waddell, Paul Foster, Glen Dalton, Dave Banning, and Joe Shauffer, accompanied by Carolyn Jones, will sing between the first and second plays. Miss Evelyn Price will sing at the offertory period between the second and third plays. Offertory prayer will be by Rev. Eyster, and at the close he will speak the benediction. Mary Margaret Williams will be the offertory pianist.

"THE CASE OF Judas Iscariot" by Paul Nagy Jr., staged in a modern courtroom where the trial of Judas Iscariot takes place, will be given by 13 Wesley Methodist young people. Mrs. Hines is director, and Mrs. Willard Ginder, advisor. In the cast are Carl Jacobs, Frances Beckley, Don Beaver, Don Bosh, Steve Stafford, Larry Evans, Tom Rutherford, Le McGuire, Mary Makeever, Joel Williams, and Gene Greer.

Four parts in the modern story, "It Is More Blessed" by Albert Carriere, will be taken by Fred Price, Ann Arthur, James Van-Meter, and Sandra Askew from Trinity Baptist Church. The narrative is built around the contrast between a prosperous businessman and church member and a carpenter and his wife with a keynote of sacrificial giving. Director is Richard Mull, assisted by John Arthur, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Iams are adult advisors.

A DOCTOR and "The Boy Who Discovered Easter," plus two feminine members of the cast from Epworth Church will present three scenes which take place at different seasons in the physician's study. Writer of the play Elizabeth McFadden, has set the scenes respectively in midsummer, winter, and at sunrise Easter morning. In the cast are David Walker, John Lawrence, Janet Roberts, and Sally Pask. Cynthia Moore and Sally Waddell are directors, with Bernard Lyon as advisor, and George Moser, Judy Butler, Barbara Sieb, and Walter Wesley as production staff.

Stage and lighting manager is James Hachten. Ushers will include Larry Henry, Max Carrol, Bruce Roberts, Warren Brown, John Eyster, and Edward and Everett Shuffstall.

Church and Delinquency Will Be Topic of Forum

"What can the church do to prevent juvenile delinquency will be presented Sunday on Marion Youth Forum, Sixth of a series on juvenile delinquency, the program will be heard on WMRN at 3 p.m.

High school students on the panel will be: Tom Coss and Loretta Mae Caskey, Harding; Rose Ann Jones, Taft, Nancy Thomas, Eber Baker; and Bob Merriman, Edison.

Rev. Walter Eyster, pastor of the Epworth Methodist Church, will be Sunday's guest.

Biggest Year Predicted by Home Builders in Marion

Demand for Housing Stays Strong, Real Estate Men Say

Marion's biggest year in home building is predicted for 1954.

Continued growth of industry and population in Marion has led to this optimistic prediction. Along with Marion's growth, many veterans who have lived in rented dwellings since the war now are buying homes.

JAMES NEFF, president of the Home Builders Association of Marion, said:

"We've had more inquiries about new homes than ever before. There is a larger market now and the demand for homes probably will remain high."

The demand for homes is still greater than the supply, according to Lowell Douce, president of the Marion Real Estate Board.

"The demand is evidenced by great rental demands. Today's market, both for buying and renting, is more realistic. Houses are being priced more to what the owners can pay," he said.

DOUCE CALLS the present market a "healthy one."

"The board has more listings — a good sign — and more property is being sold today than in the past six months," he said. "If employment rises, we expect even more activity."

Much of this year's building in Marion will be in the south and east. Home owners today want larger lots and more yard space which is available in this area, builders and realtors say.

"Many homes are being built with patios and fireplaces," Neff said. "The home owner wants his recreation right in his back yard."

EVIDENCE OF today's interest is shown in the increased membership of the building association. Membership in the three-year-old group jumped 20 per cent last year and now stands at 29 members and associate members.

The present market is a buyer's market, Neff said. Homes first are being sold and then built, not built and then sold. There is little speculative building.

Most popular homes today appear to be three bedroom models, with attached garages in the $8,000 to $13,000 class. Home owners want the third bedroom for guests or extra children and three bedroom homes have a better loan value.

OWNERS, TOO, have found that building an attached garage is cheaper than starting with a house, then adding a garage at a later date, Neff said.

Frame, one story homes make up about 60 per cent of the homes being built today. The rest are one and one-half story dwellings. Stone, which has gone up in cost, is used mostly for variations in home fronts.

One-Floor Plan Houses Are Popular in Marion

AMONG THE NEW HOMES recently occupied in the Marion area are the four pictured above. Owners, price class and builders of the homes are:

UPPER LEFT: Mr. and Mrs. William Veness, Edison Drive and Linda Mel Drive, $10,000-$13,000, James Neff builder.

LOWER LEFT: Mr. and Mrs. Harold Weiss, 5 Sara Ave., $13,000-$15,000. D. L. Trachsel.

LOWER RIGHT: Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hodges, 748 Blaine Ave., $8,000-$10,000, George Scantland.

Home Repair Trend Noted By Suppliers

'Do-It-Yourself' Jobs More Popular, Many Projects Are Tackled

With the "do-it-yourself" trend growing in Marion, local home owners have been turning to builders and suppliers for advice on remodeling and redecorating.

The home owner, as he begins to take on more complicated "do-it-yourself" jobs, has felt the need for expert advice. Armed with tips from builders and suppliers and the necessary materials, home owners have been tackling all sorts of redecorating and remodeling jobs.

Painting Popular

Three of the most popular "do-it-yourself jobs" are bathroom and kitchen remodeling and house painting, inside and out. New odorless, quick - drying paints have turned a once major chore into a speedy operation.

The day has ended when all furniture had to be moved out before painting or when the paint smell lingered for days. Now furniture is piled in the center of the room and covered, then moved back a few hours after painting.

Many new colors for interior painting have been added. This year will see more colors, ranging from odd-shade reds to blue combinations, than ever before.

Floors, Walls Improved

Floor, wall and ceiling improvements are being made in kitchens and bathrooms. Tile is a popular floor and wall material for kitchens and bathrooms, while insulated ceiling tile is being used in other rooms.

Do-it-yourself jobs range all the way from minor painting to installing kitchen units and closets. Books and pamphlets, describing steps in detail, have become popular.

Proper Precautions Minimize Damage From Severe Storms

Hurricane or storm warnings usually give you time to take emergency precautions.

Here are things you can do to prevent or minimize storm damage. This list was worked out by engineers of the National Board of Fire Underwriters:

1. Loose material and movable objects, such as boards, garbage cans, porch and outdoor furniture, should be put where there is no danger of their being lifted and blown against your house or through a window.

2. Movable awnings should be raised and securely tied back, or removed entirely.

3. Shutters should be firmly attached as quickly as possible. Delay may mean that it will be impossible to get them in proper position, with the result that they may cause further damage.

4. Garage doors and other large doors should be braced against movement either in or out.

5. If possible, stay in rooms on the leeward side of the house—that is, on the side opposite that against which the wind is blowing.

6. Keep a door or window open on the leeward side. If windows or walls are broken on the windward side, open more leeward doors or windows. This will help keep internal air pressure from walls and windows, or the hazard of the roof being lifted.

7. If your house is divided up by interior partitions, keep partition doors closed to reduce the chance of damage to leeward building up and will lessen the suction of air currents on the leeward side of the house.

8. If you live on low ground near a waterfront or beach which might be inundated by high water, go immediately to safer buildings on higher ground.

Amateur Rebuilds House and Saves Thousands

Determination Top Asset in Tackling Job, He Finds

Just about two years ago a white collar worker, John A Carlton, gazed bug eyed at an abandoned two-story house being offered for sale in Larchmont, N Y.

It had everything Falling plaster peeling wallpaper, dilapidated paint, battered floors, poor plumbing and wiring, badly arranged kitchen, generally run-down condition But, also, it had basically sound construction as certified by an expert, a price tag within Carlton's reach, and a location on a fine corner lot facing a brook in an excellent residential district near schools and other facilities

Altogether, it presented just the opportunity Carlton had been seeking An opportunity to get away from being a mere renter, to create aesthetic value with his own two hands and to better himself financially.

"I'LL TAKE IT," he said

Today, two years and many spare time hours later, Carlton and his wife have a house that the whole family is proud of and that he wouldn't sell for double his money back He has invested about $1,500 in materials as well as his time and original purchase price

This compares with estimates of $8 500 to $10 500 he had received for putting the house in livable condition with fewer improvements than he actually has made

'Almost anybody can do the same as we did ' he insists, 'if they just put their heart into it And if I had had power tools and better equipment I could have done the job much faster and easier '

' What did Carlton know about modernizing old houses? Not a thing

Five days a week he is one of the battalion of commuters that entrains from suburban Larchmont to toil in New York City. He handles photographs and maps and drawings that are sent to newspapers by The Associated Press which employs him as a head artist

All he had in the way of tools was a hammer a saw, a plane and several other small tools that householders ordinarily have

And the house was in bad shape

Plaster had fallen from the ceilings and walls Paper hung in stained and faded ribbons The oven door in the kitchen had been fastened shut with a wire In the bathroom the toilet seat was tied in place with an old necktie

THIS IS THE HOUSE that Jack Carlton rebuilt. Its old weather-beaten appearance is shown at the right

Children had used the walls ceilings and woodwork as targets for dart throwing Filth left by dogs and cats lay on the closet floors

BUT THE HOUSE was big and roomy, well planned and not all the abuse to which it had been subjected could alter the good basic qualities the original builders had given it

The living room was large 20 by 26 feet with six continuous windows on each of two walls looking out on the brook, trees and big rocks below A large fireplace of simple unadorned colonial design jutted out into the room A wide opening led to a good sized dining room and oak flooring extended through both living room and dining room

An open stairway more than four feet wide, led up from the living room to four good sized bedrooms made charming by surprising alcoves and ample windows But the bathroom, like the kitchen, was in such dreadful condition that it was obvious it would take a good deal of time effort and ingenuity to renovate it

Ceilings were high throughout the house and hard maple flooring had been used throughout the second floor

An appraiser confirmed that the house was structurally sound The heating system was usable but in need of much overhauling

TO CARLTON, it all added up to something like this

1. Kitchen must be done over completely Cabinets and plumbing must be rearranged a new ceiling put in new equipment and floor covering installed An expensive prospect But a very bright spot appeared in an adjoining glassed in porch It immediately suggested the possibility of a cheerful breakfast room Stimulating!

2 The only usabel thing in the bathroom was the tub and possibly the shower Depressing and expensive

3 For the rest of the interior there would be mending of the plaster complete redecorating papering painting scraping and finishing of all floors An awful lot of back breaking work

4. The ugly brown stain on the shingled siding of the house would have to come off be sanded and wire - brushed by hand every square inch of it, and then restained Shutters were needed to finish the windows All trim must be painted Grass and shrubs must be planted Best not to think of this now

So that is what Carlton saw ahead of him as he examined his future castle He and his wife would have to do all the work themselves and as economically as possible.

WITH IMAGINATION, careful planning and a strong bent for what Carlton calls horsetrading he and his wife assumed the task Their oldest boy John A Jr 21 was already in the Navy so he couldn't be of much help Kenneth now 13, was in school Janet is now 8

After two years of working during evenings weekends and vacations, they have coaxed inch-by inch, a badly mistreated house into an inviting comfortable home that breathes individuality flavored with the restful charm of a pre-atomic age

The kitchen — woman's work shop and man's first love — was the place they started

AFTER CLEANING the house thoroughly he called for bids on fixing up the kitchen The lowest estimate not including everything he wanted was $1 500 The highest still leaving out several wanted items was $3 000

'I'll do the job myself ' Jack declared

He not only did it but kept his total expenditures to $624 10 including an automatic dishwasher a double sink a modern stove gleaming white cabinets, inlaid linoleum, wallpaper a new ceiling venetian blinds, curtains drapes light fixtures — and a beautiful breakfast room converted out of an old glassed-in porch

Ask Carlton how he did it and he'll answer in his calm Southern manner

'Well it took a lot of doing you know — planning and figuring plenty of shopping around and just working away every minute I could spare

Shopping around was a big factor in keeping his cost down to $624 10

'Cabinets cost a lot of money if you buy them new ' he explains But, if you use a little elbow grease and cut thick coats of old paint and then apply a good grade enamel you can make beautiful cabinets out of old ones You can get special enamels for metal They are not much unlike the same kind of enamel used in industry for finishing refrigerators You just shop around and find these things out

'This section of base cabinet cost me only $12 and the matching wall cabinet came to $13 60 The reason was they were second hand and needed refinishing

'This base cabinet over here housed the old sink We wanted a double sink and a dishwasher So I moved the cabinet cut off one third of it and turned it L' shape in the corner built shelves to fill up the corner and put one plywood top over the complete L Then I put a linoleum countertop over the plywood rolling it down with a rolling pin and special adhesive applied this chromium edging to dress it up and made it match all the other cabinets

CARLTON FINISHED his kitchen in red and white with yellow accents The linoleum on the floor is a rich maroon cabinets stove refrigerator and dishwasher are white Wallpaper has a small red flower pattern on a white background

The breakfast room is pine paneled and fitted with built in semi circular benches upholstered in yellow leatherette He built and upholstered his own benches

His refrigerator is not included in his cost schedule because he had that He removed an old door to a shallow closet of little use and made this an alcove to set the refrigerator back from usable kitchen floor space Scalloped millwork and a few shelves above the refrigerator make this an attractive feature of the kitchen

'This kitchen ceiling is a good example of what you can save by doing things yourself ' Carlton said The plaster was beyond repair So I covered the old ceiling with these ceiling panels You can get them at any lumber supply house These ordinary wallboard in squared and beveled sections

'I got an estimate of $150 for that ceiling job but because I did the work myself it cost me only $25 for materials '

New Plywood Gives Greater Paint Economy

Wider use of plywood has been one of the biggest changes in home building and home remodeling since World War II Production of this sturdy panel type of lumber has almost doubled in that time

Almost a tenth of all plywood produced is now sold over the counter at retail lumber dealers to home handymen who have discovered the advantages of the material in making furniture and doing other home construction jobs

One of the most recently developed forms of plywood has been a type faced with plastic to save labor cost in painting and maintenance It is designed for both indoor and outdoor use On the exterior it is suitable for lapped siding gable ends blinds and shutters and wall panels

A lower priced medium density plastic faced plywood was introduced by Georgia Pacific as GP's green named for its green surface This surface being more than equivalent to a coat of paint made one coat paint jobs practicable

The manufacturers claim that the hard surface is impervious to hairline checking and grain raising thus greatly extending the life of paint film

Panels are produced in standard thicknesses ranging from 5/16-inch to 1-inch in 3 by 8 and 4 by 8-foot sizes

X-Ray Examinations Aid In Saving Many Babies

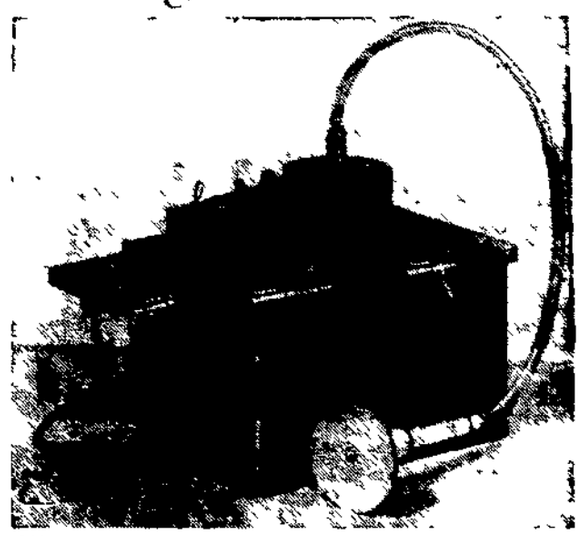
CHICAGO (UP) — Skillful X-ray examinations have been one of the most important factors in lowering the mortality rate during child birth according to an editorial in Radiology

The magazine published by the American College of Radiology said X-rays frequently disclose the condition known as placenta praevia

Placenta praevia is the abnormally low attachment of the placenta in the uterus The condition can interfere with childbirth and it can result in hemorrhage

The X-ray examination has long since proved itself to be a safe and relatively accurate procedure and has contributed significantly to lowering the mortality rate incident to this condition,' the magazine said

Sanding Tool Is Versatile



SOMETHING NEW in the power tool field is the multi shaper an abrasive machine with a remarkable versatility Although essentially a belt sander it has a small radius tip instead of a drum at the forward end

This replaceable tip over which the abrasive belt slides is the secret of the machine's versatility It is possible to shape sharpen file and grind knives chisels blades drills and the like By using the right kind of belt and tip it is even possible to cut stone

The bench model has a ½ horsepower motor mounted vertically in the base Another feature is a dust collector No tools are required to change belts or tips and the unit is mounted on a table attachment which can be tilted in any position to suit the job at hand when using the tip of the sander

The manufacturer points out that the multi shaper can be used as a power supply for a flexible shaft and several other hobbyists for modeling and other small work

New Polythylene Covers Find Many Uses Around Home

Large size polyethylene plastic covers are popular for many uses around the home

These transparent heavy sheets are now being sold through various stores They are used to cover outdoor furniture automobiles bicycles shrubbery against frost workshop tools against dust They are strong enough to be laid on a lawn and supported around the edges to form wading pools for children

One manufacturer originally developed the covers as inexpensive painters' drop cloths Do it yourself handymen soon found many other uses for the material

Polyethylene plastic is not affected by freezing and doesn't begin to melt until the temperature reaches 250 degrees It has been tested for 400 hours in direct sun with no visible effect but in the near tropics where automobiles become very hot in the sun, the plastic will stick

Excellent Time-Savers

Power Tools Make a Workshop Work

MOST HOME workshops are Topsy creations; they just grow.

When a man reaches the point where he actually plans the make-up of a workshop he's really getting serious about being a handyman or a hobbyist or both.

A home workshop can be located in a basement, an attic, a garage, an outdoor shed or even in a spare room in the house. But seldom is a guy lucky enough to be able to make a choice. He uses whatever space is available. The limitations of the location must be recognied and adequate steps taken to correct the deficiencies.

FOR INSTANCE—A basement is an excellent place for a home workshop because it doesn't interfere with ordinary home activities, because lighting arrangements can be made without breaking down or into a wall and because power tools do not vibrate much on a concrete floor.

But a basement is often damp, difficult to keep at a comfortable temperature all year 'round and hard on the feet.

The solution? Damp - proofing and dehumidifying, heating and cooling devices and a floor covering that will be kind to the feet without destroying the solidity of the concrete base.

—:—

AN ATTIC is usually drier and cleaner than a basement, with a wooden floor that is less fatiguing than concrete. Assuming that the necessary adjustments have been made to keep the temperature and humidity at a comfortable level, there is still the major problem of noise and vibration.

The solution? Rubber cutouts under power tool stands and other shock absorbing and soundproofing steps.

Garages, outdoor sheds and regular house rooms have related problems and solutions. No one location will be ideal at the start. Most of them can be made reasonably so.

Dismiss any idea you might have that the possession of power tools will make an expert out of you. Numerous basic hand tools are necessary, and you'd better learn how to use them fairly well if you want to turn out good work. What power tools will enable you to do is to complete a project in far less time than it would take a professional without them.

SOME OF THE BASIC hand tools you probably already have, such as a claw hammer, a screwdriver, pliers, a wrench, chisel and so on. You must have done some work around the house or you wouldn't want to set up a complete workshop, so you probably know what hand tools you need but just haven't gotten around to buying. Even after you've stocked up pretty well, you'll find yourself buying additional tools from time to time. That will give you a problem of tool placement—unless you've left room in your original workshop planning for expansion.

In the power tool line, a portable electric drill kit is almost a necessity. Get one of good quality or you'll regret it within a few months. Be sure it has a ground wire connection. Use the disc sander attachment for heavy work only. It revolves so rapidly that it is difficult to get good results when using it on fine work.

Portable power sanders which are units within themselves are excellent time-savers. Portable power saws save lots of back-breaking work on projects where the saws must be brought to the work. If you get a paint sprayer, electric or pressure, practice on scrap wood to get the knack of it before you use it on a first-class project.

YOUR WORSHOP begins to get the professional look with addition of power tools on stands. What power tools should you get if you can't afford to get all of them? That depends on what type of work you usually do. If it's mostly straight-line cutting of the fairly heavy kind, a bench saw should be your first choice. If you're going in for cutouts, models, small furniture and so on, make it a jigsaw. In the same category is the bandsaw, except that it generally is a heavier machine and will handle heavier work.

A drill press will do more jobs than drilling holes. A lathe is for a fellow who is going to do a lot of woodturning. Every one of these tools will do many more tasks than its basic function with the addition of the countless accessories now on the market. Before you buy, find out what the machine will do, with and without accessories.

There are many other new power tools on the market. The multi-shaper, for instance, is a distinctive belt sander that performs a variety of operations besides sanding. And then, of course, there are the combination power tool outfits, which give you several power tools in individual setups. They are particularly good where space is at a premium, but the range between the good combinations and the poor ones is so wide that a careful study of all of them is urged before making a choice. Get the one that will best suit your needs and not the first one you happen to look at.

THE LOCATION of the power tools in your home workshop setup will work itself out in time. For instance, you'll find that a bench saw placed against a wall is impractical. When you want to rip a long board, there won't be room.

Holes Should Be Filled

Preparation Is Required For Good Decoration Job

Before decorating gypsum wallboard, make sure the finishing cement over joints has been feathered out smoothly and that nailhead depressions are concealed with finishing cement.

Cemented joints and nailhead depressions are lightly sanded to achieve a smooth monolithic wall expanse.

FEATHERED-OUT joints are usually glossier than the field of the wallboard Primer equalizes the difference in texture.

SIZER is brushed on with semi-circular strokes to obtain a full uniform coat. Primer or sealer provides a bonding surface for paint

PAINT, TOO, is applied in semi-circular strokes and best results with deep tones are obtained if wallboard is first sealed and dry.

Wall or ceiling irregularities are never so noticeable as they are after you have gone to considerable expense and trouble to redecorate. It seems that a nice new paint job, or carefully hung wallpaper accent the blemishes in the underwall.

This is true of old cracks and patches in plaster as well as with carelessly joined and nailed wallboard.

Because of the widespread use of gypsum wallboard, which is virtually prefabricated plaster installed in large panels, decorating problems are increasingly common in connection with this so-called dry-wall construction.

When the joints between wallboard panels and the nailhead depressions are properly treated, this type of wall takes any type of decoration. The result is a smooth monolithic expanse

But a good gypsum wallboard interior depends on a number of factors, not the least of which is proper preparation.

IF THE WALL is properly primed or sealed decoration pitfalls such as streaking or "fogging" and peling or cracking of the finish coat can be avoided

Here are some of the basic elements in a good dry-wall job

1. Framing members must be straight and in alignment They should be properly spaced (usually 16 inches on centers) and leveled in a good, workmanlike manner.

2 The wallboard must be applied according to recommended practices For example, all joints should be loosely butted, with vertical joints staggered

3. All joints should be concealed through the application of perforated tape and special finishing cement, in accordance with each manufacturer's instructions. (This finishing cement is a special adhesive, not to be confused with Portland cement).

4 All nailheads must be concealed. After they are dimpled with the last blow of the hammer, the depressions also are smoothed over with the special finishing cement.

5. Finally all surface irregularities are lightly sanded.

To get a uniform surface, the entire wall and-or ceiling is now primed or sealed Makers of certain latex or rubber base paints say no sizing is required with these paints But where sizing is called for, just any primer or sealer will not fill the bill.

GLUE SIZE is rated as definitely unsatisfactory Although glue size has been used for fast, inexpensive jobs peeling of the finish coat has been almost inevitable The glue is brittle, also soluble in water.

The Gypsum Association also advises avoidance of shellac, which is considered too brittle Shellac substitutes have proved even worse

The best primers or sealers for gypsum wallboard which has been treated with the special finishing cements are listed as good grades of pigmented varnish primers, or lime-locking cold water primers These are recommended for use under an oil paint, casein paint lacquer, enamel or resin emulsion paints.

The pigment in these sealers performs two important functions It provides myriads of "teeth" assuring a more uniform application of the finish coats, while it reveals any "holidays" or voids which should be touched up before finishing.

MAKE YOUR OWN "antiques" from a kit—Mrs Francis Hagerty of Cohasset, Mass., demonstrates here how a Windsor chair, shown finished at the left, is put together from prefabricated pieces It is a reproduction from an original in the Harrison Gray Otis house in Boston. You finish it.

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Three babies in the life of Mrs Helen Fanning a registered nurse who has worked in had any children of her own, but delivery rooms here since 1900 the walls of her apartment are She refers to them all as "my covered with pictures of her "children" from infancy to adulthood. Seven of her babies became brides this year.

She says that she now is helping bring second and third generations into the world

Ceramic Building Block Replacing Cement Type

CHICAGO (UP) — Scientists at Armour Research Foundation have developed a new lightweight ceramic building block which they say has many advantages over the common cement block

The new block was perfected in a project sponsored by the Arabian American Oil Company and research workers hope it will solve the problem of providing low-cost housing in Saudi Arabia

The block is made entirely of ceramic clay It consists of 90 per cent bloated clay bonded with fused clay and is pressed into the standard size of 8 inches by 8 inches by 16 inches with three cavities.

It weighs only 22 pounds, considerably under most cement blocks and can be handled easily by one man It also provides high insulation and a load-bearing strength of 1,000 pounds per square inch.

The blocks can be produced in a variety of colors ranging from buff to dark maroon, and because of their fine-pore structure, can be cut or trimmed easily.

Nails can be driven securely into them, eliminating the "nailing blocks" that must be used with cement units.

Small Repairs To Home Best Done by Owner

SMALL REPAIRS around a house are best done by the homeowner. Contractors and skilled workmen, who are reluctant to come to your home on minor jobs, are usually trying to save you money.

A crack develops, for instance, between a bathtub and the tilework in your new home. You call a tile setter and find him definitely not eager to have the job. The reason is that the work itself can be done in less than a half hour. But the worker needs perhaps a half hour to reach your home, another half hour to get back to his office, and if lunch time or quitting time is near at the end of the trip it is not worthwhile to start another project.

The result is the worker must charge perhaps two hours time, plus overhead, for a half hour job. Knowing this cost will be out of line, and rather than chance losing your good will, he prefers to have you do the job yourself.

You can buy a tube of crack filler for bathroom walls at any hardware store. You can patch cement between tiles yourself. You can fix leaky faucets, point up brickwork, replace broken window panes, sand the edges of doors that bind, and perform many other little jobs without skilled help.

Give your plumber, electrician or carpenter all the information you can on the problem that comes up so he can visualize the work. In most cases he will be glad to give you whatever simple instructions you need for doing the job yourself.

A LAUNDRY PROBLEM

Ten pounds of clothes, washed and spun-dried in a washing machine, still contain about 10 pounds of water. Drying the clothes indoors evaporates this water into the air of the house. Ventilation is the only solution. Vent clothes dryer to the outside or use exhaust fans while the dryer is in use.

New Windows Change House Design

Double-Glazed Insulating Type Called Greatest Recent Advance

If architects and builders were asked to name the one postwar development in building materials that brought about the greatest changes in architecture and the living habits of people they probably would agree it was the double-glazed insulating type of window.

THE IDEA of sandwiching a hermetically sealed and permanently clean air space between two panes of glass has been responsible for four major changes in homes:

1. It has brought more light and sunshine into the home by making large picture windows and window - walls practicable. Condensation and frost on windows and the chill from sitting near a window are eliminated.

2. It has brought about a greater interest in the outdoors. The large windows which replaced the s aller conventional openings have revealed panoramic vistas which can be enjoyed throughout the year. Seasonal changes bring only changing views.

3. It has changed architecture radically. The rambling ranch house and its variations have won many converts from the Cape Cod, Colonial and other styles. People who clung to the traditional, because they said it looked like they thought a house should look, began to see advantages in designs that exploited living possibilities.

4. It has sold land. Changing the home buyer's concept of what a homesite should comprise, he began to think in terms of the view his picture window or window-wall would frame—in terms of a larger plot instead of the minimum size lot. He became willing to travel farther to have more trees and landscaping between him and his neighbor.

WINDOW WALLS in new style homes call for more land.

THIS EVOLUTION dates only from pre-war days, when sealed doubled glazing was first perfected. Today more than 3¼ million windows of this type have been produced by one manufacturer.

The demand for double glazed windows has been doubling approximately every two years.

The biggest boost for this type of glass came very recently with the development of economical framing methods which created the panel style window. These large panes often are framed in 2 by 4s which add to the sturdiness of the wall and reduce the need for excessive bridging above the whole window opening. This framing demonstrated that a window-wall cost no more than a conventional wall with studding, sheathing and siding to provide for only conventional windows.

The spreading use of air conditioning has further underlined the value of double-glazing which eliminates the need for storm sash. When air conditioning showed heat gain in summer to be a factor almost as important as heat loss in winter, year-round double glazing became functionally important.

Wash Walls Bottom Up, Expert Advises

TO WASH A WALL, start at the bottom and work up. If you start at the top, the dirty water runs down over the dirty surface below and makes the dirt on the lower wall stick harder. If you start at the bottom, dirty water running down over the clean surface is easier to sponge off as you go.

This is a tip from the United States Gypsum Co., one of the leading paint producers. Its experimenters also have found the easiest way to remove finger marks from a painted wall surface is to wet the marks with a cleaning solution, allow it to remain a few minutes to soften the dirt, then sponge it off with a circular motion.

After any painted area is washed, it should be rinsed thoroughly with clear water.

Forgotten Tool Kit Saves Man Needless Project

LANSING, Mich. (UP) — Lyle McDonald, who manages the Warren Dunes State Park near here, says he's oddly grateful to a thief who stole the park's outdoor pump.

McDonald said he was getting ready to repair the pump when he realized he didn't have his tools. While he went to get them, the thief stole the pump.

"I'm glad he didn't wait until I had the pump fixed," McDonald said.

Replace Worn Outlets

Contacts in electrical outlets become sprung and worn in time. Switches also wear out. Poor contacts result in interference with the sound and picture in television reception and the tone in radio receivers. Worn outlets and switches should be replaced just as it is customary to replace washers in kitchen faucets.

BEWARE OF HOLIDAYS

"Holidays" are spots missed in a paint job. They can be troublesome, especially on a ceiling, because going back to touch them up often results in a larger spot of deeper shade. "Holidays" can be avoided by having plenty of light when painting.

Tile Floors Are Gaining in Popularity

Attractiveness and Ease Of Maintenance Liked By Homemakers

Resilient tile floors are increasing in popularity with different type materials available for various rooms.

With women in every income bracket doing their own housework, the ease of floor maintenance has become an important factor.

Homes built on concrete slabs did much to popularize the use of composition tiles. Asphalt tile formerly was the only moderately priced flooring which could be used satisfactorily over concrete on or below grade. The recent introduction of vinyl asbestos tiles greatly extended the color range possible for floor coverings on concrete.

DR. G. A. O'HARE, manager of technical services for floor products, reports that new and improved materials are continually coming into the market .One of the latest developments is a master linoleum with colors extending all the way through to prevent patterns from wearing away.

Here is a summary of various types of floor covering tiles and what their manufacturers' say about them:

CORK TILE: retails at about 50 cents per square foot. A natural material texture, it coordinates with contemporary decor. It is sound-absorbent and resilient underfoot. Available in natural color only. Special care — use a minimum of water for washing and wax after each thorough washing. Never use varnish, lacquer, shellac or cleaning oils on cork. Comes in 9 by 9, 6 by 12 and 12 by 12-inch tiles.

Where to use: Entrance hall, library, living room. Effective on walls.

Where not to use: Over concrete or other floors in contact with the ground; in kitchens or other rooms where water, chemicals and fruit and vegetable stains are a daily occurance.

VINYL ASBESTOS tile: Retails around 3 cents per square foot. This new vinyl tile is specially made for installation over concrete on or below grade. Available in 12 clear and bright colors. Its non-porous surface prevents dirt from penetrating and proves impervious to alkalis, acids, grease and detergents. High abrasion resistance gives it longer wear for the same thickness. Made in 9 by 9-inch tiles only.

Where to use: Any room in the house. Suitable for ranch homes without basements, or for basement installation in recreation rooms and laundries.

Where not to use: Over concrete floors containing a radiant heating system.

REGULAR VINYL floor covering: Retails from 32 cents to $1.40 per square foot. Bright clear colors go through entire thickness. Never fades. Like vinyl asbestos, it is impervious to grease, etc. Needs no waxing except for gloss. Said to outwear non-vinyl tiles 50 per cent thicker. Available by yard, or 9-inch tile in 19 colors.

Where to use: Excellent for kitchens because of grease resistance. Fine for every room because of wide decorative possibilities.

Where not to use: Over concrete on or below grade, unless a sealer and underlining are first applied. Vinyl is non-porous and moisture from the ground cannot evaporate through it.

RUBBER TILE: Retails around 68 cents per square foot. Its decorative colors, sound-absorbency and comfort underfoot are advanavailable in a wide range of clear, tages. It is luxury floor covering solid and marbelized colors. Sizes run 6 by 6, 9 by 9 and 12 by 12.

Where to use. Over wood or concrete floors on or below grade.

Where not to use: In kitchens or dining rooms because of grease absorbency.

ASPHALT TILE: Retails around 13½ cents per square foot, depending on colors. The lowest priced material among the hard surface floor coverings, asphalt tile is not affected from moisture either from underneath or from on top. Available in marbelized patterns, but mostly dark or duller colors, it comes in standard 9 by 9-inch sizes.

Where to use: Over wood or concrete on or below grade. A good choice for basements, utility rooms, workrooms, laundries, entries from outdoors.

Where not to use: In garages or places where oil or grease will drip on floor. Oil or turpentine disintegrates asphalt tile.

LINOLEUM: Retails from $2 to $3 per square yard and about 31 cents per square foot in tile form. Its advantages are chiefly decorative with a softer color range, inlaid designs and all over textures. In yard goods form it is preferable to tiles for uneven floors, but smooth subflooring will prevent wear at ridges. Available in many patterns and colors by the yard, also in 9-inch tiles.

Where to use: Over suspended floors only, and in any room. Lining felt should always be used under it and it should be waxed after each washing.

Where not to use: On concrete or any floor on or below grade.

RUBBER TILE brightens a dark and narrow foyer in this scheme by decorators Kim Hoffman and Stephen Heidrich.

Swinging Bookcase Carries Big Load

Swinging bookcase walls have added a glamorous note to modern homes. They often are used to close off one end of a living room, or an ell off a living room to create a den or extra sleeping space.

When empty, such bookcases swing easily. When loaded with heavy books, trouble may develop unless the contrivance is cantilevered properly and equipped with strong bearings.

This problem was illustrated recently when a decorator for a large furnishing establishment telephoned various companies to find out where she could buy false book bindings.

"We are decorating a new house with a swinging bookcase wall," she explained, "and when the shelves are loaded with real books the wall will not swing."

WIDE MASKING TAPE

Consumer demand for the 1½-inch wide masking tape used by commercial and industrial painters has brought this handy accessory into the retail market. The manufacturers, who make the common cellulose tape, recently announced that 1½-inch wide masking tape would now be available in 300-inch rolls.

New Aluminum Is Easy To Work With

Wood Tools Will Handle Soft Alloy; Ideal for Home Handyman

Aluminum of soft alloy, which can be handled with ordinary woodworking tools, is opening new possibilities in the home workshop

The handyman can now make his own aluminum framed window screens and storm windows, lightweight and sturdy metal tubing furniture, his own barbecue cart for the patio, a vacation luggage rack for the top of his car — innumerable articles he never dreamed would come from his amateur's workbench.

IN RECENT YEARS the output of the hobbyist's shop has improved amazingly because of the introduction of new materials to work with Plywoods and grainless, tough pressed wood hardboards brought furniture making within the reach of almost anyone who could hammer and saw The one material lacking was an easily worked metal

Aluminum has come to the rescue

Manufactured in a form called "do-it-yourself aluminum" this material is now available at retail hardware and building supply outlets in a variety of shapes — sheets angle beams rods bars and tubes with aluminum rivets, bolts screws and other fasteners

You can whittle the stuff with a jack knife saw it with a scroll saw or ordinary crosscut wood saw You can plane it sand it, emboss it with a ball pein hammer You can work it on your regular power tools or cut the sheets with a pair of scissors

SMARTLY DESIGNED ash trays ornamental waste baskets magazine racks coffee tables and telephone tables are "pipes" for the handyman using this form of aluminum

A wide variety of working drawings was compiled for free distribution before this do-it-yourself aluminum was ready for national distribution A test workshop was set up at Louisville, Ky by the Reynolds Metals Co under the direction of R B Wemyss, industrial designer and a panel of craftsmen

DEMONSTRATING do-it-yourself aluminum Bill Miller of Louisville Ky, exhibits an easily made barbecue cart

Samples of the material were sent to makers of woodworking tools for testing purposes and among the manufacturers of hand and power tools who have approved the material are Atlas Delta, Disston Black & Decker De Walt, Stanley, Syncro and Skil Corp

Of course there are many householders too busy to worry too much about ash trays and other novelties But when it comes to screens, storm windows, roof gutters or eaves troughs, air conditioning ducts and any number of rust-proof metal needs around the house, show us how we can save some money and we'll try our hand

Michigan Seeks More Information on Bears

LANSING, Mich (UP) — Wildlife experts in the Michigan conservation department have started a project to learn more about bears

So far they have trapped five bears. They labeled the captured animals with ear tags and released them.

Initial results of the experiment were inconclusive One tagged bear later shot by a hunter had wandered only six miles from where he was trapped but another had roamed to a point 15 miles away.

BANDIT TRAP

CAMBRIDGE Mass — (UP)— Twenty times since 1937 bandits have held up and robbed the Kitchenette Diner in East Cambridge — and 20 times the culprits have been captured Recently three youths staged the 20th holdup and fled with $12 Less than 12 hours later all three were in custody and had confessed

Storage Problem Solved by New Closet

Partitions Just Half-Inch Thick Are Adequate And Save Space

How to increase storage space in a home without building expensive stud framed walls has been a subject of research by the University of Illinois Small Homes Council at Urbana-Champaign, Ill.

The result has been the development of partitions only a half-inch thick, which when properly supported, resist impact better than the usual standard plastered wall 5 inches thick.

THE HALF-INCH wall is fabricated in panels of 3/8-inch gypsum wallboard bonded with linoleum cement to 1/8-inch hardboard.

These thin walls used on all four sides of a closet save considerably on floor space.

The research was sponsored by the Lumber Dealers Research Council prompted by the needs for solving the storage problem in small homes lacking basements and attics. Various methods of accomplishing this are described in a non-technical and illustrated bulletin entitled "Storage Partitions" index number C5,11 made available to householders by the university for 10 cents per copy.

IT WAS FOUND that closets with full-access fronts provide greater use in a home than door-in-wall closets. Adjustable shelves were found to be more convenient for the varying reaches of persons of different heights.

Advantages of sliding doors and folding doors of the accordion types were readily apparent over swinging doors requiring more room space.

Box-type storage units of this thin wall construction are easy to build. They can be adapted to various storage needs. Adjustable drawers can be installed under upper shelves. A group of such units also can be used to form a partition to create additional rooms.

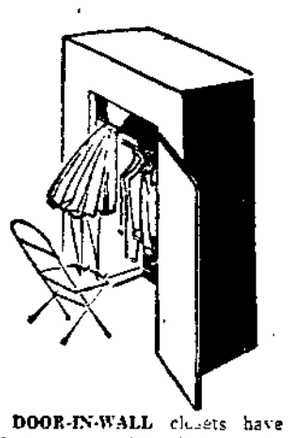
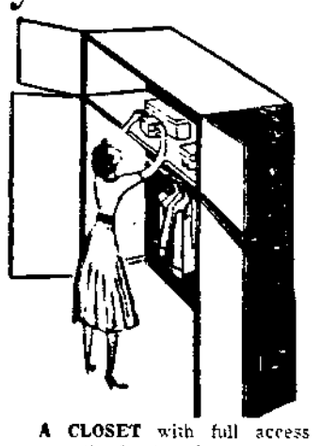
PERFORATED peg-board panels can be used advantageously for the back panels of these storage units. This material adds to the versatility of the closet by providing a variety of hanging facilities, such as for kitchen utensils and tools. The peg-board panel is attached to the wall by nailing it to furring strips spaced 16 inches on centers. This leaves a 3/4-inch space behind the panel to accommodate patent hooks and shelf supports, which hook into perforations.

There are certain limitations in the use of thin walls for closets. The researchers advise that such walls "should not be used as plumbing walls or for that part of interior walls supporting a door frame. The thickness and stiffness of stud walls are necessary in such cases."



DOOR-IN-WALL closets have dark corners difficult to reach, wasteful of space.



A CLOSET with full access across the front is the most convenient for use.

THIN-WALL storage units can be easily adapted for different uses. This closet with a shelf could be fitted with drawers.

HERE A SERIES of drawers is fitted to the same size thin-wall closet. Spaces for such drawers are easily adjustable.

Fancy Furniture Made From Scraps of Wood

CHICAGO — (UP) — Furniture makers are using "reconstructed" wood made from small chips and shavings for fancy furniture.

The Chicago Market Daily, published by the American Furniture Mart, said improved machines and formulas have made it possible for the industry to offer the newly-processed materials.

The "reconstructed" wood is being made into bedroom case goods, occasional tables, chests and even frames for upholstered furniture.

Sometimes the boards are used as they come from the machines with a stain, varnish or painted finish. Others are used as core stock for laminating with the finest face veneers used on expensive furniture.

Machines used in the process mix wood chips, shavings, and a limited amount of sawdust and wood flour with resins and a catalyst, press it into shape, or pour it out in one continuous board.

One firm is making painted bedroom furniture entirely of the material. Another hopes to develop better and less expensive upholstered furniture using the reconstructed wood for frames.

Teenagers Facing Shift in Behavior, Surveyors Report

NEW YORK (UP)—The nation had better brace itself. The teenager is getting set to pop out with a new personality.

That's the word from President Eugene Gilbert of the Gilbert Youth Research Co., the only outfit concerned exclusively with the habits and behavior of the small and middle-fry.

Gilbert said the change has been inthe making in the last 10 years, in dress, speech, manners and opinion.

In dress, for instance, he sees a teen-ager trend toward more formality.

"Shortly after the war," said Gilbert, "Saddle shoes and woven ski sweaters began to drop out of sight. Then plaid shoelaces and colored corduroy slacks went.

"In recent months, some of our operators have spotted boys wearing ties at dances. They also found that crew tops and crazy haircuts like the 'apache' were beginning to fade."

Gilbert, who has some 2,300 student researchers at work in 500 cities, said the language also is changing.

Parents just beginning to understand terms like "date bate," "swoon" and "big deal," now had better gear themselves for "crazy," "real gone," "flip," and "the mostest."

As for teen-age thinking, the researcher produced all sorts of revelations. Politically, he said, most of the young folks of high school age have swung from the Democrats to the Republicans.

"Eighty per cent of those polled in 1944 were pro-Roosevelt . . . now it's 65 per cent for President Eisenhower," said Gilbert.

Gilbert's researchers found that teenagers are starting to date a year earlier than they were 10 years ago—it's now around 14 for boys, and 13½ for girls.

Over this span, the trend toward marrying younger accelerated for girls—the peak year for marriage is now 18, compared with 22 in the early 40's. For boys, however, it remained about the same—23 is the peak year for the man to get trapped.

There is a reason for this steadiness in the male marriage age, Gilbert said. His research showed that few high school males are making plans for the future—most wait until their military service is ended.

The attitude of girls has something to do with it also.

Said the researcher:

"The modern girl is much later than her mother and she admits it. She also is more interested in money. She wants her husband to be earning at least $100 a week at marriage."

Eggs, Salmon Combine

NEW YORK (UP) — Egg dishes are a tradition for Lenten meals. Combined with salmon in this dish the results are hearty enough for lunch or supper. Here is the recipe:

Melt 2 tablespoons margarine or butter in a skillet. Stir in a 1-pound can of salmon (do not drain); 3 unbeaten eggs; 1 tablespoon dry, fine bread crumbs; 2 teaspoons cider vinegar; ¼ teaspoon ground thyme, and salt and ground black pepper to taste.

Cook over medium low heat until the mixture is of the consistency of scrambled eggs (5 to 10 minutes), stirring constantly. Yield, 6 servings. To complete the meal, serve with grits or pan-fried potatoes and a mixed green salad.

Solid Construction Pays Off in Storm

Houses Bolted Securely To Foundation Can Withstand Gales

Sound constructin is of great value in helping your home withstand the devastating effects of violent windstorms.

Experts from the National Board of Fire Underwriters studied wreckage of buildings after tornadoes in Worcester, Mass., Columbus, Ga., and Waco, Tex. They found that in a majority of cases, homes totally destroyed or badly damaged had defects in construction which contributed to their inability to survive the wind.

The most common flaw was the lack of sufficient anchorage—failure to bolt the frame of a house securely to the foundation. In cases where houses had been swept away from their foundations, examination showed no anchor bolts at all.

Another defect appeared to be failure to brace the corners of frame houses securely. Corner braces give a house rigidity. They prevent racking and shaking. When racking and shaking starts, a house may pull apart.

One house in the path of the Worcester tornado had just been completed before the disaster. Although several dwellings and three apartment buildings on three sides of this house were blown down, the one dwelling survived with only superficial damage.

Examiners found that this house was anchored tightly with bolts imbedded in its concrete foundation every four feet. The framing was securely nailed and all corners braced. Roof joists were fastened to the frame with twice the usual number of nails. Even the asphalt shingles on the roof were secured with twice the usual number of nails.

Apparently there is no substitute for good materials and good workmanship.

SURVIVING A TORNADO was this house in the direct path at Worcester, Mass. Securely anchored to its foundation, well nailed and braced, it suffered only superficial damage. In the foreground an unanchored house was swept away.

Firemen Save Roast

OGDEN, Utah (UP) — Mrs. Wright Saxton called out the fire department on a false alarm recently, but firemen said they didn't blame her.

Mrs. Saxton stepped out on her front door for a moment and found she had locked herself out.

She had a roast in the oven and didn't want it to get too well done. So she called the firemen, who came and removed the door panel to let her in.

First Aid for the Ailing House

By ROGER WHITMAN

Q: I would like some information on the use of a mastic as a liner in eaves troughs in houses. In the past I have used tinners red paint. I have had to repaint the troughs every few years. Would one coating of mastic last indefinitely?

A: The trowel type of asphalt mastic is not necessary for coating the interior of the trough. A couple of applications of a good brand of asphalt roof coating is generally satisfactory and should last for quite some time. The lasting qualities of the material will depend a great deal on the amount of foreign matter such as leaves, stone granules from asphalt shingles, etc., that may get into the trough.

Q: We have a bedroom in the northwest corner of the house with no basement under it, but there is a crawl space. The one window in the foundation wall is completely closed in winter. The outer edges of the floor in this room sweat and the moisture at times extends some distance up the wall. Would the installation of insulation correct this?

A: Insulation in the form of a thick vapor - and - moisture - proof blanket placed between the floor joists and well packed into the stud spaces at the floor level, would certainly help. In addition to this, keep the area under the floor dry, leave the window open all year round and cover the ground with a moisture-and-vapor-proof paper. Overlap the edges about six inches and seal them with roofing cement.

Q: I have an oil-burner conversion in my hot-air furnace and find that considerable dirt and dust accumulate around the hot-air registers on the walls. Is there a flameproof fabric that could eliminate part of this dust, if placed behind the registers? Would there be much loss of heat by using same?

A: There is no flameproof fabric made and sold for such a purpose. You can, however, use a cotton mosquito netting and flameproof the fabric yourself. The compound for the purpose can be purchased in the housewares sections of large department stores. Placing the netting back of the registers will affect the circulation of heat slightly, but not enough to make the house uncomfortable. The better method is to have a blower-filter unit installed at the furnace so that all air brought back to the furnace for heating will have the dust removed. Heating contractors can give you further information.

Q: My home of brown face brick needs tuckpointing. Since it would be rather expensive to have the work done by a contractor, I would like to do the job myself. Could you tell me what materials I should use and how to color it to match the color of the brick?

A: After raking out the defective mortar to a depth of at least a half-inch, brush out all loose particles and wet the interior surfaces with clear water. Fill the joints with a fairly stiff but workable mixture of one part of portland cement, five parts of clean, coarse sand and one part of hydrated lime. If color is to be added, use only a limeproof cement color sold by dealers in masonry materials. No more than ten pounds of color should be used to each bag of portland cement. All ingredients should be mixed thoroughly when dry, before water is added. To ascertain the amount of color needed for your particular purpose, a few small trial batches would have to be made before making a full batch for tuckpointing.

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

How To Find Brighter Outlook

So many of my readers have written asking how to overcome depression that I have lately been investigating various techniques for finding a brighter outlook. And, as a result, I have become convinced that no one needs to be a victim of depression or discouragement. I believe that any individual who sets his mind to it can live with hope, eagerness, delight, enthusiasm and power.

DR. PEALE

Of course, you must realize that there is a cyclic rise and fall in human moods, just as there are cycles in other forms of earthly existence. All of us have our emotional ups and downs, but I am certain that you can keep these mood cycles on a relatively high level so that, even in the down sweep of the cycle, you can be elevated in spirit.

I have mentioned before the wonderful Bible text: "Who hath called you out of darkness into His marvelous light." That means simply that God has called us out of the shadows of depression into the brightness of His joyous living.

HOW DO WE find this brightness? There are almost as many ways as there are people. I got the quickest answers to this question from two eleven-year-old girls. One told me, "Why, when I begin to feel a little low, I go home and change my clothes." I suppose that's why women are always buying new hats. It lifts their moods.

The answer from the other little girl was just as good: "I just sit down and talk it all out with myself and with my mother. I get it all out of my system."

A man told me that when depressed he sits down and writes out a list of all the things he has to be thankful for. He says he can cover reams of paper with reasons for happiness when he gets started.

Another man has a method I can only recommend for those whose neighbors aren't too close. He goes home and sings in the shower bath.

Still another man thinks of all those who are worse off than he is. Soon his self pity changes to sympathy.

ALL OF THESE methods are good, but none of them are really profound enough. They can only superficially relieve depression. We must have a basic answer, for this is a great problem. Millions of people, according to some authorities, are victims of mild depression.

This is marked by discouragement, loneliness, disconsolateness, a feeling of inferiority, an inability to enjoy themselves, a sense of some shadow hanging over their lives. They are the kind of people who go around saying, "Oh, what's the use?" and "It's never going to be any better!" and, "I'm a flop."

There is one basic answer to all of this, one sure way to a brighter outlook. It is the technique of positive affirmation. Affirm that God is with you, that He is helping you, that He is filling your mind with peace and joy.

If you condition your mind in the belief that Almighty God is right by your side, you will in time develop an outlook incapable of discouragement. This is one of the greatest techniques of confident living, and as you sincerely practice this pattern of thinking, you feelings of depression will soon pass away.

A WISE OLD Scotsman said something which always helped me, "I find that even in ill weather when He is by my side I walk on the sunny side of the brae."

When you move away from God, the longer and deeper the shadows become. When you are near to Him the light is so strong there can be no shadows. Consequently when you feel depression and discontentment, simply affirm, "I live with God."

Continue this affirmation until your mind becomes filled with God's presence. Depression will lift in proportion to how effectively you recondition your thoughts.

So this is the answer. If you want a brighter outlook, if you want to conquer discouragement and pessimism, if you want to know the full joy which life is capable of giving you — live with God.

Tolstoy who made his way out of depression, said, "To know God is to live." Then the shadows will fly away and each day will be bright with optimism, courage and power.

Lenten Meditations

This is one in a series of Lenten meditations prepared by the members of the Marion County Ministerial Association for publication in The Star.

Trust in the Lord

By REV. WALTER C. EYSTER
Pastor of Epworth Methodist Church

"In thee, O Lord, do I put my trust."—Psalm 71.

During a severe storm on the North Atlantic a woman went to the captain of the large ocean liner. "Captain," she asked with anxiety in her voice, "are we in great danger?" Don't worry, madam," he answerd. "after all, we are in the hands of God." "Oh, she gasped, terror written on her face, "is it as bad as that?" All Christians need to remember that every day we are in the hands of God. The late Bishop William Quayle of the Methodist Church had the experience of going to bed one night and not being able to sleep; he was restless and worried and it seemed he heard God saying to him, "Quayle, you go to sleep, I'll sit up the rest of the night."

If there is one lesson you and I need to learn during Lent it is to trust God, in whose hands we are at all times. Someone has said, "I know a peace where there is no peace, a calm where the wild winds blow. A secret place where, face to face with the Master, I may go."

This prayer quoted by Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick is one that should help us—"O Lord, help me to understand that you aren't going to let anything come my way that you and I together can't handle."

Crestline Is Host For Choir Festival

CRESTLINE — High school choirs from Galion, Bucyrus and Upper Sandusky joined with the A Cappella Choir here Friday afternoon and night for one of the Northern Ohio League's choral festivals.

Rehearsals were held at 2:30 p.m. for the massed numbers and the concert was presented to a large crowd at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. Each choir also sang individual numbers, which were conducted by the different directors.

Supper was served to the choir members in the school cafeteria, after which there was a special show at the Crest Theater. School administrators, music directors and their wives and husbands were served supper in the high school home economics room.

MERRITT O. WILLIAMS

M. O. Williams Named Head of Lumber Firm

The appointment of Merritt O. Williams as manager of the Avenue Lumber & Supply Co. was announced today. He succeeds the late Frank M. Brabson.

Williams has been assistant manager at the local lumber company since 1940.

A native of Findlay and graduate of Findlay Senior High School, Williams has been actively engaged in the retail lumber business for 23 years. He was first associated with the Fasset Lumber Co. of Findlay. He left in 1935 to join the New Castle, Ind. Lumber and Supply Co. He came to Marion in 1940.

Williams is a veteran of World War II, serving 25 months in the Navy with overseas duty in the Pacific area. He is an active member of the Marion Lions Club and has served as director the past two years.

The Williams family resides at 246 Kenmore Ave.

The Avenue Lumber & Supply Co., located at 611 Bellefontaine Ave., was incorporated on Feb. 6, 1930 with Brabson as manager.

Harding Girl To Play In Twilight Musicale

A program of piano numbers on the Marion Lecture-Recital Club's Twilight Musicale broadcast Sunday at 3:45 over Station WMRN will be given by Miss Sally Schneider.

She will play Prelude from "Well Tempered Clavier" by Bach; "Prelude Opus 23 No. 2" by Rachmaninoff; "The White Peacock" by Griffis; and "Harp Etude" by Chopin.

A Junior at Harding High School, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Schneider of Forest St.

News of the Churches

St. Paul's Episcopal

At St. Paul's Episcopal Church in the morning, Robert Shrack, a middle year student preparing for the ministry at Bexley Hall at Gambier, will be in charge of the worship service. An offering will be received in the annual campaign for operating expenses of Bexley Hall which is the Episcopal seminary, part of Kenyon College. There will be no 8 a.m. communion service tomorrow because of the absence of the rector, Rev. Frederick W. Leech, who will be out of the city.

Trinity Baptist

Features of the evening worship service tomorrow at Trinity Baptist Church will be the ordinance of baptism which will be administered at the beginning of the service, and a round-up of religious news around the world.

The midweek service on Wednesday night will be sponsored by the Men's Brotherhood, and the program will be in the form of a panel discussion on stewardship, with Fred V. Smith, president of the brotherhood, presiding.

The missionary circles of Trinity Church are meeting one week in advance of their regular monthly schedule, in preparation for the annual meeting of the Woman's Society on April 8. The locations of the circle meetings are, Thursday, Ann Hasseltine, at the church; Inner, with Mrs. John T. Merchant; Ruth Mather, at parsonage; Seagrave, with Mrs. W. A. Baker; and Judson, with Mrs. Chester Cottrell, with a 1 o'clock potluck dinner.

First E. and R.

Senior Youth Fellowship members of First Evangelical and Reformed Church will be in charge tomorrow morning. A trio composed of Linda Wingett, Nancy Cramer, and Pat Matthews will give a special number. For the midweek Lenten service Wednesday night, Rev. Brice L. Chidester of Bucyrus will be the speaker.

Prospect Street

Special music at Prospect Street Methodist Church worship service in the morning will be "God Is Love" by the Junior Choir. Following the choir rehearsal at 4:30 p.m., the recreation and "snack" supper, Intermediate and Senior Youth Fellowships will meet at 6:30. The younger group will discuss "One Bible—66 Books," with Tom Bowen as leader. Meeting of the older group will be followed by recreation. The membership and evangelism committee will meet Monday night. A representative from the Methodist Publishing House will meet with teachers and helpers of the Vacation Bible School Tuesday night. Following Lenten service Wednesday night Senior Choir will rehearse. The WSCS will meet Thursday afternoon, and the Ama Deus Class Thursday night.

Wesley Methodist

Closing services of the Wesley Methodist Church evangelistic meetings will be held tomorrow. At the service tonight, the Pathfinders Class will attend in a body. The sermon topic will be "Make Peace With Everything." Tomorrow night's theme will be "All Things Are Made New." The pastor, Rev. W. L. Stafford, has reported a number of decisions and reconsecrations as results of the campaign. Plans are being made for registering of attendance each Sunday in April. Organizations meeting next week include Circle 3 Tuesday with Mrs. R. R. Thornberry as hostess, and Circle 2, entertained by Mrs. John Monk on Thursday.

Maranatha Bible

Promotion in Bible School classes will be observed Sunday morning at the Maranatha Bible Church. Nursery to young people's classes will be included in this event which is held twice a year. A quarter-year's study of the synoptic Gospels will be concluded and completion of the Gospels will be marked the last Sunday in June. On the 9:30 a.m. Bible Fellowship radio broadcast Sunday over Station WHKC, Columbus, the Maranatha Church pastor, Rev. Earl L. Holliday, will speak on "Precious Faith."

Asbury Methodist

Filling the pulpit of Asbury Methodist Church Sunday morning, Rev. J. R. Dallas of Marion will give another in a series of sermons dealing with Methodist beliefs. The message will deal with the kingdom of God.

Christian Science

The value of humility, patience, and obedience in learning the nature of spiritual reality and in experiencing the divine healing power will be stressed at Christian Science services Sunday. The lesson-sermon is entitled "Reality."

The challenging definition of worship given by the prophet Micah (6:6, 8) will be included in the readings from the Bible:

"Wherewith shall I come before the Lord, and bow myself before the high God? shall I come before Him with burnt offerings, with calves of a year old? . . . He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?"

Church Briefs

For midweek service Wednesday night at First EUB Church, the Sunday School lesson for the following Sunday will be given consideration, with the presentation by the pastor. Trustee board meeting will follow. The Up-and-Over Class will meet Thursday night at the Guy Stoner home. Plans have been completed for an all-church and Sunday School bake sale next Saturday at the Montgomery Ward store as a church finance project.

—:—

Oakland EUB

"Along the Valley of the Rio Grande," missionary slide pictures, will be presented at Youth Fellowship meeting of Oakland EUB Church tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. with members of the WSWS and Christian Service Guild invited as guests. Following, the young people will go to the Parish House for fellowship period. In the morning for worship hour, the sermon will be in keeping with the One Great Hour of Sharing interdenominational overseas relief program. The special classes for membership will be continued, the adult group meeting during Sunday School and the young people at 4 p.m. Midweek service Wednesday night will be directed by Clifford Ward. Oakland WSWS will be hostess group for the branch conference Thursday.

Forest Lawn

Special music at Forest Lawn Presbyterian Church at worship service in the morning will be anthems, "I Do Not Ask," Stultz, Senior Choir, and "Let Us Adore Him," Ritter, Junior Choir, directed by Miss Feral Burley and accompanied by Mrs. Rolin Montgomery. Youth Fellowship will meet at 6:30 p.m. following Communicants Class which will meet for study at 5:30.

Oak Knoll Baptist

Sermons in a series leading up to Easter are being given on Sunday nights at the Oak Knoll Baptist Chapel designed to be "both evangelistic and Bible teaching." Tomorrow night for the Youth Fellowship meeting preceding the service, a "singspiration" and Bible study will be featured. There will be special music at the evening song service by the young people's group.

Jehovah's Witnesses

Themes listed for lectures and study at the Jehovah's Witnesses Kingdom Hall next week include, at the public lecture tomorrow at 7 p.m., "Who Gave Us the Bible?"; study at 8:15, "Jehovah's Book of Remembrance"; Tuesday night study, "The Great Gathering for Survival"; and Thursday night, Ministry School, "Engage in Pastoral Work With the Shepherd-Prince."

Greenwood EUB

Topic for Youth Fellowship tomorrow at Greenwood EUB Church at 6:30 p.m. will be "The World's Greatest Treasure." The church will take part tomorrow morning in the One Great Hour of Sharing overseas relief program. Members will attend the WSWS conference at Oakland Church Thursday.

Emergency Kit Is Vital to Home Safety

An emergency kit or cupboard is becoming a standard item of equipment in modern homes Tornadoes, hurricanes and other storms causing power failures have alerted householders to the need for keeping emergency paraphernalia in constant readiness.

When the lights go out and stay out, candles and oil lamps can add to the danger because of their fire hazards. So flashlights and electric lanterns are preferred. Fire extinguishers, first aid kits and canned-fuel stoves also loom important when telephone lines fail.

"THE MOST important thing to consider about a household emergency kit is to follow the safety practice used on ships," says Harold Clifton, safety expert for the Olin Industries electrical division.

"This means keeping emergency equipment not only in one easily accessible place, but in dependable operating condition at all times."

Every member of a household should realize that such equipment is for emergency use only and should not be borrowed "just for a minute" for any daily household use.

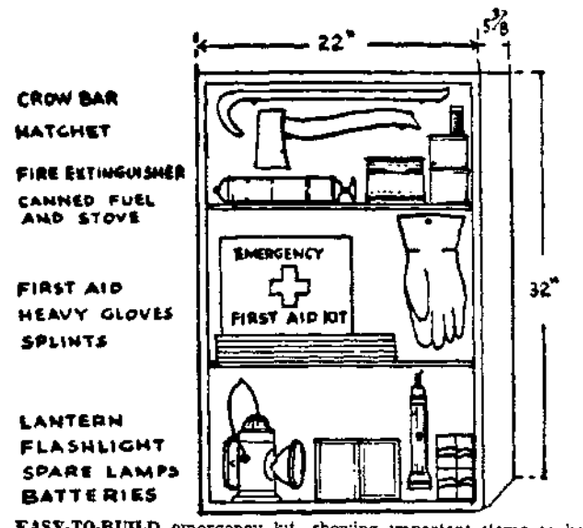
IT IS EASY for any handyman to build a simple wooden cabinet for a closet or back hall, high enough to be out of reach of children, yet quickly accessible.

Among items Clifton recommends for a home emergency kit are a flashlight and an electric lantern with extra batteries, a first aid kit, a 300-pound-test manila rope with snap buckles, a household fire extinguisher, a crow bar and a hand axe, rubber-asbestos gloves and a small canned-heat stove with an extra supply of canned fuel.

"Since the greatest strain probably will be put on your flashlights in cases of power failures," Clifton says, "the batteries in your emergency kit should be the freshest in the house.

"As your other flashlights in ordinary use around the house begin to grow dim, replace them with the batteries in your emergency kit. Then put freshly purchased batteries back in the kit."



EASY-TO-BUILD emergency kit, showing important items to be kept in a handy place and the overall dimensions for the rack. Ordinary ¾-inch boards can be used.

Teachers' Political Actions Are Leading Issue Among Japanese

TOKYO (UP) — Japan's youthful democracy is facing one of its toughest tests in a dispute over political activities of teachers.

The government wants a strict law banning the teachers from classroom support of any political party or belief. But the teachers' union charges that the government actually is proposing thought control and a return to World War II Fascism.

The argument resembles somewhat the wrangling in America over whether teachers should be required to take anti-Communist oaths, but one important difference makes the question more vital to the free world in Japan than in the United States.

The United States has a wealth of experience in protecting individual liberties, but Japan is only three years old as an independent democracy and is taking its baby steps in the very shadow of Communism's second strongest world power, Red China. One faltering step and the island empire could stumble and fall to Communism.

In their youthful enthusiasm to make freedom work, some Japanese government leaders frankly suspect the teachers' union, representing all public school instructors, of spreading left-wing sympathies contrary to democratic education.

Until less than a generation ago, Japanese educators accepted their government without question and taught students the policies laid down by military dictators.

Now teachers, like all other Japanese, are free to think and vote the way they desire, but the government fears the union has gone too far.

The parliament's vice minister for education, Isamu Fukui, charged the union is "an organization of teachers with distorted political views" which "is guiding and wielding sway over the education circle of the country." He warned that teachers' political activities have made controling legislation "imperative."

Not so, said the chairman of the union's central executive committee, Takeshi Kobayashi. He warned that the government bill, soon to be introduced into the Diet, is a front for "the ominous bugaboo of Fascism."

"Should the bill be given legislative approval, teachers would be considered as maintaining neutrality in the realm of education only when they are giving lectures exactly in accordance with the policy of the government then in power," he added.

Between these two extremes, the president of respected, missionary-supported Rikyo University said teachers' "restrictive laws" are "inevitable" in Japan because of what he called a "cancer that is frustrating the effort to build up a democratic society."

The university head, Junzo Sasaki, said many Japanese show a "lack of good sense" in adopting democratic ways.

Smoking in Bed Works Well

Handy Ways To Burn Down the House

Here's how you can burn your house down.

Fire prevention seems to bore people. They seem to think it's more fun to believe "it can't happen here."

So if you feel this way about fire in your home, why not save yourself time and use some of these guaranteed methods to burn your house down. You and your family may lose your lives in the process — many others have — but if you are bored with fire prevention you are willing to take that chance.

—:—

THE BEST WAYS to burn your house down are based on studies made by the National Board of Fire Underwriters. They are based on nearly 300,000 home fires in a year in which thousands of persons perish.

One sure way to take part in this orgy is to develop a few careless smoking habits, since they cause more than 25 per cent of all fires.

Smoke in bed. If you bother with ashtrays at all, use little ones that tip over easily. Better still, place your smokes on a table or chair, or throw matches and smoldering butts into the nearest wastebasket — preferably a cardboard one near a curtain.

Use lighted matches to look for gas leak, or to see into dark closets.

YOU ALSO CAN get burned up by playing around with electricity. This is the Number 2 cause of fires. Try a game like this. See how many appliances you can plug into one outlet. If a fuse blows, put in a heavier fuse. This will add to the fun, because if a fire starts from overheated wiring the firemen will probably have to chop down a wall or pull up flooring to get at the fire.

And don't worry if you don't have enough electrical outlets. You can easily run fragile cords under the rugs or tack them around a door frame. The cords will wear out much quicker this way. They may not look very neat, but it's likely they'll burn up before long, so it won't matter.

And handymen resorting to such tactics can get plenty of help from children. Give them a box of matches to play with. You'll hear flames crackling in no time. To hurry things along, dress the youngsters in flimsy clothing. It burns faster.

LADIES CAN HELP a lot. They can dry-clean clothing with inflammable liquids — gasoline, or what-not. This can add to the excitement, because in addition to flames, it will also cause an explosion.

Less dramatic, but still sure-fire, are these suggestions:

Never clean house. Let piles of rubbish accumulate in your attic, closets and cellar, especially near the furnace. Add some oily rags to the pile and it will catch fire more quickly.

Never clean your stove. Grease flares up beautifully. So do thin kitchen curtains if you make them long enough to blow over a gas flame.

If you prefer a fire in your living room, decorate with lighted candles and for best results place them near draperies or upholstered furniture. Throw away your fire screen in front of the fireplace; it hides your view of the flames. After a few sparks fly out on a rug or a chair, go to bed and ignore them

A WONDERFUL idea for outdoor men is to burn a pile of leaves on a windy day near your house or garage. Be sure you don't spoil the fun by using a metal container with a hose nearby to douse the ashes.

And ashes to ashes are not always dust to dust if you have a coal furnace. You can put your ashes in a wooden or cardboard container. The fire you'll get as a result can be made even bigger by storing some old paint cans near the furnace.

After your house fire is started, you can make it spread much faster by opening doors and windows to give it plenty of oxygen. But don't hurry to call the fire department. Try something like a teakettle of water first.

Just notify your relatives where to find your will. They may want something to read while the firemen are sifting the ashes of your house.

Idaho Farmers Hoping For New Water Source

TWIN FALLS, Ida. (UP) — Officials here say they have tapped what seems to be an underground river that may provide ample water for hundreds of acres of new land being brought under cultivation in the eastern corner of Twin Falls County.

The well, on the new land owned by Ted Sturgill of Kimberly, was drilled to a depth of only 180 feet. From the pumping level of 125 feet, the well is producing a flow of 362 inches of water.

Most other wells in the area produce only about 20 or 60 inches of water.

Sturgill said tests of the new well have been made by constant pumping for several hours, and the water level remains constant.

Drillers said they had expected to work several weeks longer until the drill hit a crevice that carried the stream of water. They described it as almost like an oil gusher.

A six-foot wide ditch was dug to carry off the test water

DOG TUTOR

PORTLAND, Me. (UP) — A 14-year-old fox terrier named Tootsie has always lived in this country but will heed only commands spoken in French. Dr. Perley Lessard, the dog's owner, said the terrier was taught to respond in French so his daughter would be encouraged to study and use the language.

Old-Fashioned Whistle Staging Slight Comeback

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—An improved version of the old - fashioned locomotive steam whistle, which was so rudely brushed aside by the bus-like horns on diesel engines, is being introduced by the Santa Fe Railway.

About 27 per cent of the people killed in U.S. auto accidents are pedestrians.

'Vest Pocket Models'

Modern Heating Plants Can Fit Into Tiny Spaces

Getting the most use out of the amount of space in a home has been made highly important by high building costs. New houses in general are so compactly and efficiently planned that they give every homeowner an object lesson on how to make the most of the space he has.

Equipment manufacturers have been compelled to design their products as compactly as possible in order to get them into modern small homes. Even furnaces and air conditioning plants are virtual vest pocket models when compared with the big old boiler in grandfather's house.

A HOME HEATING authority Sheldon Coleman, says:

"Whether you're building a new home or modernizing an old one, don't overlook the possibilities of getting extra room by hiding the furnace.

"Many ingenious methods of installing modern furnaces require no floor space at all, or at most only a few square feet.

He cites examples of heating plants being mounted in the stairwell above a basement stairway, or in the attic, or in a closet or alcove only slightly larger than the furnace itself. In mild climate areas heating plants are even located in a corner of an attached garage.

INSTALLATIONS of such types are made possible by insulation, which keeps the outer shell of modern furnaces as cool as the outside of new kitchen ranges and refrigerators. Fire safety is assured by underwriters' labels.

"With a little ingenuity in furnace location, Coleman says, "a homeowner can create useful space out of waste space in an existing home—space for living purposes or recreation or hobby use.

Heating ducts as small as 3½ inches in diameter have been a big factor in making compact heating plants practicable. Oil and natural gas have been other contributing factors.

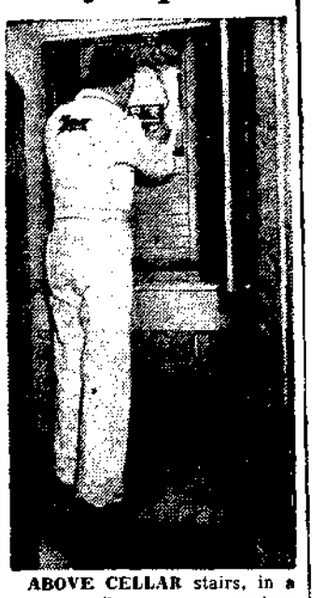
ATTIC INSTALLATIONS of furnaces, once unheard of, are now growing in number. New models specificaly designed for overhead installation can be proportioned horizontally in attic space or for suspension from floor joists. This type of forced warm air furnace can be located in a crawl space under the floor of a basementless house.

The greatest trend, however, has been in closet installations of furnaces in homes without basements. In many of these cases both the furnace and the water heater are accommodated behind louvered doors in a closet tailored to minimum size.



ABOVE CELLAR stairs, in a very small space, a modern furnace is installed. Plank of plywood on wall cleats makes a servicing platform.

Even year-round air conditioning equipment is located in such closet spaces. These units are teamed up with an evaporative condenser and compressor located outside the house, in the barage, or hidden in a planting box.

The 1939 United States stamp commemorating the Panama Canal was first issued aboard the U.S.S. Charleston, which was at the Canal Zone.

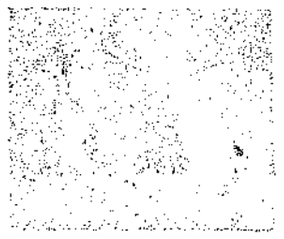
Low-Cost Water Heaters with Complete Copper Tank Last Years Longer, Unhurt by Rust or Corrosion!

Local householders can now own an automatic storage water heater that will not rust! A tank of pure copper inside a tank of solid steel!

This revolutionary new water heater is the Rheem "Coppermatic," the answer to Rheem, world's largest maker of automatic storage water heaters, to the peculiar rust and corrosion problems natural to water in certain sections of the United States. It is the first copper-tank automatic storage water heater in the popular price range. Its remarkable advantages have been completely tested for several years in actual home use under difficult water conditions.

Cuts Replacement

Actually, the purer the water the more corrosive it may be to ferrous metals. The new Rheem product carries a 10-year Protection Plan, and is designed for a "life expectancy" many times longer than that of ordinary water heaters. By its longer service and heating efficiency the Rheem "Coppermatic" will cut total water heating costs dramatically.



Copper Is Ageless

The resistance of the Rheem "Coppermatic" pure copper tank to rust and corrosion is indicated by the perfect resistance to all weather conditions of the thin copper sheets which have covered the Statue of Liberty since 1885. Also, copper pipes used thousands of years ago are found in excellent condition today!

Great Time-Saver

Portable Electric Saw Takes Shop to the Job

Anyone who has used a power saw of the stationary type knows how much faster and more accurate it is than a hand saw. But there are times when such a saw is not practical for certain jobs. One example is when you are finishing an attic a couple of floors away from your table saw. Another example is on an outdoor job. Still another is when the wood is too large to be manipulated safely in the confines of a workshop.

It is for such tasks — and many others — that the portable electric saw has no equal. You take it where the cutting is to be done. Also, many of the better portable power saws can be attached to a bench for stationary use if desired.

The size of a saw is rated by the blade it will accept — usually anywhere from 6 to 10 inches. The 10-inch size is used mostly by professionals. When these saws first hit the market some years ago, they were difficult to handle and had several weaknesses. Today, the kind made by reputable manufacturers is a precision tool. It has adjustments for depth of cutting, for angle-cutting and for many other special work assignments that formerly were done only with stationary saw equipment.

In using this type of saw, the motor should be allowed to run freely for a few seconds before starting the cut. The pressure should be firm but not too heavy. And, in making the measurements, allowance should be made for the width of the saw cut.

HEAVY DUTY portable saw can cut up to 27 feet of 1 ¾-inch planks per minute. It's adjustable.

Hawk-Eyed Wife Tops Husband at His Hobby

ATLANTA (UP) — Some women sit on the sidelines while their husbands enjoy sports.

But Mrs. Guy Davis of Atlanta, tired of watching her husband sharp-shoot, took up his sport. One month after she fired her first shot, she qualified as a marksman under National Rifle Association rules.

Within the next three months, she won the women's division of an Atlanta match. A year later she took the Georgia state women's championship.

Then, she entered the same matches as her husband—and beat him in some of the .22 automatic rifle contests. At last year's mid-winter Nationals in Tampa, Fla., she won high score for women with a .22 automatic, and second highest overall score for women. Her husband finished fourth in the civilian shooting class.

Mrs. Davis, mother of three pre-school age children, said women often surpass men as marksmen, "because women have in - born timing and coordination."

Open Flower Counters, Supermarkets Advised

ITHACA, N. Y. (UP) — Grocery supermarkets and variety stores should go into the flower business, according to Cornell University agricultural economists.

Their study indicated sales of pre-packaged cut flowers apparently will help increase flower shop business by making the public more "flower-conscious."

Prof. Max E. Brunk found customers made casual "impulse purchases" of pre-packaged roses for which "they would likely not have made a separate trip to the florist." The Cornell specialists feel that these purchases enhanced the customers' appreciation for flowers and stimulated them to make a larger number of special purchases.

Store managers had a generally favorable reaction to the new merchandise, Brunk said.

He found customers preferred roses sold in packages of one dozen. They also favored roses in mixed colors, and tended to purchase bright - colored packages more often the conservative ones.

RECORD PICKEREL?

STOCKBRIDGE, Mass.—(UP)—Mrs. James E. Martin claims to be the world's champion woman pickerel angler. She caught a pickerel in Pontoque Lake that weighed nine pounds, five ounches—said to be 5 ounces over the previous world's record.

Ground Wires Make Electric Gadgets Safer

Wet Hands, Household Appliances Cause of Dangerous Accidents

Washing machines, dryers, dishwashers and other electrical appliances involving water can be dangerous hazards in a home, if they are not grounded properly.

Wet hands are common in the operation of these appliances. And water is a conductor of electricity. If motor insulation breaks down, or other internal wiring fails, the metal housing of these appliances can become charged with electricity.

Three-wire outlets for such appliances, with the third wire grounded, are the safest insurance against shock or tragedy. Since 110, 115 and 120 volts, commonly used in house current, can prove fatal under certain circumstances, the use of the word "tragedy" is no exaggeration.

Three-wire grounded circuits are specified for such appliances by the National Electrical Code. So if you plan to install your own washing machine, dishwasher, or other electrical appliance that has anything to do with water, it is wise to familiarize yourself with the grounding system.

Three-wire plugs are attached to three-wire rubber cable. The third, or grounding wire connects to a bolt or screw in the frame of the appliance. Through the third prong on the plug, this grounding wire connects with the receptacle box, which is grounded.

This permits leaking current to flow into the ground instead of shocking you when you touch the appliance housing and provide a ground circuit through your body.

Safety experts now consider ungrounded electrical equipment of any type hazardous because of the likelihood of contact with stoves, radiators, sinks and other grounding agents.

Modern house wiring is grounded properly when installed. One wire of the circuit will be noticed to be identified as the grounded wire by a white or gray covering.

But even if a circuit is grounded, it is wise not to handle water-absorbent asbestos-covered cords with wet hands.

Make Handy Frames

Structural Steel Forms Easily Bolted Together

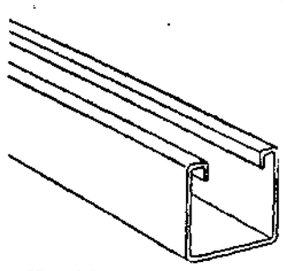
The toy metal construction set has grown up. You can now buy steel in easy-to-bolt forms and build your own porch frame for an awning or corrugated fiber glass roof, your own steel-framed garage, table tennis stands, work bench legs or any variety of sturdy furniture.

The only tools needed for working with this form of steel are a wrench and a hacksaw.

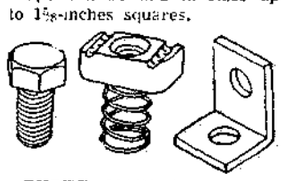
Fabricated in lengths with edges bent up to resemble a U-shape when viewed endwise, with the tops of the U bent inward, the steel is formed to accommodate standard fittings of bolts, angle irons and spring-held nuts.

This fitting system makes it possible to change your mind and readjust cross-pieces between uprights without the necessity of drilling holes. For instance, if you build a stack of shelves and want to alter the spaces between shelves, you do it with a wrench.

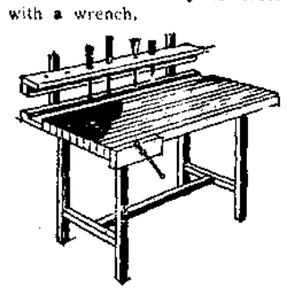
The University of Michigan has made extensive tests of this structural material for light construction such as patio coverings and garage framing. It is being marketed through building supply outlets under the name of Unistrut.



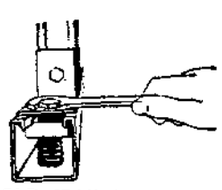
STRUCTURAL STEEL in this shape can be had in sizes up to 1⅝-inches squares.



THREE MAIN joining units make this steel easy to erect with a wrench.



STURDY enough for a workbench, this form of structural steel assembles fast.



ANGLE IRON is bolted into position with a wrench turn to hold right-angle member.

(Unistrut Sketches)

THIS STORAGE rack and many shelf arrangements are easy with hacksaw for cutting.

JUVENILE JURY

BONNER SPRINGS, Kan. — (UP) — Ann Claflin was tardy for school but she had an excuse. The 10-year-old girl's name was on the tax rolls and she was called for jury duty. Judge William Benton found her age ample reason to excuse her from serving. He said it was a relief to listen to her after hearing adults beg off.

TWICE TOO OFTEN

NEWTOWN, Conn. (UP)—Fire started by a defective oil burner forced Albert O'Dell and his family to flee their home in sub-zero weather. They took refuge in another home they owned, next door. They had hardly made themselves comfortable when that caught fire. Oil burner trouble again.

Home Owners Need Coverage By Insurance

Damages From Storms Showing Increase in Most Urban Sections

Tornadoes, hurricanes and high winds know no geography. They have moved into built-up urban areas leaving extensive property damage. Such damage has increased considerably in recent years — not because wind storms are becoming more violent, but because more homes and other buildings are exposed to damage.

While sound construction can help a property owner minimize such damage, there is no such thing as a completely windstorm-proof house. This has been brought out by studies made after storms. Insurance is a wise precaution.

Here are steps you can take:

1. In addition to fire insurance, you can carry what is called extended coverage. This is an endorsement on a fire policy to provide protection against windstorm, falling aircraft, motor-vehicles crashing into your house, smoke damage, hail and riot.

2. Extended coverage can be had on the contents of a dwelling as well as on the house itself. In many cases, windstorms may break a window or damage a roof, exposing the interior furnishings of a house to damage.

3. If you have a mortgage and your mortgage payments include insurance, remember that such protection usually is only enough to cover the mortgage. You need additional insurance for your equity. Without this, in case of a severe loss, the mortgagee would get the money to reimburse him for his loan, but there would not be enough to cover your share in the property.

4. In case of windstorm damage, your first step should be to try to protect your property from further damage from the weather. Then call your local fire insurance agent. He will have suggestions to offer and will report your loss to the company to have an adjuster assigned to make a personal inspection. He also will advise you to get up a list of damages.

About 50 million dollars has been spent on the restoration of colonial Williamsburg, Va. in the last 27 years.

Today's Homes Feature Family Room

Living Room Gives Way, As Old Parlor Did, to New Development

The family room is one of the newst features in the newest homes. It seems that life has become too informal for the conventional living room.

Few people today remember Victorian homes—the room that was reserved for "callers" leaving their cards, for visits from the minister, for weddings and funerals, while the family used the "sitting room."

Today the living room seems to be headed in the direction of the parlor — a room that can be kept presentable without cramping the style of the family in its enjoyment of life.

DOES YOUR living room seem crowded with television, radio, record player, piano and required furniture for entertaining people? Would it be less cluttered if you had a second living room for family living, for youngsters to play in, for teen-agers to dance in and let off some steam?

Such questions are being asked by a lot of people in planning new homes. They decide Grandma must have had something when it came to house planning—a parlor for company, a sitting room for relaxation, a big kitchen with a family table for the good things of life.

So the family room solves the problem for people who like to wear sports shirts, slacks, shorts, jodhpurs, dungarees. It's a place where you don't have to worry. You can be yourself and be happy.

Cover the floor with asphalt tile or linoleum. Cover the walls with wood paneling or washable paint or wallpaper. Make the room a ground floor recreation room with rugged furniture or porch or patio type. Use built-in features—sewing niche, refreshment bar, toy and game cupboards, book shelves, record racks, a black board. And have a big fireplace.

MILLIONAIRE STUFF? Not on your life. Lots of people have come around to the point of view that garages are much too good for cars. Car ports fill the bill. Why not turn garage or breezeway into a family room?

LOOKING INTO a family room, showing glimpses of kitchen and children's room. A living room is entirely separate. This is a feature of a General Electric house at Dallas, Tex.

THE SAME ROOM as seen from the kitchen, looking through a picture window into a play yard for the children.

Modern insulation and wallboard combined with auxiliary heat make such spaces practicable. Big windows and venetian blinds complete the shell.

In new homes a family room can be an integral part of the children's quarters, where folding partitions close off bunk space.

Makers of Kitchen Equipment Have Reason for White

Ever wonder why most manufacturers of kitchen equipment stick to white finishes while people decorate their kitchens with brightly colored wallpapers, woodwork and curtains?

A kitchen authority answers this question by saying that colored appliances would be a perennial headache to the housewife as well as economically unsound both for her and for the manufacturer.

Eloise Davison, home consultant to American Kitchens and other leading manufacturers, contends that color preferences change so often that makers could not possibly stock a variety of steel kitchen cabinets, sinks, dishwashers, refrigerators and other appliances to sell at popular prices.

"Problems of scheduling production of colored appliances and equipment would be so great they would have to be sold on virtually a custom-made basis at prices prohibitive for the average homemaker," Miss Davison says.

"A woman can be as fickle as she chooses white cabinets and appliances as a base."

BOBCAT EXPERT

CONCORD, N. H. (UP) — Fish and game department records show that a veteran hunter, Edward Wilbur of Kensington, killed five bobcats in a week. One cat weighed 35 pounds, but weight doesn't figure in the amount of state bounty money. It's $20 per bobcat regardless of size.

Coat of Enamel Better As Lining for Drawers

Paint is better than wax paper for lining kitchen drawers. A thorough coating of gloss enamel not only reduces the danger of delicate fabrics snagging on wood splinters, but also provides a hard slick surface which can be dusted easily.

One warning is offered by DuPont experts — since paint will not dry on a waxed surface and some furniture makers wax interiors of drawers, try a test in an inconspicuous corner to see if enamel will dry in 24 hours.

Insects Considered As Possible Source Of Skin Conditions

CHICAGO (UP) — A skin condition that has been debated by doctors since 1824 may be caused by the bites of insects such as the mosquito, flea and bedbug, according to a Pennsylvania scientist.

Dr. Bertram Shaffer, assistant professor of dermatology at the University of Pennsylvania, reported at a scientific meeting here recently that findings of the past 11 years indicate that insects may cause the ailment known scientifically as papular urticaria. The condition causes an itchy eruption similar to hives.

Shaffer said he had found that a large majority of patients suffering from papular urticaria "demonstrated sensitivity to extracts of fleas and bedbugs."

"Furthermore," he said, "when patients with papular urticaria were treated in a manner to dispose of fleas and bedbugs, the vast majority of these cases got well, as contrasted with a control group of patients who responded very poorly to other types of medication.

"More recently we have also come to believe that mosquitoes may cause this eruption."

As a result of his studies, Shaffer said, he believes that, while there may be other causes of papular urticaria, the "vast majority of cases that we have seen seem to have an insect bite causation."

THEY STICK. Handy plastic accessories of the self-fix type can be had in the form of hooks, towel bars and what-not at your housewares store. They stick to tile and various other wall finishes.

Trade-In Value New Factor for House Owners

Comfort, Convenience In New Model Homes Good Selling Points

Convenience, comfort and resale value are looming as bigger factors in home ownership than such historic sentimental attachments as the family place for generations.

Year-round air conditioning is doing a lot to speed this trend. Since it no longer is necessary to swelter in summer, any more than it is to shiver in winter, home buyers and home builders are beginning to regard houses somewhat with the attitude they have toward automobiles.

More Refinements

New model houses, like new model automobiles, are expected to have more refinements and more efficiency for those persons who can afford them.

So trade-in value is becoming more important in houses. As far as air conditioning affects this, the change is most noticeable in areas where summer heat is the biggest problem.

Consider Texas, Robert D. Straus, whose firm has served Houston for half a century with heating and ventilating suppplies, says:

"It is not far in the future when the house without complete year-round air conditioning will be obsolete the day the buyer moves in. The house without complete air conditioning will have practically no resale value."

What can you do to meet such competition by modernizing an existing house? We asked the engineers of the largest manufacturers of home air conditioning for advice. J. M. Bickel, vice president of the corporation, puts it this way:

Problem Is Simple

"If your home is reasonably well built, insulated properly for heating and already has warm air ducts, the problem is relatively simple.

"Let's say you have a new warm air heating system, one that's less than five years old. The usual procedure is to install a packaged cooling system alongside the furnace. These compact units generally use the same ductwork as the heating system and provide thorough summer cooling, dehumidification, circulation and filtering of the air. In cases like this, installation costs are cut to a minimum.

"However, if the furnace is more than five years old, the best advice in most cases might be to replace it with a year-round air conditioning system which would add silent winter heating with oil or gas to the summer features. The cost would be only a little more and the new weather-making system would assure more efficient operation. These single-package systems occupy as little as one square yard of floor space."

More Difficult

But what about homes that do not have warm air systems?

"The problem here is not quite so simple," Bickel admits. "But there are three solutions:

"1. The year - round room unit, about as compact as a radiator. Remote coils, in basement or garage, provide chilled or heated water according to the season. In some cases the chilled water system can be used in summer while the regular radiator serves in winter.

"2. A central system with ductwork added to circulate cooled, dehumidified and filtered air during the summer.

"3. Room air conitioners for summer use. New types of window units can be installed almost flush with draperies."

As for overall costs, Bickel says they will vary for recommended systems from $ 800 to $2,000 for the average house. He has found one of the most popular financing arrangements to be a modernization loan through the FHA. Another arrangement is through the spreading use of open-end mortgages, under which monthly home carrying charges are increased by only a few dollars per month.

There are about 1.200 million acres classified as "land in farms" in the United States.

Safe Shelving Lengths

HOW LONG can a shelf be to support normal or heavy loads with safety?

This has been worked out in research by the University of Illinois Small Homes Council as follows:

MATERIAL	NORMAL LOADS	HEAVY LOADS
⅝-inch plywood	26 inches	16 inches
¾-inch plywood	46 inches	29 inches
¾-inch solid wood	48 inches	30 inches
1¼-inch solid wood	66 inches	42 inches

The spans listed are from edge to edge of the shelf support. The length can be extended by the amount that a shelf may overlap its two supports.

The figures apply to Douglas fir plywood when used with the face grain parallel to the span. The solid wood figures are for white pine boards or other materials of similar stiffness.

Normal loads refer to the storage of clothing, dishes, toys or other articles which may amount to about 16 pounds or less per square foot.

Heavy loads include books, magazines, phonograph records, which may amount to 64 pounds per square foot.

Building Permits

Seven building permits for a total valuation of $58,810 were issued at the Marion city clerk's office during the week from March 20 through 25.

This was four more permits than were issued for the previous week, but total valuation was down from $62,700 total of the week of March 12 through 19, which was the highest for any one week period since last October.

Permits issued were:

G and G Builders, construction of six new houses on Blaine Ave. south of Duluth Ave., $48,000.

Robert and Patricia Waldbauer, 151 Kensington Ave., home, $10,000.

Jack Barford, 186 Chicago Ave., addition to porch $400.

William C. and Mary Richardson, 251 Merchant Ave., private bath, $260.

George and Helen Pemberton, 735 N. State St., bathroom, $100.

Sylvester Stafford, 385 Glad St., chicken house, $60.

William and Alice Walter, 700 Henry St., shed, $50.

LIGHTING IMPORTANT

Don't stint on lights in the workshop. In addition to the main light, have several other lights at strategic locations so that they can be turned on when working on a particular machine. Look into the possibility of installing flourescent lights. And have an electrician determine whether your wiring arrangement is sufficient for the extra loads imposed by your power tools.

There are enough motor vehicles in the United States to carry the nation's entire population at one time, with enough space left for all the people of Italy.

ALKYDS SPEED DRYING

Alkyds in paint mean that part of the natural fatty acid of linseed oil has been replaced with synthetic phthalic acid. Faster drying and a tougher and more water-resistant film are the results. Alkyds originally were used mostly for outdoor paints, but are now being used in many indoor coatings.

Cedarcoat them all with

Cedar-Wall

- Fireproof
- Fragrant
- Protective
- Economical

Just mix CEDAR-WALL with water to a plastic consistency—dip a paint brush in the mixture, apply to closet walls and ceiling—and—presto! You have a fragrant, aromatic, cedarcoated closet! CEDAR-WALL is a compound of crushed genuine red cedar wood, impregnated by an exclusive process, with many more times the quantity of cedar oil than nature provides in cedar wood.

Peg-Board Can Provide Storage Space

Walls Put to Work With Attractive Perforated Building Material

"Working Walls" are solving the storage problem in many modern homes. These are walls faced with peg-board, a material that makes it possible to put shelves and hangers at any place, change your mind and rearrange things without using tools or defacing the wall.

A form of perforated pressed wood hardboard, this material provides a functional and attractive combination of holes and interchangeable hooks and brackets that open up many possibilities.

You can see peg - board used today for displaying merchandise in smart shops, for decorative effects in living rooms, as room dividers and screens. You can see it used in kitchens for hanging pots and pans, cooking forks, memo pads, can openers—everything you want to have handy.

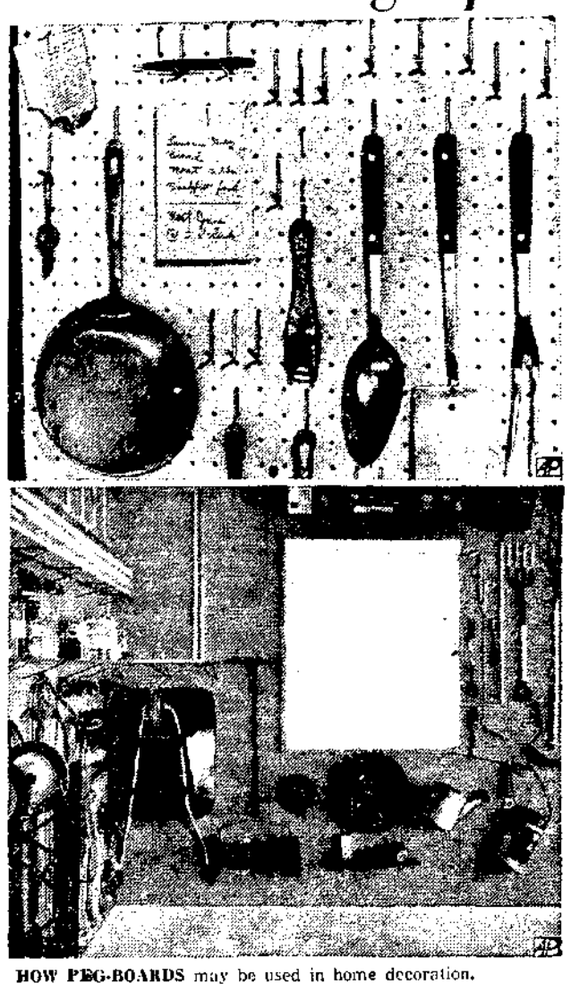
WHEN USED to line closets, this novel material provides for the convenient hanging of hats, clothes and shoes. As a lining for a garage it keeps the lawn mower, wheel barrow, rakes, hoe, shovel, sleds—everything off the garage floor and on its proper hook.

Holes are spaced at 1 inch on centers. More than 60 types of matched metal hanging fixtures fit any hole in the panel, automatically lock into place and can be interchanged without any tool.

Two major types of peg-board are ⅛-inch thick for ordinary usage in the home and ¼ thick for heavy duty, such as garage liners. Panels are available in various sizes ranging from 24 by 36 inches to 4 by 8 feet. They can be painted any color with any type of paint, lacquer or enamel, or left in natural dark brown masonite color. Leather-wood also is made in peg-board style.



HOW PEG-BOARDS may be used in home decoration.

UPPER: In the kitchen a peg-board panel keeps everything handy. Car keys, recipe clippings, memo pad and pencil included.

LOWER: It's easy to keep your garage floor clear when tools and toys are hung in their places on a peg-board wall.

ALL FORMS of peg-board and the various hardware fixtures are now available at local lumber yards.

Installation of these panels is simple. They may be applied directly over old walls by screwing them to the wall studs over spacers to allow just enough room for the insertion of the metal fixtures. In new construction, or in lining an unfinished garage, the panels can be nailed, glued or screwed directly to the studs.

Some home builders have used peg-board for a facing under eaves, nailing it to the underside of projecting joists, to provide an economical and effective ventilation for attics and roofs.

FRAMING MEMBERS and furring strips to which peg-board panels are to be fastened should be spaced not more than 16 inches on centers. The use of 16 gauge brads is recommended, spaced 6 inches on centers at intermediate supports and 4 inches around the edges. When possible, the brads should penetrate 1 inch into the nailing base. The brads are countersunk with a nailset and brad holes are filled with wood putty.

Counterfeiting Leads World's Criminal List

PARIS, (INS) — Counterfeiters, gold smugglers and dope peddlers now head the rogues gallery of international criminals.

Interpol—the International Commission of Criminal Police, reported at its annual convention held in Oslo recently that also high on the list were thefts of money, thefts of property, confidences games or swindles, and passport and identification card counterfeiting.

But counterfeiters, said Interpol, were the star of international crime.

In 1952, it was disclosed, no country was safe. Apparently, the art of counterfeiting is getting better all the time.

To safeguard an unsuspecting public, a pamphlet entitled "Counterfeiting and Falsification" was distributed in Europe, informing potential victims of counterfeiters and their methods.

Parallel to the printing of counterfeit paper money, Interpol said, was the appearance of phoney gold pieces and even, believe it or not, counterfeit stamps.

Gold smuggling, the report said, was of major importance. This was caused by the black market which was created following differences in price of gold in various countries.

Thus, in India, where the price of gold is twice as much as elsewhere, gold smuggling is a flourishing business, Interpol explained. The same is true in Hong Kong and Japan.

As for dope peddling and smuggling, these continue to give the world's police forces a very big headache. Major offenses in 1952 numbered 250, with most concentrated in the Middle East.

In Singapore opium reigns king, while in France, Italy and Turkey heroine leads all other narcotics, the report stated. World traffic in cocaine was negligible, it was stated, but European traffic in morphine and Indian hashish (also cultivated in France, Spain and the low countries) was considerable.

Interpol showed concern with Universal juvenile delinquency, which it said was tied in direct proportion with social chaos, alcoholism and economic hardship, especially in those countries which suffered most the ravages of World War II.

In France, for example 200,000 children today are classified as abandoned or homeless; in Spain, 10,000 cases involving minors were brought before the courts in 1949.

Juvenile criminals, the report said, were very often the most formidable, since they possess a lively imagination and their truthfulness under questioning very often goes unchallenged even by veteran cops, so expert is their lying.

NO HANDICAP

GREYBULL, Wyo. (UP) — Mrs. Glen Coxen doesn't believe women are the weaker sex. She worked for a week after taking a spill, then discovered she had broken both arms in catching herself. She went back to work, her right arm in a cast and her left in a sling.

Bandsaw Important Tool

Allows Home Handyman To Fashion Curves In Wood Stock

A bandsaw is many different things to many different people. To the lumberjack, it's a machine with a very wide blade for sawing logs into planks. To the millworker, it's the equipment which enables him to resaw thick stock into thinner material. To the small professional shop worker and the home handyman, it's something that allows him to saw curved work or combinations of curved and straight work.

The home machine . . . the kind most of us have seen in stores that sell power tools . . . runs on a 1-3 or ½ horsepower motor. The saw itself is a flexible band of steel, with teeth cut on one edge. The saw is strained over two vertical wheels or pulleys, fitted with rubber tires and provided with adjustments for centering the saw upon the rims and for giving the saw the correct tension.

To prevent the blade from twisting sidewise in the cut, and to give it support when cutting, the band saw is provided with guides, the design of which varies with different makes of saws. The table is fitted with a hole through which the blade works. Adjustments permit tilting the table so that bevel cuts can be made.

THE BANDSAW cuts curves in the home workshop.

The average depth of U. S. underground coal mines is 190 feet.

Zoo Inmates Enjoy Short Trips, Visits

DeLEON SPRINGS, Fla. (UP)— Residents around the Ponce de Leon Springs jungle zoo are getting accustomed to playing nursemaid to a strang variety of animals.

The zoo is composed of 14 islands on which the animals are isolated only by water. Some of them have regular attacks of wanderlust and all seem to be able to swim.

The tapir, for instance, turned up missing one night and was found asleep in the lobby of the Ponce de Leon Springs Hotel.

Recently a farmer at Seville, 12 miles away, called to report that "a funny looking bird with yellow things sticking out of his head is in my chicken yard." Turned out to be the African Golden Crown Crane that had been missing for a month.

The Mallard ducks regularly swim out of the jungle area but always return. The miniature Costa Rican deer, which grow only as large as a dog, also wander freely over the countryside.

Three Himalayan bear cubs decided to see how their neighbors, the monkeys, lived and swam over to the adjoining island. The monkey's moved out and won't come back.

The 30 Rhesus monkeys much prefer to rough it over the 54 acres of the zoo rather than stay in one place. They get a big kick out of raiding the film shop and also scurrying off with the lunchboxes of workmen. All cars on the grounds have to be kept locked.

One member of the ape family, the gibbon, has been missing for more than six months.

Photographs Can Help Guard Value of Your Home

Pictures of House Taken In Summer Can Sell It in Winter

Keeping your house ready to sell is the best insurance you can get on your investment in your property. Adequate fire insurance and coverage against windstorm and other damage are taken for granted. But few persons realize the importance of protecting resale value.

You may have no intention of selling your home. But who can tell? A sudden transfer of your job to another part of the country, or business reverses, or death may result in your house being put on the market at a most unfavorable time.

NO MATTER HOW attractive your property may appear when trees are in full foliage, flowers are in bloom and the lawn well-trimmed, a prospective buyer who calls on a bleak and dreary winter day cannot be expected to visualize all that.

Photographs are one answer, John Brooks, an editor of the Leica Photography magazine, says:

"Start in the spring and early summer to photograph your house while it looks its best, and a prospective buyer in midwinter will get an entirely different idea of the natural beauty of your property."

WHAT SHOULD go into your "sales" album? Emphasis should be placed on outdoor pictures since the potential buyer will examine the interior and spend most of his time on its inspection.

While a majority of your exterior shots will show the entire house from various points of view, don't overlook a few close-ups of special features which add to the value of the property—a terrace, for example, a breezeway or handy drying-yard, even the garage. Better keep the garage doors closed, however, unless you are unusually tidy.

Always try to keep part of the house itself in the picture. And whenever possible, lend a personal touch to the paotographs. A picture of the back yard will have far more appeal if there are children playing in the wading pool or sand box.

YOUR HOME is at its best with trees in foliage and flowers in bloom when summer sun is smiling for a photograph worth showing to future prospective buyers.

USE A LITTLE forethought. Make sure the lawn is trimmed. Move those garbage cans out of sight. See that window shades are drawn to the same level.

For additional sales appeal, include a few photographs of the neighborhood—street scenes, typical homes nearby, schools, churches, shopping centers and even transportation facilities.

You don't have to exclude interior pictures altogether. For example, if you are planning a few renovations, such as painting the living room, remodeling the kitchen, take several "before and after" photos. It's a good way to show a buyer that you have kept your house in good repair.

HERE ARE a few tips to keep in mind when photographing your home:

Remember that it is the house, not the picture, which you are trying to sell. So avoid unusual or "trick" pictures. For outside shots, keep vertical lines straight in your composition so the house will appear in true perspective. If you can't get the top of the building in the picture, don't tilt the camera, but move back far enough so you can get everything you want on the film.

BUT IN THE BLEAK of winter no house is at its best. Without evergreens shown here, the scene could be more dreary.

In general, avoid taking black-and-white pictures at high noon. The sun will give you attractive shadow effects if you wait for the right hour. And photograph your house at an angle, not "full face." Try to get all of one side of the building plus part of another in the picture.

Color film is fine if you can afford the prints—and especially fine if you have an attractive flower garden. But viewing color slides can be a distaction when talking to a buyer.

For interior shots, a wide angle lens is highly desirable.

Even if you don't expect to put your home on the market, your file of pictures will be invaluable, not only as a personal album of home and family, but also as a permanent record for insurance

Single Persons File One-Third of Taxes

CHICAGO (UP)—Single persons are filing more than a third of the individual income tax returns received, according to Commerce Clearing House.

The clearing house, a private reporting agency on tax and business law, said reports for fiscal 1950, the latest year for which such figures are available, showed that 13,669,388 returns were filed by single persons. Of these, 6,152,704 were women and 7,516,994 were men.

A woman was among the three single persons reporting incomes of more than $5,000,000. She reported $6,413,000 in adjusted gross income and paid a tax of $4,309,000.

In the group reporting from $100,000 to $1,000,000, were 1,655 women and 1,330 men. But for those incomes of $5,000 to $100,000, men outnumber woman, 364,025 to 256,507.

U.S. Army in Korea Attempting To Teach Unschooled Members

SEOUL (UP) — In a chilly quonset hut near the Korean front, a U. S. sergeant stood up and asked:

"Okay, Rodriguez, how much is 4 times 2?"

"I don't know," was the answer.

A few miles away, in a dark mess tent, another sergeant held up cards bearing the words "cows," "pigs," and "today."

Slowly, fumblingly, a private first class tried to read them.

Almost six per cent of the American soldiers in the Eighth Army are like these two. The Army calls them "basics"—men who could not make the fourth grade. They become the special charges of the Army's Troop Information and Education program. Some of them are illiterate.

Officers are embarrassed that these men are overseas. An Eighth Army education officer said "it is a waste of time, money, and energy to have these men in the Far East," and added:

"These men should be trained in the States—if they should be in the Army at all. But since we have them here in Korea, they must get first priority in the education program."

So front-line units are now putting great stress on education. In many units, the "basics" must go to school every day until they pass fourth grade.

The Army works on them 10 weeks before giving up. Most of the time it is successful, where the public schools were not. Last fall, more than 20,000 Eighth Army soldiers graduated out of the "basic" class.

Today, one-fourth of the rest are taking daily instructions. One of those classes is taught by Pfc. Bert Givident, Mapleton, Utah, just a few hundred yards behind the front in a greasy tent with no lights—the generator is off in the daytime.

There are 14 students in his class. Givident, who went to Brigham Young University, spelled "finish" and turned to the class.

"Is that okay, Proctor?"

"I don't know," Proctor replied.

"Can't you spell finish?"

"I can't spell finish." Alone among the 14, the class bores him.

"Can you try?"

"No. I don't know how."

After class, Sgt. Basil Presti, Great Neck, Long Island, who runs the education program in the battalion, talked to the soldier:

"Proctor, wouldn't you like to write your wife? Suppose you finish reserve and go back to the line — wouldn't you like to tell her that?"

"Sure I would," replied Proctor. "Only I don't know how to spell. What do I do?"

"Put it this way. There's lots of words I don't know how to spell. So I try, and I learn it. You don't even try. What's your job back home?"

"I'm a bricklayer."

"Okay, you're a bricklayer now. What'll you do when you're 45 years old and too old to lay bricks?"

Proctor had no answer.

"Education is not part of life," Presti concluded. "It is life. The Army gives you a chance to learn what you don't know. If you try, you can do it."

The soldier went back to class.

"He'll come around," Presti said. 'We had 40 guys like that last time, and 30 of them passed."

Previews of the Coming Attractions at the Local Theaters

The Week's Top Features

PALACE

Sunday - Tuesday — "Rob Roy, The Highland Rogue" starring Richard Todd and Glynis Johns, and "Dumbo."

Starting Wednesday — "Rose Marie" starring Ann Blyth, Howard Keel, Fernando Lamas, Bert Lahr and Marjorie Main.

STATE

Sunday - Monday — "Serpent of the Nile" and "Stand At Apache River."

Tuesday - Wednesday — "We're Not Married" and "Desperate Search."

Thursday-Friday — "Naked Spur" and "Three Steps North."

Saturday — "Silver City" and "Golden Blade."

MARION

Sunday - Monday — "Hot News" and "Here Come the Girls."

Tuesday - Wednesday — "The Highwayman" and "Sins of Lulu Belle."

Thursday - Saturday — "The Golden Idol" and "Blowing Wild."

OHIO

Now playing through Wednesday — Double feature, "Riot in Cell Block 11" starring Neville Brand, Emile Meyer, Frank Faylen, Leo Gordon and Robert Osterloh, and "Paris Playboys" with Leo Gorcey, Huntz Hall and the Bowery Boys.

Starting Thursday — "King of the Khyber Rifles" starring Tyrone Power, Terry Moore and Michael Rennie.

Two Walt Disney Productions Billed At Palace Theater

Two Walt Disney technicolor productions, "Rob Roy, The Highland Rogue," and "Dumbo," will be shown Sunday through Tuesday at the Palace Theater.

Starring Richard Todd and Glynis Johns, "Rob Roy, The Highland Rogue" tells of the fearless Scotch rebel who defied a king and the royal armies to save his MacGregor clan from obliteration. Even though he had escaped capture, Rob Roy listens to the persuasive pleas of his pretty bride and surrenders his sword for the good of his outlawed clan to George I, the Hanoverian king of England.

Starting Wednesday will be the first Cinemascope musical, "Rose Marie," starring Ann Blyth, Howard Keel, Fernando Lamas, Bert Lahr and Marjorie Main.

The story is concerned with the triangular romance of a French-Canadian girl of the woods, a fur trapper and a Canadian mountie. Ann Blyth, in the title role, is an untamed girl of the woods who is adopted by Sgt. Mike Malone, played by Howard Keel, and is delighted with her outdoor life as a mountie "recruit" before she submits to being transformed from an irrepressible tomboy to a lady.

She falls in love with an adventurous trapper but this turns tragedy when he is accused of murder.

'Here Come the Girls' On Marion Theater Bill

"Hot News" starring Stanley Clements with Gloria Henry, Ted DeCorsia, Veda Ann Borg and Scotty Beckett, and "Here Come The Girls" starring Bob Hope, Tony Martin, Arlene Dahl and Rosemary Clooney, will be shown Sunday and Monday at the Marion Theater.

The former relates how a crusading sports columnist breaks up a vicious gambling ring with the charming assistance of the young woman society editor of his paper. The latter film concerns Bob Hope as the world's oldest chorus boy who is suddenly whisked to stardom because he is being used as a decoy for a homicidal maniac who is out to assassinate any and all of Arlene Dahl's boy friends.

Billed as a double feature for Tuesday and Wednesday are "The Highwayman" and "Sins of Lulu Belle." The former stars Philip Friend, Charles Coburn and Wanda Hendrix, and heading the cast in the latter are Dorothy Lamour, George Montgomery, Albert Dekker and Otto Kruger.

The plot in the former concerns the exploits of a young nobleman who turns outlaw to lead a rebellion against tyranny.

Thursday through Saturday, the attractions will be "The Golden Idol," latest in the Bomba of the Jungle series starring Johnny Sheffield, and "Blowing Wild" with Gary Cooper, Barbara Stanwyck and Anthony Quinn.

"The Golden Idol" is a suspense drama of two factions trying to get possession of a valuable museum piece that has been lost for centuries. Circumstance has brought it into the possession of Bomba and he misses death many times as the opposing forces clash around him.

Ohio Theater Plans Cinemascope Film Starting Thursday

Current attractions at the Ohio Theater are "Riot in Cell Block 11" with a cast headed by Neville Brand, Emile Meyer, Frank Faylen, Leo Gordon and Robert Osterloh, and "Paris Playboys" with Leo Gorcey, Huntz Hall and the Bowery Boys. They will be shown through Wednesday.

"Riot in Cell Block 11" was filmed almost entirely within the walls and cell blocks of one of the largest penal institutions in the west, Folsom State Prison, near Sacramento, Calif. It shows the life of inmates in the penal institution of today, where overcrowding has imposed a problem.

In "Paris Playboys," Hall, because he is an exact double for a missing French scientist, is hired to go to Paris and pose as the missing man. By this ruse, authorities hope to smoke out a spy ring that had been trying to get a secret rocket fuel formula on which the scientist had been working.

A Cinemascope production in technicolor, "King of the Khyber Rifles," starring Tyrone Power, Terry Moore and Michael Rennie, will open Thursday.

The picture relates a romantic adventure story based on a novel by Talbot Mundy with its action taking place in India during the hundredth year of British rule. British soldiers and Afridi tribesmen fight their way up and down mountains, through Indias Khyber Pass and across deserts.

Tyrone Power plays Capt. King, a half-caste British soldier given command of the Khyber Rifles by the General, portrayed by Michael Rennie. When he makes a hit with the General's daughter, Terry Moore, he begins to suffer discrimination from the other British officers. His loyalty is put to the test in an ensuing breach with the native leader who is also King's foster brother and childhood playmate.

TYRONE POWER locks in death struggle with Guy Rolfe in the classic novel of British colonials in India, "King of the Khyber Rifles," filmed in Cinemascope. It opens Thursday at the Ohio Theater.

Technicolor Attractions Slated at State Theater

Two technicolor attractions, "Serpent of the Nile and "Stand at Apache River," will be shown Sunday and Monday at the State Theater. The former stars Rhonda Fleming and William Lundigan, and heading the cast in the latter are Stephen McNally and Julia Adams.

Billed for Tuesday and Wednesday are "We're Not Married" with Ginger Rogers and Victor Moore, and "Desperate Search" starring Howard Keel and Jane Greer.

James Stewart and Janet Leigh are stars of the technicolor film, "Naked Spur," which will be the main attraction of a double feature Thursday and Friday. Completing the billing will be "Three Steps North" with Lloyd Bridges and Lea Padovane.

Saturday only the double feature will be "Silver City," in technicolor and starring Yvonne DeCarlo and Edmund OBrien, and "Golden Blade" with Rock Hudson and Piper Laurie. The latter also is in technicolor.

Make One Into Two

Single-Bath Bottleneck Solved by Compartments

Modern living is making the need for more than one bathroom almost a necessity in many families.

Children getting ready for school at the same time a man gets ready to go to work, at the same time a mother must assemble the laundry or dress the baby, makes a single bathroom a serious bottleneck in family living.

As a family grows older, even greater strains are placed on a bathroom. If there's a boy in the family, the time comes when two men want to shave at the same time. If there's a girl in the family, two women want to make up and dress their hair at the same time. And more guests in a house emphasize the inadequacies of one bathroom.

BUT A BATHROOM, because of its plumbing, electrical requirements, heavy fixtures, sanitary floor and walls — usually hand-set clay tile or other permanent finishes — is the most expensive room in a house. So compromises develop. The half-bath no longer sounds like a joke. The powder room and off - kitchen lavatory have demonstrated the utility of the half-bath. Large enough for only a lavatory and water closet, it has no bathing facilities. If a stall shower is included, this room becomes a bathroom.

The compartmented bathroom, which has been common in England and France for many years, is now being more widely adopted because it enables more than one person to use the room at the same time.

A two-compartment bath usually separates the water closet in a closed off corner. A three - compartment bath usually has the bathtub also walled off, leaving only the lavatory and its medicine cabinet and linen storage in the main section of the room.

There are various ways of compartmenting bathrooms. A trade publication for home builders recently featured 70 ways to plan a bathroom without exhausting the subject.

MERELY ONE extra lavatory can greatly increase the usefulness of a bathroom. When there is not room for this extra feature in the room itself, it often can be placed in an alcove outside of the bathroom door, where adequate lighting and a suitable mirror make it convenient and efficient.

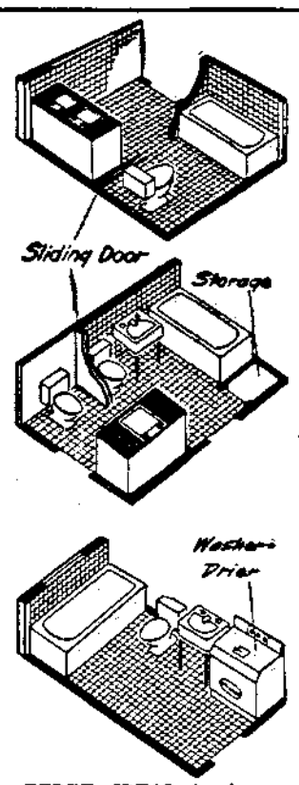
The recent adoption of the kitchen countertop idea around a bathroom lavatory, to convert it into a vanity table with linen storage built in below, has further improved the utility of a bathroom. Such countertops make it easier to bathe a baby. Various plastic laminates are commonly used for vanity tops, but because of the need for permanently watertight joints, tile tops the list here when it can be afforded.

The principal difference between a powder room and any extra lavatory is its location. Usually near the entrance foyer, it eliminates the need for guests to go upstairs for casual bathroom use, and in a one-story house it tends to keep guests away from the bedroom wing, protecting the privacy of that part of the house.

However, since a powder room is largely a luxury in a one-story house, the home owner usually finds it more expedient to provide a lavatory off the kitchen, near the rear door or basement entrance. Garden hobbies and outdoor sports of all kinds make a lavatory near the kitchen door very desirable. It keeps children from traipsing through the house from their backyard play areas.

THE MINIMUM bathroom, occupying the least possible space, is steadily losing favor under the test of family living requirements. The trend in new houses, planned the way families want them, is toward larger bathrooms. At the luxury end of this trend is the health room with a massage table, sun lamp, pulley weights for exercise and various other equipment.

But even in small homes, larger bathrooms are worth their space. Some home planners have found that a laundry in a bathroom, where it is adjacent to bedrooms where most laundry is gathered, makes more sense in actual usage than a laundry in the kitchen.



THREE IDEAS to increase the use of a bathroom, showing divisions possible and an appropriate location for a washer-dryer.

Fourth Dimension

Color Can Make House Seem Larger Than It Is

You can make your house look bigger without building it bigger. The way to do it is to use color.

Color, as any architect, interior designer, or artist knows, is a fourth dimension — just as important as the three physical dimensions of length, width, and height.

Color rates as a fourth dimension because it has the power to create illusions and increase apparent size.

Specialists in color design consider the roof a key color area and say that by proper selection of asphalt shingle colors they can make a low, squat house appear taller or an awkwardly tall house appear lower and better proportioned.

BEATRICE WEST, a professional color consultant, has compiled a list of "how-to-do-it" suggestions for home color-styling. Here are her ideas for the exterior:

1. Because the roof is usually the largest unbroken expanse on the exterior, let it set the color pace. Light, bright roof colors make a house seem higher. Dark, neutral colors have the opposite effect. New pastel colors in asphalt shingles suit homes in low-rambling, modern architectural style.

2. On the side walls, light colors make a house look larger and dark ones make it look smaller.

3. If trim is painted to match exterior walls, the house will seem larger.

4. Use an accent color on front and back doors. For a small house, it is often best to paint the walls in a light color and then select a dark, contrasting hue for the accent.

5. If the architectural proportions of a house are good, why not do whatever you can to call attention to them? Do this by using contrasting colors. For example, to emphasize over-all proportion, you might select pure white trim in contrast to a mustard-yellow body tone.

6. Disguise bad features with color too. This can be done by painting them the same color as surrounding areas.

THE COLOR consultant makes these suggestions for the interior:

TO COLOR STYLE a long, narrow room, paint the end walls lighter and brigher than side walls. Lighter colors seem to come closer.

1. A narrow room or a narrow hallway will seem wider if the end walls are brighter in color than the sides.

2. A boxy room will lose its square look if two opposite walls are painted a darker, more neutral color than the other two.

3. In a small home, if connecting rooms are painted the same color, a feeling of continuity and spaciousness will be established as one room flows into another.

4. To absorb strong, south light, paint the wall opposite south windows a dark color such as forest green or navy blue.

5. The ceiling on the interior serves the same fourth dimensional function as the roof outside. If a low ceiling is painted lighter than the walls, it will seem higher. A dark ceiling will seem lower.

6. In a small room, it's advisable to paint woodwork to match the walls. This makes it part of the background.

Deaths From Drowning Being Reduced Yearly

WASHINGTON (UP) — The nation's death rate from drownings has been cut in half since the American Red Cross began its famed water safety program 40 years ago.

The program began in February, 1914, with one instructor. Today, there are more than 35,000 authorized instructors of swimming and life-saving courses.

Although more than 9,300,000 Americans have completed swimming and life-saving courses, drowning still claims some 7,000 lives a year, and the Red Cross feels it has a long way to go before it reaches the goal proclaimed in its slogan:

"Every American a swimmer, every swimmer a live-saver."

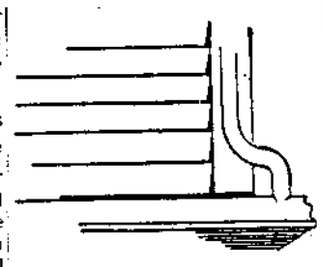
YOUR HOME . . . Today and Tomorrow

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

Among the really essential items which are frequently omitted from the small houses being built today are the gutters and downspouts. These are sometimes referred to as leaders; because they lead the roof drainage to the ground below, and prevent it from cascading down the walls of the house and building up over the window and door frames.



As finances permit, the owners of such a house usually install the gutters and leaders themselves after they have moved in and had a chance to look around and see what is missing. More often than not the amateur homeowner will install the leaders without very much thought as to the effect they have on the appearance of the house.

In the illustration above, it may be noted that the leader at the end of the house is improperly placed and spoils the clean line of the building. Another leader is shown to the left of the doorway and is likewise improperly placed. Both of these leaders are too prominent and are breaking up the otherwise nice lines of the building with too obvious vertical lines.

The proper way to install leaders or downspouts is shown in the lower drawing. They should be brought over from the end of a gutter, as illustrated, and run down in front of the corner board in the case of the end gutter. The gutter near the door should be installed in the corner. With the required elbows costing about 35 cents each, one might just as well do the job properly and not spoil his house with an amateurish job. It should be quite plain to any one that the front of the house would be definitely better looking if this advice were followed.

An excellent idea before adding anything to your home, is to look at an expensive house and see what the builder has done. The cost is nothing, but the information invaluable.

(The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Carrier Crewmen Avid Railroad Fans

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UP) — The aircraft carrier U.S.S. Lake Champlain is the floating home of 20 enthusiastic railroaders and a highly elaborate railroad "pike."

Cmdr. Wilmer E. Rawie bought some model railroad equipment in the fall of 1952 and soon had an enthusiastic club of model railroaders on board the "Champ."

While the ship was in Korean waters, the club members laid out 156 feet of track and made their own engines, railroad cars, switches, terminals and other equipment. The cars are all "privately" owned by their makers.

At one end of the pike is a miniature round house that will accommodate three engines on an electrically operated turntable. An elaborate block system with 21 electrically operated switches runs the whole works.

The pike took a year of work and was formally dedicated by the ship's skipper, Capt. Leonard B. Southerland, who drove a golden spike to christen it.

Indochina Cease Fire Plea Renewed

HANOI Indochina (AP) — The French today stepped up radio pleas for a brief cease fire to permit planes to move their wounded from Dien Bien Phu But the Vietminh continued their constant bombardment of the besieged northwest Indochina fortress

The French high command formally accused the Communist led rebels of flagrantly ignoring red crosses marked transport planes flying mercy missions

French Cmdr in Chief Gen. Henri Navarre appealed personally in a broadcast to Vietminh Cmdr Gen Vo Nguyen Giap and gave assurances the red cross marked planes would be used only for carrying out wounded

Spring Tonic

In olden days, this would have been the time of year for spring tonic.

Either sassafrass tea or the sulphur-and-molasses treatment would have been given to the victims of sluggish circulation. Thereupon, they would have felt better, if only to ward off a repetition of the cure.

Sassafrass tea and sulphur and molasses have gone out of style but victims of sluggish circulation now have recourse to more modern means of bringing about the same effect. Whatever the means, no one ever has doubted the psychological effect of a "new lease on life" in springtime.

This comes to mind while economic analysts carry on their statistical mumbo-jumbo over trends in the springtime of 1954. To hear some of them talk, especially if their talking has a tinge of opposition politics in it, the national economy is sick.

But the idea persists that the sickness may be like the kind which used to respond to spring tonic—that it may be nothing more serious than the hangover from a hard winter.

It is time now for a seasonal adjustment which traditionally has made everybody feel better. And when everybody feels better, everything seems to be better. The sluggishness which has been preying on the fears of the apprehensive can be dispelled as much by mental as by physical means.

The fact is that a spring tonic for business enterprise is as traditional as a spring tonic for human beings.

March has marked the end of the doldrums and April the beginning of a spring upturn.

One Way Out

An agreement between Ohio and Tennessee covering each state's special tax on heavy trucks offers one possible way out of the deadlock created by Ohio's axle-distance tax.

This so-called third-structure tax is collected from out-of-state trucks which do not pay Ohio license fees. Reciprocity agreements made between this state and other states cancel out the license fees on the assumption that Ohio truckers use out-of-state roads about as much as out-of-state truckers use Ohio roads.

But the axle-distance tax was enacted for an entirely different purpose — to collect payments from out-of-state truckers in direct proportion to the size of their vehicles and the distance they traveled on Ohio Roads. This was to be done by the axle-distance tax, one of a number of special taxes designed to do the same thing for the various states.

Tennessee's special tax was based on the use of gasoline — road-mile tax. It amounts in practice to a 1.4 cents-per-mile highway use tax for trucks traveling in Tennessee. Under the agreement just made, Ohio truckers will pay Tennessee's special tax if Tennessee truckers will pay Ohio's special tax.

There will continue to be reciprocity on license taxes.

The Federation of Tax Administrators reports that more than a third of the states have some variety of taxation based on highway use. There is nothing unique or peculiar about Ohio's need for revenue to develop and maintain the good roads needed for modern transportation.

All states have the same problem and ultimately all of them will have to try to solve it.

Men Made the Clocks

A professor in the Ohio State University has thought up such an unusual argument against daylight saving time, which begins the last Sunday of April, that he should be given one of these 10-day clocks for his originality.

Clocks should not be set ahead to take advantage of the long daylight hours in summertime, he says, because it would upset metabolism. Since the time issue is getting hot in Columbus, this claim about metabolism will get kicked around in the forthcoming debate along with a lot of other foolish claims.

Most of the foolishness stems from a misconception about the time now in use. Most people seem to think it came out of Holy Writ.

It came from the American Association of Railway Managers in 1883. The only way to run railroads in a big country like this was to divide up the space into time zones—eastern, central, mountain and Pacific—each representing one hour of time. So the railroads did it that way.

In 1918, Congress adopted the railroad plan. When it was made evident that states and communities were going to reserve the right to set aside the railroad plan, perfectionists began to worry and have worried ever since over state and local sovereignty in the field of clock-setting. They would prefer to give Congress absolute authority over clock-setting.

Chief among the worriers have been the railroads, who started the whole thing. Before 1883, Americans had gone by their numerous versions of sun time, and chaos was the rule. What it must have done to metabolism would make an Ohio State professor in 1954 ask for a sabbatical year to avert a nervous breakdown.

U.S.-Canadian Relations

Pearson's Speeches Puzzle Official Washington

There's something strange and even ominous developing in the relations between Canada and the United States. Either mischief-makers inspired by Moscow are working behind the scenes to cause friction between the two neighbors or else some of those in charge of Canadian foreign affairs are singularly inept in their dealings with the American government.

On January 12 last Sec. Dulles made a speech of transcendent importance in New York City before the Council on Foreign Relations, and in that address he made it clear that the "way to deter aggression is for the free community to be willing and able to respond vigorously at places and with means of its own choosing." He went on to say that the President and the National Security Council had made a "basic decision," which was "to depend primarily upon a great capacity to retaliate instantly, by means and at places of our choosing."

These were plain words and, when they were uttered, there was not at first any tendency to question them. But gradually, after several weeks had passed, the quibbling started in various parts of the world and there began to be questioning as to what was meant.

Then, on March 15, Lester B. Pearson, Canada's minister for external affairs, made an address at the National Press Club in Washington, in which he asked what was meant by the words "instantly," and "means," and "our." He added that "To put it bluntly, agreements on policies and tactics and timing are essential if this policy of preventing aggression by the threat of immediate and overwhelming devastation is to work collectively."

HE REMARKED, too, that the United States may have to go it alone unless it consults its allies on its new plan of massive retaliation. He declared that "collective action means collective consultation."

Now, between January 12 and March 15 — the period between the Dulles speech and the Pearson speech — is about nine weeks. At any time during that period Canada's minister for external affairs could have picked up the telephone at Ottawa or taken a plane to Washington and asked for a definition of the Dulles speech or requested the Canadian minister in Washington to go to the State Department to find out just what the secretary of state meant by his New York speech.

Why did it become necessary for Dulles on March 16 — the day after the Pearson speech — to tell the newspapermen at his press conference that, of course, there would be consultation. He said he had made everything clear in his New York address. He added that he did not believe we should tell the enemy in advance where and when we will retaliate. There seems to be a concerted drive in different parts of the world to get military information about the precise way the United States will act if attacked.

PRIME MINISTER Churchill was specifically questioned on March 23 in the House of Commons about the same speech by Pearson.

Churchill replied that Britain had made "smooth and friendly" arrangements for consultation with the United States and that it had been decided ever since January 1952 that there would be consultation with reference to the use of the air forces of the United States in Britain. He refused to give any military details when pressed by a Labor member and merely said recent statements by Dulles have been in full accord with British-American understanding.

Now, in the March 5, 1954, issue of "U. S. News & World Report," in a copyrighted interview which appeared at least two weeks before Pearson made his speech in Washington, Adm. Radford, chairman of the U.S. Joint Chief of Staff, was asked:

"Do we have good coordination with Canada?"

"Excellent," replied the admiral, "Because the United States and Canada must be alert to the common threat, we are working side by side to develop the most effective air defenses possible. Our task is made easier because, basically, we are old traditional friends."

THEN WHAT was all the speech-making about? Why all the headlines over Pearson's speech saying the United States might go it alone and that "The great coalition which we have formed for peace" could mistakenly "be replaced by an entrenched continentalism which, I can asure you, makes no great appeal to your northern neighbor as the best way to prevent war or defeat aggression."

This is not the first time a Pearson speech has caused puzzlement. He made one a few months ago pointing out that Communism had entrenched itself in Asia and implying that the United States had better adjust itself to that fact.

Other statements from the Canadian foreign minister have been construed here to mean that Canada wants to see Red China admitted to the U.N., but the Canadian prime minister has officially denied any such intention. The latest speech by Pearson is the biggest mystery of all.

Dear Nephew: We are glad to hear you finally decided to blow yourself to that toy you have wanted ever since you lived in the country. We do not think you should use an apologetic tone when you talk about it.

I have often said to your dear old aunty, who never has complained about any of my more or less inexcusable foibles, that you worried me because you had no visible vices.

When you quit smoking, you began to strike me as too abstemious for your own good. A man is entitled to have enough vices to make him conversationally interesting.

When I think back over interesting people I have known it was usually because of their vices. You remember Reverend Hogan, of course. There was one of the most interesting fellows I could have known if I had lived to be a thousand. He had two vices—fishing and gossip. He could hold me spell - bound by the hour telling about the ones that did and didn't get away.

Years ago I got pretty well acquainted with a semi - professional gambler who specialized in card games. With him, card - playing and gambling made a vice. He never ran out of stories about his adventures at the gaming tables, though he and I never even played a hand of rummy.

So you see what I mean — what we mean — when we say we're glad you blew yourself to this toy you have been talking about. I am only sorry for your sake it isn't as big as the one Arthur Godfrey was riding on tonight when he was on TV. But then, on the other hand, you aren't on a national hookup either.

Your junior - sized edition will be good for you this summer. Isn't it fortunate it is painted red, which is just what you've always wanted? I am looking forward to seeing it, and you must promise to let me ride on it as long as I want to when I come to see you.

I had seen some of the clippings you sent in your last letter, but it was interesting to see how so many writers who have no connection with one another are trying to gain historic perspective on the matter in the same way — by flashbacks in their own thinking.

Perhaps we won't be able to prove our contention that most of our troubles would be over if we assumed a more mature attitude about our own experiences with government since 1789. But I feel absolutely sure no one can prove we are wrong, either. I liked your idea that to ignore history in a self governing country is as foolish as it would be if a volunteer fire company failed to take advantage of what other firemen had learned about fighting fires.

We have drawn some history books out of the library in town and are reading up on some of the passages you think would be helpful. After all, if they helped you they must be mighty helpful, because I recall that history was not your Sunday suit when you were struggling to get a diploma.

Your aunt has been after me to wash windows but I refuse to lift a finger until the weather becomes more settled. What we haven't been able to see through since last December say stay turgid a few more weeks as far as I am concerned. Distribute my regards in fair shares.

Congress Has Duty To Investigate

By Raymond Moley

I should not use valuable space to explain and defend the right of congressional committees to investigate if I had not heard in recent weeks, from apparently sane and educated people, some strange and dangerous talk.

For this tremendous hullabaloo, not to say national madness, about "you-know-who" has moved some people to wonder why Congress should investigate at all.

To question that right is to challenge the entire concept of representative government and the Constitution which gives meaning to that concept.

I shall avoid the academic process of quoting authorities past and present. A bit of common sense will do. Congress must be our means of control over the vast bureaucracy which is directly responsible to the President.

IT MUST through its committees, maintain a constant surveillance over that bureaucracy. For politically constituted executive department cannot be trusted with the exclusive power to police itself.

No man can be a judge in his own cause. The courts cannot be the means of control for they get before them only what private citizens or politically appointed prosecutors may bring to them.

The FBI is responsible to a politically appointed attorney general. The press can print what it knows, but its access to information is limited.

Congress investigates for two purposes: first, to get the information necessary to guide it in making laws; second, to determine how its laws, including its appropriations, are being carried out.

THE PROCESS through which it gathers this essential information through scores of committees and subcommittees is the heart of our free government.

That continuous process of committee hearings should be and generally is carried on in a true spirit of courtesy and co-operation between members of Congress and members of the administration.

It would richly reward any American to examine in detail the work of just one subcommittee. Take, for example, the subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee which deals with the Interior Department. Its hearings extended over several weeks in 1953.

The record of those hearings fills four volumes — some 2,500 pages. The chairman, Ben Jensen of Iowa, was the essence of courtesy. The members of the Interior Department who testified were equally fair and co-operative.

THEN MULTIPLY this mass of laborious work many fold, and you have a picture of government at work. There is no alternative to such a process of making government responsible to the people except dictatorship.

The tragedy of it all, however, is not the occasional person who in his ignorance or excitement cries out against Congress and all its works. The real injury comes from those who know exactly what they are doing when they traduce Congres sand exalt what they call "executive leadership."

There have been such voices before in nations which abandoned parliamentary government, only to find that the "leader," in whatever language it was expressed, ultimately led his people to tragic ends.

H-Bomb Tests Involve Risk

By DAVID BARNETT

Tests of H-bomb devices will go on as scheduled despite some risks to "innocent bystanders" pointed up by the unexpected force of the March 1 explosion.

Rep. Cole, chairman of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee, said he has received no indication of any change in plans for the tests.

The committee and members of the Atomic Energy Commission are expected to witness the next explosion, due sometime within the next two weeks.

Cole said he was "confident every precaution would be taken" to make sure the tests did no unintended damage.

A government official, who asked that he not be identified, admitted, however, that the AEC, even before the March 1 explosion had given thought to the possibility that a "freak combination of variables" could "focus" some destructive byproduct of an H-bomb device explosion as far away from the Pacific proving grounds as the American mainland.

Asked whether that meant a test blast could result, for example, in serious atomic radiation burns in California, he said:

"Theoretically, that is possible, but so many factors, including atmospheric conditions, would have to fit together in a freakish pattern, that it's unlikely."

The force of the March 1 explosion, reported to have been 500 times that of the Hiroshima atomic bomb, caused a "fall-out" of radioactive particles that burned 264 American observers and natives of the Pacific island who had been removed to an area presumed safe. It also spewed radioactive ash on Japanese fishermen who were in or near the atomic proving ground in the Marshall Islands and caused higher than normal readings on radiation measuring instruments in Japan.

Rep. Holifield, a member of the joint committee, indicated that the blast, in some respects, had been "out of control." Cole, however, refused to say that the explosion was larger than had been anticipated.

Other members of the committee, atomic scientists and government officials—none of whom would permit quotation by name—agreed that although the blast was tremendous, it did not approach the magnitude required to start a world-wide chain reaction.

Many of those checked, admitted the tests even though held in such a remote place as Bikini, involved some "risks" of damage to "innocent bystanders."

None expressed any belief the tests should be stopped because of these risks. As one put it:

"There's a risk of sorts everytime you shoot a cannon. There's a risk when a plane lands in an airport in a big city, but you don't suggest that all planes be grounded."

One of those questioned suggested in a facetious tone that the government might have to set up a special fund and a special staff to take care of claims for atomic damages made against the United States by foreign nationals.

A State Department counsel, in response to questions, pointed out that there was ample precedent for claims of that type. He recalled a case in which fumes from Canadian smelters damaged apples in an orchard in the State of Washington. That claim was negotiated without bitterness between the two governments.

The radiation burns on the Japanese fishermen, however, have enraged and frightened some segments of Japanese public opinion, although, Sen. Pastore said, the seriousness of the injuries had been exaggerated. The senator, a member of the joint committee, recently returned from the Far East, where he inquired about the fishermen.

Cole said any claims to damages filed by the fishermen would not be paid until the extent of the United States' responsibility in the matter had been determined.

Watch Out Below!

We have just begun to receive verdicts from our Moscow spies on the first whisky ever produced in Russia and put on sale there with flourishes and ruffles. The made-in-Russia whisky was offered to the Soviet peoples with pamphlets giving the history of the drink, the details of its manufacture and an endorsement of its taste and effects.

The first five candid reports to reach us follow:

Agent No. 1.—I tried one highball made with the Soviet whisky. Now I know how it feels to be shot down in a border incident.

Agent No. 2.—I went to a Russian cafe with two friends, knowing that testing the Soviet whisky was a job beyond the call of duty. I used one friend as a scout and the other as stretcher-bearer. I asked for a straight shot. The waiter poured it out. This is the first time I ever saw a glass catch fire!

Agent No. 3—I asked for a Moscow rye on the rocks. Of course I was prepared to have my mouth burn, but was surprised to take one sip and see my wrist identification disk melt.

Agent No. 4—Just tried a Malenkov Cocktail. I became a satellite state in two minutes, after taking a compulsory eight count. One drink and you're vetoed.

Agent No. 5—If the Russians attack with this whisky at Geneva we are sunk. Could be a new mystery weapon. Urge Eisenhower that in his "new look" we consider immediate retaliation with a double Martini.

Laugh of the Year is the New York State legislators' action in passing a bill for a Code of Ethics at almost the same time it crossed up the general public, knuckled down to the insurance lobbyists and played smelly politics by giving the green light and all-clear signal to the "Hit and Sneer Drivers". Fancy talking about ethics and killing a law that would take the reckless, irresponsible potential killers off the highways where they are free to put everybody else in deadly peril and shrug off death and injury with a "So what?"! . .

We suggest to the lawmakers of New York that they garnish the code of ethics with applesauce and serve it with baloney fritters.

Associate Justice William O. Douglas of the U. S. Supreme Court made a 184-mile hike recently. Both feet dissenting?

We hear that President Eisenhower, recently found in a sandtrap breaking up all his old clubs, explained that he was just taking a "new look."

Chrysler is out with a "dealer enterprise plan" which is the talk of automobile circles.

Company will finance new agencies for young live-wire men, just as oil companies finance gas stations. Viewpoint is that the greatest need of the auto business today is alert salesmanship and a blitzing of the cold, indifferent, smug routines that have grown up over the past 10 or 15 years in countless agencies. Public is fed up with the chesty, lackadaisical attitudes of car salesmen and salesroom managers, especially the older operators whose habits are not easily changed.

Youthful dealers with marked selling ability and good backgrounds are the answer, the Chrysler Company feels. . . . (But the big question is whether it wouldn't be too great a shock to car buyers today to bump into a car dealer who would reflect a little warmth, get up out of a chair and perhaps even take a prospect's address.)

An outstanding speaker, Rev. Laurence H. Hall, Cleveland, and the presentation of new officers for the first time highlighted the annual banquet of the Galion Chamber of Commerce, Wednesday night at St. Joseph's social hall. About 200 were present. That humor is an asset in business, and the part that humor plays in living, was emphasized by Rev. Hall. He is senior canon-in-charge of Trinity Cathedral, Cleveland. He pointed out that there are few people who can laugh with the people that laugh at them—that it is an achievement to find humor even in the bad situations and to realize that things are never as bad as they seem.

Carl Glass is the new president of the Galion Chamber of Commerce for 1954-55. He is purchasing agent at Perfection Steel Body Corp. Others who were introduced are: vice president, Charles Schultz, manager of the J. C. Penney Store; treasurer, Paul Nollen of First Federal Savings and Loan; and Mrs. Dorothy Rowley, secretary. Mrs. Rowley was re-elected.

Richwood

Mr. and Mrs. Ray C. Johnson celebrated their golden wedding anniversary March 21 with a family dinner at their home, northeast of Richwood. With them were all three of their children, Mr. and Mrs. Roy A. Johnson and son, Johny, of Richwood, Mr. and Mrs. Verne Lynch and daughter, Nancy, of Martel and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith of Cocoa, Fla. and their grandchildren; Mr. and Mrs. Ken Loyer and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Downs, great-grandchildren, Cal and Becky Jane Loyer, all of Martel.

Following the dinner, the family went to the home of their son, Roy A. Johnson, here where the children held open house for the celebrants from 2-5 and 7-9 p.m. Guests called from Richwood, Martel, Green Camp, LaRue, Delaware, Radnor, Dayton and Bucyrus and Cocoa, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were married 50 years ago, March 22, in Green Camp by Rev. Levi Davis. Mrs. Johnson is the daugher of the late Albert and Rebecca Howison and Mr. Johnson is the son of the late Peter and Mary Jane Johnson. Mr. Johnson is still farming. They are members of the Richwood Central Methodist Church.

On Monday night, the Johnsons were guests at a family dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Verne Lynch of Martel. Also attending the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Johnson and son of Richwood, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith of Cocoa, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. Ken Loyer and family and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Downs of Martel. The dinner marked the Johnson's anniversary and also the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Roy Johnson.

Tritium Employed

H-Bomb Explosive Used To Trace Body Growth

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The H-bomb explosive, tritium, is showing that our bodies are more on the lazy side than suspected.

The chemicals which make up living bodies are not being continuously and rapidly torn down and renewed, studies with tritium indicate. Rather, it seems a majority of the chemical bricks of life are renewed only slowly.

The tritium work was described to the American Chemical Society today by Roy C. Thompson and John E. Ballow, radiological science department, General Electric Co. at Richland, Wash.

Tritium is triple-weight hydrogen, and is radioactive. It is an explosive for the H-bomb. But it has peaceful uses, too. Tritium can be incorporated in water or other chemicals and traced by the rays it emits as it goes through the body or emerges in jobs in the body.

Thompson and Ballow fed water containing tritium to rats, starting with the mothers before they conceived and continuing until the baby rats became six months old.

Some tritium from the water became the hydrogen part of organic chemicals in the rats' bodies. It appears that some 20 to 40 per cent of the hydrogen in these body chemicals is derived from the water drunk.

The rate at which tritium disappears later from these organic chemicals makes it possible to estimate how rapidly the chemicals of life are being renewed.

Earlier studies using deuterium or double-weight hydrogen as a tracer indicated that most body compounds were in a state of continuous, rapid renewal.

Hurried Cooks Favor Cheese Recipes

Combined With Sauce, Macaroni, It Makes Tasty Lent Dishes

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Ever feel there's something comforting about a familiar recipe? It's a relief to cook a dish you are sure your family will like. To use a method of preparation you can't go wrong on? You love the idea of relaxing in the kitchen, but you still want to get compliments at the lunch or supper table"

Here are two recipes for cooks with a yen to take it easy for a change. Both of them are simple new versions of favorite old dishes. Both feature cheese and are fine for Lent.

This new version of Macaroni and Cheese is made one - two - three in a saucepan If you serve it as a luncheon dish, follow it with a fruit salad. At this time of year a combination of apple-grapefruit sections (fresh or canned), pineapple chunks (fresh or frozen) and banana is just right. Garnish the salad with your family's favorite dressing.

Our Cheese Rabbit packs in extra nutrition with nonfat dry milk. You can add almost anything on hand to the cheese sauce, once it's made: leftover cooked vegetables, slices of hard-cooked egg, crabmeat, lobster or shrimp.

SAUCEPAN MACARONI AND CHEESE

Ingredients: 1 tablespoon salt, 3 quarts boiling water, 8 ounces (2 cups) elbow macaroni, ¼ cup butter of margarine, 2 cups (about ½ pound) grated processed cheddar cheese, 2 to 4 tablespoons finely grated onion (pulp and juice), salt and pepper, pimiento-stuffed olives (if desired).

Method: Add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water; gradually add macaroni so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Wash and dry pan in which macaroni was cooked; return macaroni to it. Add butter, cheese, onion, and salt and pepper to taste Place over low heat and stir gently until butter and cheese melt. Garnish with sliced stuffed olives if desired. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

NEW-STYLE CHEESE RABBIT

Ingredients: ½ cup water, 1-3 cup nonfat dry milk powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon paprika, dash of cayenne pepper, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ½ pound grated processed cheddar cheese, 1½ cups cooked vegetables or seafood or 4 hardcooked sliced eggs.

Method: Pour water into top of double boiler Mix nonfat dry milk powder, salt, paprika, cayenne and mustard; sprinkle over surface of water. Beat with rotary beater until blended. Add cheese. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until cheese melts and mixture is smooth. If vegetables or seafood are used, add and heat thoroughly. If eggs are used, spoon cheese sauce over toast points and garnish with sliced eggs. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

LENTEN QUICKIE. Macaroni and cheese which can be made and served in the same saucepan.

CHEESE RABBIT. It's nutritious for a meatless meal.

$25 Loss Reported In Two Fires Here

A chimney burning out resulted in a fire which caused an estimated $25 loss at the residence of Walter Cranston at 498 Scranton Ave. at 10:42 a.m. Friday. It was one of two fire alarms answered by city firemen.

Firemen from the W. Center St. station who answered the alarm reported fire from the chimney set fire to some clothing in an upstairs bedroom. They said the fire got into the room through a flue opening from which the cover fell off or was blown off.

Only other fire run was to the new shopping center at the corner of W. Center and Oak Sts. at 9:45 a.m. Friday. Firemen from the Central station answered the alarm and reported acetylene gas escaping from a steel tank caught fire with no loss The acetylene was being used by a welder to cut steel rods

Sorenson Drafts Improvements

Better State Fair Sought By Agriculture Director

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — You won't know the ol' state fairgrounds 10 years from now if plans being drafted by the state agricultural department work out.

The fair exhibits and concessions will sprawl over at least twice as much area as last year's fair which took up 135 acres. There will be buildings only in the dream stage today. It will be easier to get around the fairgrounds.

Those are some of the plans of Andrew Sorensen who took over as state agriculture director Jan. 8. The new state fair manager, Sam Cashman of Upper Sandusky, will begin work soon.

It's likely Sorensen and Cashman see eye to eye on fairground improvements because Sorensen spent much time in selecting a fair manager. He considers the post a fulltime job.

The late H. S. Foust was both state agriculture director and state fair manager.

No one has estimated how much it will cost to double the size of the fairgrounds, but it should be several million dollars.

One improvement out of the talking stage is the youth center building. Detailed plans now are being made and one million dollars has been appropriated for the building.

Sorensen wants a "master plan" for fairgrounds improvements so they can be made in an orderly manner, possibly over a 10-year period. The plan would be flexible enough so changes found necessary could be made later.

The youth center building should be under construction during this year's state fair—the 100th state fair and the 25th junior fair. But it won't be ready for use then.

The department gradually is buying the land it needs for expansion north of 17th avenue and across from the present fairgrounds. Part of this land last fall was used for parking.

Sorenson wants something going on every week of the year at the fairgrounds. It's used partly now during other than fair days, but Sorensen thinks it can be used more—if the proper buildings and facilities are there.

There's no reason why automobile shows, youth meetings, farm meetings and conferences, short courses in agriculture, various demonstrations and sporting events can't be put on at the fairgrounds, he says.

Maybe private groups such as the grange and others would help pay for their own buildings on the fairgrounds, he says.

He wants a bigger lake where children may fish during fair week, to replace the small lake there now.

Buildings would be re-arranged according to areas, with all like interests located in their own areas. And each area would have its own parking area so, for instance, horse show exhibitors could park their cars near where they exhibit their animals.

There could even be a fairgrounds transportation system to take fairgoers from one end of the fair to the other.

The race track needs lights, he believes, and many more benches are needed for weary fairgoers.

Traffic through the fairgrounds would move more smoothly through additional entrances and exits. Some of it could be one-way to keep vehicles moving.

And Sorensen would like to bring back the old-fashioned family picnic. He wants a wooded area where families can gather with their picnic baskets and eat in the shade.

Schine Slated For Graduation At MP School

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — With controversy still raging about him, Pvt. G. David Schine was to be graduated from a military police basic training school at Camp Gordon this morning.

The former committee investigator for Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis) now may get another crack at entering the criminal investigators school at Gordon, according to army officials in Washington. He was refused admittance to the school while in training.

Schine has been the center of controversy since the Army officially charged that McCarthy tried to obtain special privileges for the wealthy young New Yorker.

The Augusta Herald has quoted an unidentified source as saying Schine will remain at Gordon for a week in a receiving company before getting a new assignment.

Maj. Gen. W. H. Maglin, Army provost marshal general, has said he denied Schine's application for a criminal investigators course beginning May 17. But the general said Schine applied for a later course and action on this application is pending.

Maglin's statement came after the Washington Post and Times-Herald reported that the Army waived a length of service rule to accept Schine's application for CID training. However, the paper said yesterday that a tentative decision to that effect was reversed after the White House intervened. The paper quoted Pentagon sources who were not named.

Steel Firm To Double Its Capital Expenditures

CLEVELAND (AP)—Republic Steel Corp. plans to double the amount of capital expenditures it originally scheduled for this year, the firm's president, Charles M. White, said yesterday.

White, speaking before the Cleveland Advertising Club, did not disclose, however, how much Republic first had planned to spend. Last year the firm made capital expenditures of $21,700,000. In 1951, its peak year, the capital expenditures exceeded $123,000,000.

White said Republic has decided "We have got to spend more money to put steel in new forms."

Saxbe Endorsed By GOP Chairmen

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — William Saxbe, seeking the Republican nomination for U.S. senator in the May 4 primary, got the endorsement of the eight GOP chairmen in his home congressional district—the 7th—last night.

The Republican chairmen for Clark, Logan, Union, Champaign, Greene, Clinton, Madison and Warren counties endorsed Saxbe, whose home is in Champaign County.

The endorsement was announced by N. C. Bean of Urbana, a member of the state central committee which earlier endorsed Saxbe's opponent in the primary, Rep. George Bender of Cleveland.

EVICTION SUITS FILED

MASSILLON, O. (AP)—The Canton-Massillon Metropolitan Housing Authority has filed eviction suits against 25 families still living in the condemned Lawndale federal housing project here. The families have been unable to find housing because they are either out of work or in too low an income bracket, the housing authority said. The project was built during World War II on land leased from owners here.

Family Service Society Plans Parley Monday

Miss Marjorie Boggs, case consultant and director of casework of the Family Service Association of Cleveland, will open the Marion Family Service Society membership meeting at 8 p.m. in the YMCA.

An accredited social worker, Miss Boggs has been a practicing caseworker since 1923. She earned her master's degree at the School of Applied Social Sciences at Western Reserve University, and has been with the Cleveland agency during most of her career. She has had responsibility for directing its casework program since 1935.

She has been a caseworker, a supervisor, and a district secretary. She taught casework for six years at the School of Applied Social Science and pioneered in setting up field work internship for for students.

Well-known throughout the country for leading and directing workshops on social work, Miss Boggs will explain the service offered by a family agency. She knows from experience what can or cannot be done by casework service. She will talk, also, about the ways a friend, a neighbor, or someone equally close to a situation, can help the family in trouble to know about the work of the agency and how to go about getting this service.

Following Miss Boggs' talk, the meeting will be opened for questions from those attending. Presiding over the meeting will be Judge Edward J. Ruzzo, president of the local society. He and Mrs. Doris C. Maxwell, executive secretary, and Mrs. Anne L. McCuen, caseworker, will serve on a panel to dicuss and answer these questions. Acting as moderator for this panel will be Miss Boggs.

This meeting, which is open to the general public, has been arranged by the society's interpretation and public relations committee, headed by Mrs. John Waddell.

Three Marion Churches Join in 'Hour of Sharing'

Three Evangelical United Brethren Churches in Marion have announced observance of the "One Great Hour of Sharing," program for overseas relief, for tomorrow at morning worship services.

The congregations taking part in this work by receiving special offerings are Calvary, Oakland, and Greenwood. Through the denomination, the money will go to the interdenominational Church World Service organization which administers the funds for emergency relief and reconstruction among homeless, hungry and destitute peoples in needy areas.

Another activity in common for the churches next week will be branch WSWS officers training conference at Oakland Church Thursday at 1 p.m.

Student Nurse Capped

Miss Carolyn Fabian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fabian of 243 Superior St., was one of 66 student nurses capped in exercises held recently at Mt. Carmel School of Nursing.

Lighting Miss Fabian's Florence Nightingale candle was her mother, a graduate of Mt. Carmel School of Nursing and now on the staff of the Marion City Hospital.

A graduate of St. Mary Parochial High School in 1953, Miss Fabian entered training in September last year. She is a member of the student chorus of the hospital.

Germanium, a rare metal now used in electronics is recovered in fly ash produced in burning coal.
